SUMMARY.

Germany is said to have planned her offensive so as to coincide with an Austrian attack upon Italy.

In this connection capital importance is attached by the German Press to the meeting of the rulers of Germany and Austria.

The next blow is expected to be delivered by Germany on the Arras-Amiens front.

Considerable enemy artillery activity north of the Serre is officially reported.

On the southern portion of the British front and in the sector north of Kemmel it is also active.

Sir Douglas Haig reports hostile artillery fire in the Somme and Albert sectors, and between Locon and Nieppe Forest.

Eight tons of bombs were dropped around Menin, Armentieres, and La Bassee, also on Bruges docks.

Douai, Marcoing, and Chaulnes railway stations, Bruges docks, Bapaume, and Peronne were bombed at night.

French bombing aeroplanes dropped 7000 kilogrammes of projectiles on enemy railway stations, depots, and cantonments.

Chasing aeroplanes brought down two and badly damaged eight German machines on Friday.

There is mutual artillery fire at some points north and south of the Avre.

Detachments penetrated the German lines north of Moncey, in Lorraine, and brought back prisoners.

Aircraft from Dunkirk have successfully bombed the docks and seaplane base at Ostend, also Zeebrugge mole and lock gates.

Several direct hits were secured on sheds on the Zeebrugge mole. A large shed at Ostend was burnt out.

A seaplane engaged and drove off a Zeppelin in the North Sea after half an hour's fight.

The German navy, it is stated, will take part in the next phase of the battle on the Western front.

Admiral von Capelle, speaking in the Reichstag, said submarine warfare must finally win.

An official Mesopotamia message states that our mounted troops pursued the Turks beyond Kerkuk.

They were driven across the Lesser Zab, losing prisoners and guns.

Germany does not conceal her disappointment at the success of Mr. Lloyd George in the Maurice affair.

Italy claims to have beaten the Austrians off at Monte Corno, and inflicted heavy losses.

The separation of Imperial affairs from domestic matters of the Motherland will be urged by Lord Brassey shortly.

He favours the settlement of the constitution of the United Kingdom before discussing the government of the Empire.

Russia is said to be organising an army to fight Germany in the closing stages of the war.

The Acting Prime Minister attended the Premiers' Conference again, and discussed a number of questions.

Mr. Watt said Australia was getting a million and a half pounds less every year on account of soldiers being overseas.

He did not like the stoppage of per capita payments, but the States must bear their share of war expenditure.

The financial outlook of the Commonwealth was grave, and he asked the States not to press for payment.

Judgment was reserved in the application for the reinstatement of unions which suffered through the strike.

A total of 1250 recruits were enlisted in Australia last week. This is the highest number for more than 12 months.

It exceeds the quota by four. New South Wales contributed 570, Victoria 377, South Australia 109.

Five hundred and seventy recruits were accepted in New South Wales last week. On Monday 136 were secured.

A women's loyal demonstration will be held at the Town Hall on Empire Day. Speeches will be delivered by Captain Carmichael, M.C.

The principle of day labour was opposed by delegates to the annual conference of Master House Painters and Decorators.

Hoo-ville has decided to take two war ballots, to disclose eligibles and ineligibles in its midst.

A demonstration in the destruction of weevils in wheat was carried out yesterday with what was regarded as satisfactory results.

Delegates to the Federal Executive of the Town Planning Association were entertained by the New South Wales association.

It was stated that Australia's death-rate could be reduced from 19 to 12 per thousand to below 5.

Many men employed at Victoria Barracks, and found medically fit, have been discharged by the military authorities.

It having been found impossible to secure returned soldiers with clerical knowledge, girls are filling the vacancies.

Returned Soldiers' Day has been fixed for August 2. An effort is to be made to raise £7000.

Two thousand pounds will be handed to the Kindergarten Union as its appeal was to have been made up the same day.

Violet Day, in aid of the Soldiers' Club, will be held on June 14.

Military bands and other music will form a great attraction in Martin-place.

The Governor opened the Shires' Conference yesterday. One hundred and twenty shires were represented.

A resolution was carried in favour of shire councils being consulted before land was purchased for soldiers' settlements.

Ministers of several denominations attended the annual meeting of the City Mission yesterday, and praised its work.

Mr. Watt said yesterday he sympathised with the proposal of the Australian Scots Brigade Association to raise a kilted brigade.

He asked the association to forward details of a scheme to him for reference to the Minister for Defence.

A splendid property, valued at £1000, at Katoomba, has been presented to the Congregational Church.

The price for ball ammunition has been increased by the Defence Department to rifle clubs and other formations.

The demand for the better class and variety of boots has increased during the last four years in Australia.

Imported boots have advanced in price by 100 per cent. for patent leathers, and 300 per cent. for suedes.

Better skins are being obtained by Australia from India. Formerly Germany had almost a monopoly of them.

Yesterday a writ was issued for the Upper Hunter by-election. The poll will be taken on Saturday, June 8.

Lady Davidson made an appeal yesterday on behalf of the work being done by the Bush Book Club.

Mr. Bomphrey has been engaged in connection with the shipbuilding contract at the rate of £1500 a year.

A bankrupt builder said he lost £200 on a house he erected at Gosford for a client.

The men he employed were fishing or shooting most of the time. The foreman was as bad as the rest.

To-morrow at Liverpool Camp a military sports meeting and evening concert will be held.

Mr. Orchard intends to throw out "Strong Points" in connection with the welcome extended to returned soldiers.

Manly, he hopes, will send launches to the Heads to meet transports. He also favours bands, flags, bells, choirs, and rattles.

Imports to Australia last year were valued at £76,228,697, and exports from at £97,955,492.

Oils of all kinds are advancing steadily in price. Stocks are dwindling.

An animated market ruled for investments yesterday.

Forecast.—Still cloudy and unsettled, almost generally, with north-west to north-east winds, further scattered rain and thunder, but more concentrated on the western slopes.

VALUE AND EXCELLENCE. For EVERYTHING pertaining to LADIES' ATTIRE the Fashion Department at the NEW PALACE EMPORIUM SETS a HIGH STANDARD OF EXCELLENCE. When to this attribute is added LOWNESS of PRICE, the ADVANTAGE of SHOPPING THERE is APPARENT. Not only are the GOODS FRESH, but the VALUE OFFERED is EXCEPTIONAL. LADIES' NECKWEAR, MILLINERY, and GLOVES, in common with many other lines, have been SUBJECT to SEVERAL SHARP RISES in COST LATELY, owing to SHORTAGE of MATERIALS and LABOUR. The FULL INCIDENCE of the INCREASE, however, is NOT REFLECTED in the prices mentioned in this announcement, ANTHONY HORDERNS' BIG STOCKS, bought when lower prices prevailed, FURNISH the REASON. TEST THIS by COMPARING ANTHONY HORDERNS' FAMOUS LOW PRICES with those prevailing elsewhere for SIMILAR QUALITY goods; the DIFFERENCE in FAVOUR of the NEW PALACE EMPORIUM will be found to be CONSIDERABLE.

REMEDY FOR HIGH PRICES. BUY AT RILEY'S IN LIVERPOOL-STREET.

Peter Persnurkus, poet and philosopher, of the Daily "Sun," taking as his text the phenomenal prices that every day commodities are soaring to, picks up his banjo and sings:

The price of this, the price of that
Had soared beside him there,
Of meat, of fish,
And every dish
That little Mary well could wish
Whizzed upward at a frightful bat
To reach the upper air.

It is all very well for Peter to sing farewell hymns to old friends, but Mrs. Persnurkus has to carry on with Peter's same old pay envelope. And if she did not do all her shopping at Riley's, in Liverpool-street, Peter's banking account would suffer.

TO-DAY'S LIST OF PRICES IS A SPLENDID TONIC FOR SMALL PURSES.

LONGCLOTH AT 6/11 DOZ.
A very fair quality cloth, 31in wide. Durable and economical for family use. You can pay 10/6 doz elsewhere and get no better value. We could sell it by the piece if we wanted to. Our limit is 1 dozen yards. No deliveries and no mail orders.

UNBLEACHED CALICO AT 8/11 DOZ.
This is a very fine quality, and a gift at the price. You can bleach it yourself, and the value would be 12/ doz. Limit, 1 doz. yards. No deliveries. No mail orders.

DOUBLE BED SHEETING AT 2/11½ YD.
Worth wholesale to-day, 4/. It is a very good sheeting, plain, 80 inches wide. It isn't philanthropy on our part—its merely good business, because what is good for you cannot but help being good for us in the long run.

FLOOR COVERINGS AT HALF-PRICE.
This list will give you an idea of some very good bargains in the Linoleum and Floorcloth Dept. The price and the scarcity of these excellent Floorcoverings will soon leave only a memory of what used to be.

HALF-PRICE REMNANTS.

EXTRA DISPLAYS
OF

EMBRACING
HATS TO FIT EVERY OCCASION.

The Modern Woman may indulge in a Hat for every hour of the day if she so desires—for prices marked at this Great Millinery Display would allow her to do so without seeming extravagant.

Every section of the Millinery Salon has its quota of styles to offer. If you are a Sportswoman or a Motorist you will be attracted to the table of Chic Sports Styles.

If you require a high-class Felt for simple shopping wear, a large range of smart shapes awaits you. The White Felt Hats in particular will please you.

Should you be seeking something distinctive in Hats for Afternoon wear you will be lost in rapture over the creations that are marked "Models," but bear prices within every woman's scope. There are special Hats for rainy days. There are also countless styles in Hats for the growing girl and the tiny tot.

FOR A GUINEA—STYLES OF DISTINCTION.
The Guinea Millinery is well known for value. Made of Velvet, Silk, or Straw, in any desired colouring, and in smart styles as are here described:—

A GUINEA TRIMMED HAT, with medium crown, in softly folded Black Velvet, finished with bow at back, with a slightly drooping transparent brim in oxidised silver, bordered with velvet and trimmed with handmade fruit.
PRICE ... 21/
CHIC LITTLE GUINEA HAT, made with narrow mushroom brim and portion of crown in dark wallflower coloured cloth, the upper part being in a soft Brown shade of velvet with narrow ribbon and pretty beaded ornament to finish.

OTHER HIGH-CLASS TRIMMED MODELS.

GRACEFUL HAT MADE OF BROWN VELVET, in a very soft shade; the crown being made in folds with piped and gathered top, wide brim pipes at edge with wallflower shade and slightly tilted at back. Foliage in same tone, and hand-made berries in contrast lend a pretty finish.
PRICE ... 25/6
PRETTY HAT CARRIED OUT IN NAVY AND WHITE, the crown being Navy Cloth, with a smart brim of White plaited cloth, and raised slightly at side. A small wing in lime shade resting on edge of brim forms the only trimming.
PRICE ... 27/6
CHARMING LITTLE HAT IN BLACK VELVET, the brim being in the Jockey Cap idea, outlined with pale maize tinsel, this shade also forming the under brim; a tinsel ribbon band high on crown with hand-made berries forms the trimming of this pretty style. PRICE ... 35/6

THE "AUTO." HAT FOR
MOTORING, 12/6.

The Premier Motoring Hat of the Season is the "Auto." It is designed in the adaptable shape, with velvet lined brim that may be turned up or down at back or front; or uptilted at either side. The crown in New Millinery Satin is of the tam shape—there is a large range of colours, including Saxe, Champagne, and Rich Wine shade, a deep Violet tone, smart Navy and Green. A simple band and bow finish the crown. To be pulled close down on the head, dispensing with hatpins.
PRICE ... 12/6

WHITE FELT HATS,
WORTH INSPECTION.

A large range of the smartest shapes in White Felt Hats—Sailor Hats, adjustable shapes, mushroom brims—all of high-class quality.

RAINY-DAY HATS.

SMART RAINPROOF HAT, in fine quality Soft Leather, very light and good looking adaptable stitched brim, crown finished with pretty leather medallions. Shades: Bottle Green, Navy, or Wine.
PRICE ... 14/6.
Millinery Salon, Third Floor, Pitt-street.

WINGS AND MOUNTS.

A particular feature of interest is the display of Wings, Mounts, and Hackle feather trimmings showing to-day. These are exceedingly fashionable and very smart when adorning the popular felt hats. Black and White predominate; but there are also a few coloured wings. See special table to-day in Millinery Salon.

A SPECIAL CONSIGNMENT BRITISH-MADE CORSETS,

IN PALE AND DAINTY
PINK TONES.

For an inexpensive Corset of high quality, dainty in appearance and comfortable to wear, we recommend these splendid British-made Corsets. They are expressly designed to meet the needs of the average figure, well-boned throughout to give adequate support, yet of lightest possible weight. No woman can hope to attain the fashionable silhouette unless she pays attention to the subject of Corsetry, and in these British-made Corsets she will attain the desired result at an inexpensive price.
THESE ARE ALL BRITISH MADE.

FROM 8/11 TO 12/6.

PRICE ... 8/11
SPLENDID VALUE IN A GOOD LOOKING PINK ELASTIC MODEL, with low bust, free hip, durable boning, medium length of skirt to suit average figures. Sizes 19 to 26 inches wide.
PRICE ... 8/11
ANOTHER PINK COUTIL MODEL, with extreme low bust, well boned throughout, daintily trimmed. Sizes 19 to 26 inches.
PRICE ... 9/11
ATTRACTIVE MODEL IN PINK SPOTTED BATISTE, durable yet lightest possible weight, and giving good support for slim and average figures. Size 19 to 26 inches.
PRICE ... 10/6
A MOST ELEGANT MODEL IN PINK BROCHE, daintily trimmed; with superior finish throughout to suit average figures. Sizes 19 to 28 inches.

LADIES' FOOTWEAR

KEENLY PRICED.

TAKE ADVANTAGE OF YOUR OPPORTUNITY—NOW!

Those who have been following recent discussions in the Press cannot fail to be impressed with the almost fabulous prices which, according to these accounts, are being paid for Footwear.
As Merchants supplying High-grade Footwear to a large clientele, it is not seemly that we should indulge in a criticism of the prices charged by other business houses, but we feel that the moment is opportune to focus attention on the ruling in the Ball and Welch Boot Department.
These few, selected from among the new winter arrivals, will prove that the giving of special value has ever been the supreme motive in the B. and W. business policy.
Indeed, it may safely be said that many of these lines, having been bought advantageously, could not be purchased elsewhere at anything like these prices.
This one as a case in point:—

OAK HALLSTAND, 35/.

This has proved a very popular design in the furnishing of small flats, etc. It conforms to the present fashion for straight lines, and is certainly a handsome piece of furniture. A diamond-shaped bevelled edge mirror set in the back is very effective—and in addition to 4 antique hat or clothes hooks, and drip cups for umbrellas, there is a shelf to hold brushes, etc.

2ft wide ..... 35/ each

HANDSOME OAK HALLSTAND, 62/6.

This distinctive design can be supplied in either Fumed Style or Mission Colour. It is an article of furniture that would do credit to any hall anywhere, being pleasing to the eye, and decidedly well finished. It's appointments include a Circular-shaped bevelled mirror in back, 4 hooks for hats and coats, 2 drip cups for umbrellas, and a shelf for brushes, etc.

30 wide 62/6

MISSION OAK SIDEBOARD, £8/8/.

You'll realise that a master of his craft designed this handsome piece of furniture when you see it, for it is certainly something out of the common. Everything about it is good and artistic—even to the treatment of its Centre Recess. This Sideboard has 2 Drawers and 2 Cupboards, an attractive panel design back, relieved by a good circular-shaped bevelled edge mirror.

4ft 6in wide £8/8/

OAK DINING SUITE, £9/17/6.

An attractive 5-piece Suite that would look well in anybody's dining-room. The craftsman here has put much strength into his framework; but so artfully has he mastered the secret of retaining strength without sacrificing simplicity and elegance of outline that you don't realise the fact till somebody points it out. Altogether a very fine suite in the popular MISSION COLOUR, nicely upholstered in Red Fabrikoid. Suite comprises 1 large Arm Chair (rudder back), 1 Crafts Arm Rocking Chair (rudder back), 4 Dining Chairs, with lift-out spring seats.

5 Pieces for £9/17/6.

FUMED OAK SIDEBOARD, £13.

A very imposing piece of furniture is this—something that would suit a large room admirably. Strong enough to last a lifetime, yet fashioned on such admirable correct lines that art completely blends with strength in a very satisfying artistic manner. Ladies, if there's a big room you wish to fill without crowding a lot of furniture into it—see this Sideboard. It has 2 Drawers with shaped fronts, 2 Cupboard with it has 2 Drawers with shaped fronts, 2 Cupboards, with handsomely carved and proportioned top, supported by two massive fluted pillars.

PAIGE, USED CAR DEPOT, WORKSHOPS, AND GARAGE.

A new car depreciates from 30 to 50 per cent. the first year. A good, guaranteed, Rebuilt Car or Lorry, with a written guarantee, bought at the right price, is a profitable investment, that after years of service only shows a low rate of depreciation.
We have a number of the leading makes of Cars that we have taken as part payment for new six-cylinder Cars, at very reasonable prices. Write to us and we will send you full particulars.
These cars include some of the leading European and American makes. We have one of the busiest workshops in Sydney, manned by a select and experienced staff.
Call in and see us, and we will quote you for:—

The AEOLIAN-VOCALION

Unlike any other Phonograph—a new Musical Instrument embodying Organ, Piano, Band, Violin, Flute, and every other instrumental music plus the world's best in Song! . . .

THE AEOLIAN VOCALION will interest every phonograph owner since it represents such a remarkable advance in phonograph development.

It will interest those also who never have considered the phonograph seriously—the Vocalion tone is so clear, pure, so artistically perfect that it wins the admiration and respect of those qualified to judge music critically.

The instrument of to-day that supersedes the talking machine of yesterday

The wonderful expression device—the GRADUOLA—quite doubles the appeal of the phonograph. For it grants literally the privilege of SINGING with voices of the greatest vocalists, PLAYING with the tone of the most famous instrumentalists.

Come and comfortably listen to a fifteen-minute test. Therein is conclusive proof of Vocalion supremacy.

Prices from £9/10/0

Always an excellent assortment of new Records available.

CHAPTER XXII.—Continued.

She looked at him suddenly with piercing eyes.

"You don't think it will come to the worst, the very worst, do you?" she demanded fiercely.

Whatever he may have felt or feared, the Colonel was not going to cause fresh distress to this young creature by any show of doubt. He contrived to laugh, throwing back his head to make the most emphatic show of disbelief and scorn at the idea.

"Bless me, no," he said. "Of course, it won't. Don't you believe in—in——"

"In what?" asked she, as he stopped short.

"Well, in justice prevailing in the end?" he finished up rather lamely.

Birdie looked solemn.

"I'm sure I hope so," she said in a low voice. "Only I wish father and mother didn't look as they do, and that they would speak, instead of running away from us when we want to ask anything."

"It will all work out for the best, my dear. You must imagine their feelings," said he.

"Well, they ought to imagine ours," retorted Birdie.

And then there was a pause, and the door squeaked again.

Looking round, they saw Mercy's tall, graceful figure in the doorway. When she saw the Colonel she shut the door, and almost ran across the room to him.

"Oh, why didn't you come into the drawing-room? We are all so miserable there, and you would have cheered us up," she said.

It was strange that all pretence of ignoring the terrible misfortune which hung over them had disappeared. At the first sight of a sympathetic and friendly face, the poor girls grew confidential at once.

"I'm afraid I'm none too cheerful myself to-night," said the Colonel as he shook hands.

"You must be more cheerful than we are. If you were less cheerful than we are you'd be dead," said Mercy dismally.

"Dear, dear, don't say that. Cheer up. While there's life there's hope."

"Life; yes," echoed Mercy tragically.

And she shivered.

The Colonel frowned impatiently. If he was to get through the coming interview with any sort of credit, he must not let himself be frightened by the bogeys the girls were conjuring up.

"Come, come," he said uneasily, "you mustn't let yourselves get nervous and unhappy. We want you to keep the flag flying, and to show the bravest front you can. Let me give you this advice; it's the best thing you can do for—everybody."

"But it's not so easy," murmured Mercy.

"Of course not. Nothing that is worth doing is ever easy. But you may take it from me that your friends are working hard, and that there is hope that they will work sucessfully."

"If everybody were a friend," said Mercy, with a flash of indignation from her dark eyes.

The Colonel looked at her and wondered how much she knew about Todd.

"I think," he said gently, "that everybody is a friend now."

"Not Harrison Todd," said Birdie sharply.

The Colonel retorted energetically.

"You haven't a single friend," said he, "who would do more for you, if he could, than Todd. I know, for it was he who sent me here to-night."

The two girls came close to him, their eyes wide, their lips parted, full of excitement. And then the door creaked a third time, and Alice joined her sisters. They all crowded round the Colonel, hanging on his words.

"Why, it was he who—who began it all," cried Birdie.

"I know. And nobody could be more ashamed of himself than he is now. I suppose you haven't heard that he's made himself really ill over it!"

Serve him right!" said Birdie.

"You wouldn't say that, I think, if you were to see him now. He was in bed when I saw him, really right down ashamed of himself, and so anxious to do what he could to atone."

"It doesn't sound like Mr. Todd," commented Birdie.

"Why, no. He wasn't like himself at all. For once he realised, I think, that he was not the super-man he thinks himself, but only a very human and faulty one."

"He is the faultiest man I ever knew," said Birdie with decision. "He is all faults and no virtues, I think."

"You are too hard, Birdie, and you will know better some day. I never cared for the fellow, but I was sorry for him to-night. And so would you have been, for all your severity."

Alice touched the Colonel gently on the arm, and whispered:

"But can he do anything to help—now?"

"We are going to try. He has sent me here to see your father," mumbled the Colonel, who, in trying to put a bright face on the matter, could not forget that it was a difficult business.

"I wish we knew a little more about it all," remarked Alice wistfully, with her eyes on the Colonel.

But naturally he was not at all anxious to enlighten them.

"Don't worry yourself more than you can help," was all the comfort he could give her.

And then once more they all fell into silence.

They had managed so far to steer clear of any definite speech about the family misfortune. But the Colonel was wondering how long they could keep this up, and hoping every moment to be called to face his own particular ordeal.

Suddenly, in the silence, a sound in the hall outside reached their ears.

A door was opening in the distance.

There was a moment's pause, and then there were other sounds, the voices of men conversing, and their tread on the polished floor of the hall.

They all held their breath.

But the tension relaxed when they heard their father speaking in his everyday tones, cheerful, confident, buoyant. They stole glances at each other's faces. Surely then the worst was past.

Father could not speak like that unless the dreadful blow was going to be averted, unless Norton were safe.

They heard another voice, which they did not recognise, but which the Colonel knew to be that of Zachariah Moss, speaking in the deferential nervous tones of an inferior to the great man.

Then Luke Redcar's voice was heard again, jesting about the weather and the distance the other would have to walk, and the fear that he might have a bomb dropped upon him as he went.

The girls began to look happier. This man, then, whoever he was, who had visited their father at midnight, must have brought some good news.

The Colonel, who knew better, was more perturbed than ever by what he heard.

It was unnatural that Luke Redcar should jest at such a time.

He took care, however, to say nothing about his vague fears.

They all heard the front door open and the shipowner wish his visitor good night.

Then, after a pause, during which they knew that the front-door was being held open, they heard it shut.

Birdie scampered across the dining-room floor to one of the three great windows which looked out on the broad gravelled space in front of the house. The old-fashioned shutters had long since been done away with, and she drew aside one of the heavy curtains and peeped behind the blind.

"Birdie, don't!" cried Alice, whom only the presence of the Colonel kept back from a similar display of curiosity.

But Birdie was deaf to her remonstrance. She had seen enough of the man who was leaving the house to know that he had been there before, and that there was something sinister rather than encouraging about his visits. She turned a scared face to the others as she dropped the curtain and turned away from the window.

In the meantime the sound of Luke Redcar's heavy and decisive tread could be heard as he retreated after closing the hall door, and the Colonel expected every moment to see the door open and to receive an invitation to the study.

Instinctively indeed they were all watching the door together, and in silence.

But the steps did not come towards the dining-room, did not return to the study.

"Father's going into the drawing-room," cried Birdie.

"No. Hush. He's gone upstairs," whispered Alice to her sister.

There was another pause—a longer one.

Then they all heard the much softer footsteps of the butler as he went into the hall and then followed his master up the stairs.

In a few minutes he came down again and straight to the dining-room. Coming up to the expectant group by the fireplace, he said to the Colonel:

"Mr. Redcar will be down directly, sir, and will see you in the study. Will you come this way?"

The girls seemed reluctant to part with the Colonel, who shook hands with them all and followed the butler out of the room.

LIGHT HORSE VETERANS.

At the annual meeting of the First Light Horse Veterans it was decided to hold the annual dinner on October 19, the anniversary of the date the original regiment left New South Wales. It was also resolved to hold a social and concert on June 12.

BUILDINGS AND WORKS.

NEW REPATRIATION OFFICES.

When the buildings known many years ago as Dawes Battery were discarded by the Military authorities the land surrounding them was thrown open to the public as a pleasure reserve. This took place before the birth of the Commonwealth, so that when the Federal Government took over the military administration Dawes Battery remained in the hands of the State Government. The Battery itself was demolished and another portion was converted into the Water Police Station. The remainder of the building, known as the officers' quarters, was recently leased by the State to the Commonwealth Government as temporary Repatriation offices in connection with the Australian Forces. The buildings, which in the early days were strongly built of stone, are now being entirely gutted and remodelled, and additional structures are being erected at each end. These annexes are really an extension of the present building, with this difference, that the new portions are being constructed in wood and fibro cement. As the Federal Government has possession only on lease, permanent buildings will not be erected. The Minister in charge has made arrangements with the building construction branch of the State Public Works Department to carry out the whole of the improvements, estimated to cost about £6000, on a percentage basis. The centre portion of existing buildings when remodelled will be used as general and pay offices, in which there will be a large public space, with full accommodation for writing, etc. At one end of the old building the inquiries and records branch of the department will be located. Space for the branch rendering assistance to soldiers will be provided at the other end of the existing building. The annexe at the eastern end is now being erected. It is three stories in height, rendered so by the fall of the land. The basement portion will be set apart as a large waiting-room for the soldiers. At one end strongrooms will be provided, as well as a luncheon-room for the staff. On the ground floor will be located the department dealing with disabled men and the employment of returned soldiers; while on the first floor will be situated the women's waiting-room, matron's quarters, and luncheon and retiring rooms for the female staff. The western annexe will only be two stories in height. The ground floor of this building will be arranged as a lands and general office, with a main entrance from George-street North. On the first floor will be placed the board room, rooms for the deputy commissioner, and committee rooms. The buildings will be available for use in a few weeks' time.

GENERAL NOTES.

Increased accommodation is to be provided at the Waterfall Sanitorium. It is a large wooden building, lined with fibro cement, and open on one side. This building will provide accommodation for the patients from the Rookwood asylum.

Mr. Burcham Clamp, architect, has let a contract to Messrs. J. M. and A. Pringle, builders, to erect large warehouse premises in Clarence-street for Messrs. H. L. Hutchinson, Ltd.

Improvements and repairs are to be effected at the Public School and residence, at Frederickton. A new school building is to be erected at Tamworth, and another near Bowraville, where improvements are also to be made to the residence; and at Narellan both school and residence are to be re-modelled.

Messrs. Robertson and Marks, architects, have accepted the following tenders:—Alterations, etc., to a residence at Randwick—Mr. F. Hodgkins, builder. Erection of shop and flats at Bondi—Messrs. W. Grawne and Son, builders.

Mr. J. T. Darling, architect, has plans in hand for a residence at Northwood.

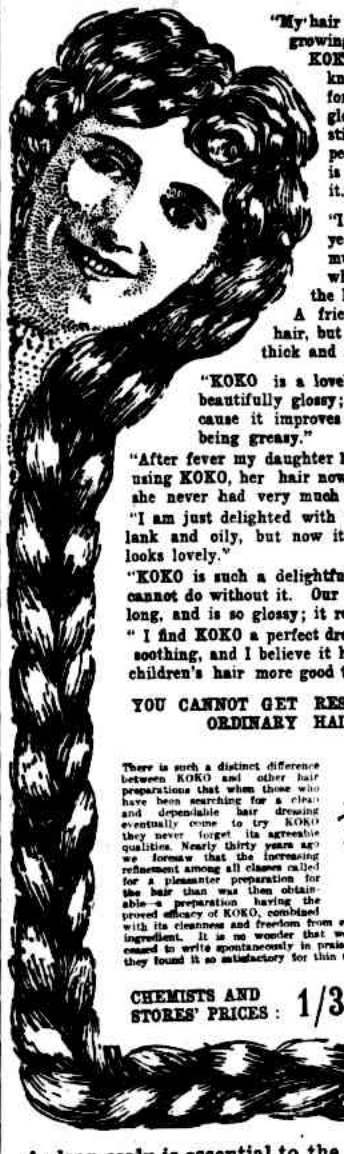
Telling you why KOKO is a Hair Preparation Women love to use.



"My hair was falling badly, but is now growing nicely again, thanks to KOKO, and is twice as thick. I know nothing to excel KOKO for making the hair bright and glossy, and at the same time stimulating the growth. If people knew how good KOKO is they would never be without it."

"I have used hair tonics for years, but nothing did my hair much good until I tried KOKO, which is a lovely dressing for the hair, and improves it greatly. A friend of mine had very poor hair, but after using KOKO it is quite thick and wavy."

"KOKO is a lovely dressing, making the hair beautifully glossy; but I like KOKO chiefly because it improves the hair so much without being greasy."

"After fever my daughter had her head shaved. Through using KOKO, her hair now measures 43 inches, although she never had very much hair before her illness."

"I am just delighted with KOKO. My hair used to be lank and oily, but now it stands out quite fluffy, and looks lovely."

"KOKO is such a delightful dressing, my mother and I cannot do without it. Our hair has grown so thick and long, and is so glossy; it really seems marvellous."

"I find KOKO a perfect dressing for the hair, so cool and soothing, and I believe it has done both my own and my children's hair more good than anything else." (Names given.)

YOU CANNOT GET RESULTS LIKE THAT WITH ORDINARY HAIR PREPARATIONS.

There is such a distinct difference between KOKO and other hair preparations that when those who have been searching for a clean and dependable hair dressing eventually come to try KOKO they never forget its agreeable qualities. Nearly thirty years ago we foresaw that the increasing refinement among all classes called for a pleasanter preparation for the hair than was then obtainable—a preparation having the proved efficacy of KOKO, combined with its cleanness and freedom from every disagreeable ingredient. It is no wonder that women have never ceased to write spontaneously in praise of KOKO when they found it so satisfactory for thin and falling hair.

CHEMISTS AND STORES' PRICES: 1/3, 2/9, 4/6

A clean scalp is essential to the health of the hair. A single shampoo with PI-NO will cleanse the scalp thoroughly of dirt and dandriff and leave it in a condition to grow bright wavy hair more abundantly. Sold in 3d packets by all chemists.

Lift Out Corns with Finger Tips! Callouses, too—Painlessly!

Treat with Few Drops—then Merely Lift Off that Painful, Achy Corn or Callous. Costs Not a Farthing per Corn.

Only a few pence will obtain for you a midget phial of FROZOL-ICE the wonder compound discovered by a brilliant chemist.

And isn't it worth it—less than a farthing per corn—to gain freedom from these wretched pests. Spread four or five drops over a sensitive corn. Immediately the pain disappears, and soon you can lift out that troublesome corn, root complete, with finger tips. Simplicity itself.

And fancy! There's not one twinge of pain whilst using FROZOL-ICE nor afterward. The healthy surrounding skin is never inflamed, nor even irritated.

All kinds of corns—soft, hard, or corns between the toes—also leather-like callouses on the soles of the feet, "give up the ghost" to FROZOL-ICE. They simply wither up and drop off

PINK CUSHIONS.

Rose-pink cushions lying plumply on black satin upholstery! What is there in those pretty but commonplace affairs of silk and gauged pipings to bring back with an almost poignant regret memories of days that once were? Days when the furniture of our sitting rooms, and the exact disposition of a chair pillow were matters of moment. When "the drawing-room curtains" were held to be an infallible test of taste, and the wrong shade of them would be a perpetual reproach and eyesore to the owner; when squabs and Chesterfields and loose covers were words as familiar to our lips as now are socks and parcels and buffet meals, and the really right way to address a soldier's letter. Were there ever days upon which we sat in pretty rooms, taking our ease in them, and our pleasure in the admiring and envious glances which our friends cast upon our belongings as they dawdled a whole afternoon away in tea drinking and gossip? Yes, there were such days, incredible though it now seems; there used to be, in that dim and half forgotten past, whole "pip emmas" (as it is now the fashion to call p.m.), to be lived through with nothing of any importance to be done. Long ago in a book dealing with correct deportment, the possession of "elegant leisure" was laid down as indispensable to the "perfect lady." But now women en masse would rise and scoff at such a distinction.

At the Palace Theatre, the sitting-room of the flat in which the heroine of the day, "De Luxe Annie," lives, comes with a shock of half-awakened memory upon the spectator, who had forgotten that frills and furbelows make rooms pretty, just as other frills and furbelows beautify the women who live in the rooms. Annie herself, with her loss of memory, finds a counterpart in many of us, who honestly have forgotten "what it feel like" to be what we were in 1913—and the other years which the locust hath eaten. When we looked at the dainty little scene we began to realise that several fashions in furniture have come and gone since we ceased to "sit up and take notice" of such things. For instance, the black craze has died down. It is used now in moderation to give that touch of distinction which only black can give.

Black and white and pink are still as popular as they used to be when every self-respecting woman had loose covers of black and white striped cretonne adorned with bunches of roses in pink or mauve or creamy yellow. But the stripe is now less insisted upon, and the cretonne or shadow tissue (if you can afford that expensive material) has a Jacobean feeling which is charmingly quaint. Mrs. W. H. Vanderbilt, of New York, has the most fascinating loose covers made of linen with broad awning stripes for the arm-chairs in a sitting-room, and this is supposed to have set the fashion in that direction. But it is, in fact, a Continental fancy. The Dutch and the French are fond of the pattern. But to be quite successful it requires everything in the room to be in keeping.

Like the lady whose husband bought her pearls as an economy, to reduce his taxable bank balance, our prosperous fellow citizens and fellow countrymen have not been at all neglectful of the furniture shopkeepers these last few years. Furniture orders have been large, and cheques in payment ditto. In spite of the fact that carpets are scarce and men to put them down still scarcer, yet there seem to be enough to go around at all events. Linoleum which we used to buy quite lavishly by the running yard, has proved that it was indeed a running yard, for it has almost vanished out of sight. There is hardly any to be seen, and there is no "cheap" linoleum now; only "dear," and "very dear." Yet there always seem to be enough square miles of it to cover the floors of the new flats which everybody is leaving their large houses to live in nowadays. The flat of real life and the flat of the stage are very much alike. In the dainty drawing-rooms stacked in perpendicular array one on top of the other in each block of flats there is a great family likeness. The flat dominates fashion in furniture to-day. In many ways the light graceful pieces are an immense improvement on the heavy antiques of the mahogany and rep curtain period, and there is this great point in favour of the pink cushion type of room. It is exquisitely clean-looking.

MELBOURNE NOTES.

The Attorney-General, Mr. H. S. W. Lawson, has stated that he favoured appointing two or three women as special magistrates for children's courts. He is examining the present law to ascertain whether there is power to make the appointments. He did not propose, at present, to appoint women justices of the peace to exercise general magisterial powers.

The Rev. Dr. Rentoul presided at an enthusiastic meeting of members of the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps, held at the Independent Hall, Collins-street, when enrolments in the corps were asked for. He expressed the opinion that this was a war in a special degree affecting womanhood. Women had taken part in it to a greater extent and in a more noble way than in any former war. Miss N. Martyn moved a motion that women volunteering for service pledge themselves to serve in any capacity that may be required of them by the Government for service at home or abroad. Other resolutions were also carried, to the effect that the W.A.A.C. should march in the Empire Day procession on May 24, and that the corps should help in the Red Cross drive. Mrs. Spencer read the draft constitution of the body, and stated that members could enrol at the offices of the Y.W.C.A. rooms, Russell-street.

The Army Nurses' Club, opened last year by Lady Stanley, has proved a very happy haven for hundreds of nurses in the military service. It has become a very popular rendezvous not only for nurses on transport service, but also for the women attached to the various home hospitals. Lady Allen and members of the Victoria League, who established the club, feel that the year's work has been most satisfactory. Since January 1 nurses from every State in the Commonwealth have visited this centre. Last month the club had a most distinguished visitor, Sister C. Deacon (Tasmania), one of the first four women in the world to obtain the Military Medal. For bravery displayed at Messines in July, 1917, she has the privilege of wearing on her every-day uniform a ribbon decoration showing blue, red, and white stripes. Shortly a roll of honour of all the nurses in Victoria who have volunteered for active service will be unveiled and placed in the clubroom. This is a gift from the Returned Soldiers' Association. During the year 1000 visits have been paid by nurses to the club, and 400 sisters have stayed at the club for periods varying from one night to a fortnight. Various members of the Victoria League have given cheques to Lady Allen to provide theatre tickets for army nurses passing through Melbourne who may not have relations or friends here to entertain them.

The Australian Women's National League is recognising the needs of invalided soldiers by establishing sun rooms at military hospitals, built on the lines of a rotunda, and so constructed as to enable the free play of the sun on cot cases. Tarpaulins slide over the roof, and movable shutters are designed to guard against draughts. One of the first has been completed at Caulfield Military Hospital, and has attracted favourable attention. An ornamental board bears the inscription: "Presented by branches of the A.W.N.L. as a tribute to Australian heroes."

FASHION AS SHE IS.

BLOUSES AND SHIRT WAISTS.

Just at the present moment nothing counts in the world of dress more than the fascinating new blouses and smart-looking shirts, worn by every woman. They all possess a great attraction and charm. I do not think that blouses have ever been in such demand as they are this season, every woman one meets is wearing a blouse of some sort or another, and not only for day wear. Our evening blouses are equally as attractive and becoming. Many of the tailored shirt blouses are fashioned of heavyweight Japanese or Fuji silk. Narrow or broad stripes play a conspicuous part, the pyjama-striped silken fabrics in a beautiful range of colours, which wash well, and seem to possess ever-lasting wear, one must certainly not overlook. They are one and all when made up distinguished by a wonderfully smart tailored effect. These blouses look extra smart worn with navy blue and green in a very dark shade—brown, grey, or black costumes. Simple white or ivory plain silks show the smartly turned down collar, not unlike the type men wear; in most instances a knotted black silk tie finishes this shaped collar. This kind of turned down silk collar looks extremely smart, and is trying its hardest to re-introduce and popularise the rather severely cut tailored shirt blouse. The well-fitting collar helps to give the blouse a smart and serviceable finish. In the plain tailor-made suits, which assume the features of a craze this season, collars vary in their designs. Another collar may be worn either high or low; and taking it quite apart from its practical possibilities, the idea is picturesque; this may be worn either with a tailored coat and skirt, or with a more elaborate affair. Crepe-de-Chine—in a good heavyweight, decorated with hand-worked silk stitching and a crepe-de-Chine tie of any other colour looks effective. The little moire silk bow tie adds a special charm to most of the blouses with the high turned-down collar. Other models show the new open rever collar, which lies flatly on the shoulders, leaving the front of the neck exposed. It may be made with two flat pleats running down either side of the front, the shoulder line shows special grace, and the flat-shaped back keeps in place and does not ruck up.

The double-breasted Japanese silk blouse is fastened with three pearl buttons, and boasts a smartly-cut yoke, fitting perfectly over the shoulders. "Spunella de Chine" is a new and attractive material. Celes washing crepe and the new wool pique delaine are also among the many different kinds of fabrics for the making of the blouses for present wear. The delaines, while thin and light to wear, help to supply just sufficient warmth on a chilly day, decorated with a square-cut collar, which adapts itself with ease outside any coat, and adds to the attractiveness of the costume. The ordinary square-cut blouses are a little trying to the present-day tailor-made garment.

There are other materials with a dark ground quite ultra effective in their becoming designs. Many are made in soft shades of grey, fawn-toned silk crepe, artistically patterned all over with small designs, showing touches of Japanese reds, and other Oriental shades of greens, yellows, and blues. Then, again, we may choose one of the new and dainty Paisley voiles, showing in exquisite tones of soft pastel shades. They prove economical where washing is in question, as they neither soil nor crush easily. There are the more "dressy" and flimsy blouses to be considered; the luncheon and little dinner or evening blouses boast a number of novelties in the way of designs and decorations. In these there is nothing so becoming as a soft silk Georgette, made with very large falling revers, and large collar, cut on picturesque lines, made up in mauve, champagne, ivory, shell-pink,—any of these shades suit this kind of loosely-fitting blouse. Another feature is the introduction of quite a new looking front, finished behind by a long cape-shaped collar; finely goffered or pleated Georgette may decorate the edges of the revers. These are specially suited for wear with a coat and skirt, as they form a delightful finish. The ninon blouse may be carried out in the shade of the suit, fashioned with a small V-shape opening in front. This is particularly adapted for fur-trimmed tailor-mades; it completely transforms the suit into a three-piece affair. A mole-coloured tailored pleated skirt boasted the same-toned ninon blouse, trimmed with hemstitched bands of navy ninon bands, square collar, and cuffs. The tailored mole-coloured coat also showed touches of navy; a large shoulder cape collar was fashioned in navy taffeta. The cuffs were carried out in a similar manner. The blouse matched the coat, and the whole proved a most delightful three-piece costume. A pale tinted blouse of Georgette showed a novel yoke, tiny pleats emerging from the yoke. The square-fronted band was daintily hand embroidered in blue-black, and slight touches of red.

Milanese gains in favour for the elaborate blouses; its softness lends itself so freely to the modern designs. A loosely-fitting Roumanian blouse showed a round yoke, carried out in black Malines. The deep round yoke was enlivened by delicate embroidery of dull gold thread, copper, and silver. There is a charm about a black blouse for evening wear. I was very much attracted by black ninon mounted over gold lace of a very fine tissue. The whole was lined with creme ninon, giving a very soft effect. A noticeable feature was the high-necked effect at the back. The front was of soft ecru lace; the collar was of black moire ribbon, edged with gold. This very effective trimming was also introduced on the front of the blouse and the cuffs. Black net blouses prove useful for any occasion. A jumper affair was in black net, rather heavily embroidered with threads of silver; a great attraction was in the trimming of jet; chains of this jet fell at the side and under the arm, reappearing as shoulder straps; the idea was uncommon and proved most appropriate. A strikingly attractive blouse, suitable for half mourning wear, was in a rich shade of Parma violet Georgette, showing a touch of lavender about it, a trimming with a fascinating design of light silver embroidery showed on the blouse; touches of fur outlined the collar; a silver girdle was loosely knotted in front, adding to the elegance of this jumper-designed blouse. Many of the jumper designs show no fastenings whatsoever, lending themselves to all manner of artistic treatment.

HELPING THE CHILDREN.

Devonshire-street Kindergarten has always deplored its lack of a playground, and now the City Council has granted a piece of Prince Alfred Park for that purpose, and given leave to the committee to build a school there. The terms are that the council will keep the playground in order, but the committee must provide the whole cost of the building. It must be worthy of its position, so the committee has set to work to earn the money. But to earn £1600—the estimated cost—is no light task, and offers of help by those who realise what a great gain the kindergarten will be to that part of the city will be gladly welcomed. Donors will help to shorten the time which must elapse before the children can get out from between four walls into the fresh air. Any contributions would be gratefully received and acknowledged by the hon. treasurer, Mrs. George Wright, Bangalore, Killara.

RECIPES ASKED FOR.

Boracic Ointment.—One ounce of white lard or lamb's fat, one teaspoon of powdered borax, one teaspoon of boracic acid; pound up well, and mix into the lard well, and put into a screw top jar. This is useful for cuts and cracks, or bruises, kept covered with a rag the wound heals quicker.

Honeycomb Toffee.—One lb of sugar, one dessertspoon of vinegar, ½ cup of honey. Wet sugar with water and boil fast a few minutes, add honey, and when it sets nearly hard on the spoon, stir in ½ teaspoon of carbonate of soda; beat up and pour into a buttered tin dish an inch or more deep. Cover over to stop it hardening too soon. Cut out in squares, and roll in wax paper, or for home use keep in an airtight jar. Years ago we used to buy honeycombs two for a penny. Is this the kind that is meant?

Honey Cream Squares.—One lb of sugar, ½ teaspoonful of cream of tartar. Cover sugar with water and boil fast, until it sets on the spoon, or use a thermometer to 320 degrees. Take off the fire, and when stopped boiling, beat in ½ cup of honey, turn out quickly on a flat dish, and cut into squares. These are delicious, and would sell well at any fair.

A TRIBUTE TO NURSES.

The writer of the "Woman's Letter," under date, London, March 14, says:—At the instance of the Oversea Committee for the Nation's Fund for Nurses, several ladies invited certain press men and women to a luncheon yesterday at Prince's Restaurant, after which the method for extending the operation of the scheme was explained by Lady Cowdray's secretary, Mrs. Douglas. Hostesses were Lady Fulton and Mrs. C. H. Campbell, late of Sydney and Melbourne. Amongst the party was Mrs. J. H. W. Payne, of South Yarra, Melbourne, who has identified herself closely with nursing interests since her arrival in London. After lunch, over coffee and cigarettes, the scheme was unfolded, and the Press representatives were asked to elicit the support of the proprietors and editors all over the British Empire.

There is a widespread feeling that the share nurses have taken in this war has not received adequate recognition, that should be a memorial. What is wanted is a scheme which shall to the end of time be of use to the nurses that are to come as well as a memorial to those grand women who have gone to their death both on land and sea in the execution of their duty. To this end it seems that a college for nursing, to take the same status that the College of Surgeons or Physicians does in regard to the medical profession, is what is best. Lady Fulton, the chairwoman, favours the endowing of a college of nursing, and the establishment of a tribute fund, much in the same way as the Florence Nightingale Fund was done after the Crimean war. Attached to this would be a benevolent side, to cover a home for nurses out of health.

I personally do not think that unless the nation's tribute supports this side of the scheme warmly it will have much chance of permanent success. We look to the great London hospitals for our reserves of nursing talent. Their imprimatur is essential to the future success of any woman who takes up nursing as a profession. Behind the professional aspect of the work there is one word which sums it all up. "Vocation." The real nurse must have "Vocation." But "Vocation" is not always fostered by those in authority over the girl who comes to a hospital full of enthusiasm about the work to which she has set her hand and heart. A girl leaves home; many of the girls are gently born, of high character and standards, often girls from vicarages or from sheltered homes in the country come to London and gradually shrivel in the chill atmosphere of the hospital, with its strict rules. More often than not they have to do menial work which tires their bodies. Then the food of nurses even when fully qualified has always been complained of.

You see matrons in big hospitals with beautiful rooms and good old furniture, blue china, piano and pictures, with slavish service from a ward maid. I speak of this as I have seen it. And yet the nurses themselves who have to battle night and day with disease, with patients who often are unable to do anything whatever to help themselves, go to bed dead tired, in unwarmed rooms, after suppers that are but scanty.

The nurse in a hospital seems nobody's business. The matron is over all, and I have never yet found that she brooks the slightest interference or received suggestions willingly.

If the public were assured that nurses were better treated in hospitals, it would be far more generous in supporting a scheme of the proposed kind. Although in a hospital the first to be considered are the patients, yet the success of a hospital depends in an immense degree upon the skill and efficiency of the nurses employed. Put badly nourished nurses who have inadequate quarters and badly cooked food, in charge of patients, and the result will be felt in the condition of the invalid. There is a great paean of praise being sung for women just now, and there is no doubt that much of it is well deserved. Women have gone out into the field and taken up men's duties. This is after all a temporary measure. It has its excitements and its pleasures. But the nurse is simply pursuing the womanly way of self sacrifice and of being "The Ministering Angel." She has tried to fulfil her vocation. Her interest in her cases and her enthusiasm which the greatest equipment to fine work urges her on through bad nights and want of condition. Nursing is not always going to Buckingham Palace and being decorated by the King. Nor does the complacent matron receiving Royalty at the hospital give a true picture of the way her nurses are faring. Contribution will be gratefully received by the hon. treasurer of the Nations' Fund for Nurses in connection with the College of Nursing, the Viscountess Cowdray, 16 Carlton House Terrace, S.W. 1; and 16 Old Bond-street, W.

THE PRICE OF WOOL.

Whilst Governments are regulating the price of meat and foodstuffs, it would be tremendous help to womankind if they would regulate the price of wool. Thousands of women are daily buying wool to knit into socks, caps, and comforts for their sons, brothers, and relations at the front, and the prohibitive price one has to pay for the wool makes it very hard for those whose hands are willing but whose pocket money is limited. Australia is known throughout the world for her fine wool. It is one of her chief industries, according to our text books, and yet Australians are paying more for her wool than the women of America and England. Men have drawn the attention of the public to the fact that not so many of our women are seen knitting socks as a year ago; the reason for that is it costs us 4s 6d for every pair of socks we knit. Before the war we could make a pair of socks with wool costing us 2s 3d. It is a lamentable fact war profits are being made out of women's wearing apparel, and according to evidence given before the Commissioners that is so, because women will pay any price for her adornment—but with wool it should be the duty of every woman to use her hands to work up warm comforts for her brothers. It should not be a luxury, but a necessary.

If the price of wool were regulated to a fair profit to the producer and millowner, thousands of women would spend more time in working it up into socks. I know one woman who makes three pairs of socks a week; the cost of the wool alone for that is 13/6. The number who can spare that amount weekly is small. Millowners say they cannot get the machinery to increase their output. Well, let us use what is at hand. Spinning wheels can be made out here, and there are hundreds of women who would give their time if a department were started. In wartime there should not be such a thing as "demand" regulating the price of a necessity like wool. Australia is the "Land of the Golden Fleece," but, methinks, the long-suffering knitters of our community will be inclined to misinterpret that legend and cry, we are being "fleeced" in our endeavour to obtain it.

FLORENCE A. WALKER

[The War Chest will supply wool free to knitters, if the socks are given to the War Chest. The Red Cross Wool Dept. is selling wool cheaply.]

WOMEN'S RALLY.

The movement for a women's procession on Empire Day is meeting with great success. The women will assemble in Hyde Park, near the Park-street entrances, midway between College and Elizabeth streets. The wives and mothers of soldiers will move off first at 12 o'clock, bearing their banner. Other patriotic bodies will follow, bearing their colours and emblems. Only patriotic emblems will be allowed. It is hoped that Chaplain M'Kenzie, M.C., will return in time to take the concluding part of the ceremony in the Domain. There the concourse of women will take a solemn covenant to do all in their power to send adequate reinforcements to the help of our men and the Empire now at death grips with the enemy. Mrs. Dunn and Mrs. Smyth, of Parramatta, report great interest in their district. Mrs. H. K. Irving, the wife of Lt. H. K. Irving, serving with the artillery in France, and Mrs. Picken, also a soldier's wife, are in attendance daily at Room 6, floor 1, Equitable building, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., where all information can be obtained.

The Ashfield War Chest will have charge of the poster exhibition at Education Buildings, corner Bridge and Loftus-streets to-morrow, when all friends will be welcome. There will be an excellent musical programme. Mrs. A. R. Ducker, hon. superintendent, Ashfield War Chest, will preside.

PENELOPE'S WEEKLY NOTES.

SCHOOL LUNCHES IN WINTER.

There is no need to look upon the sweets course in a packed luncheon as of little worth as regards real nutriment.

It was allowed last week in this column that the sandwich should be regarded mainly as a vehicle for conveying nourishment in a concentrated form, when it is intended to play the chief part in an important meal like a school luncheon. The meat cake, and pie, and home-made sausage roll were all extolled as of great worth in winter, but it was urged that those severely economising with meat could not pack meat luncheons more than twice, or at most, three times a week.

When such is the case it is obviously important to spread out the chief articles of nourishing value just as much as possible.

Thus, when a meat-pie or wedge of bacon cake finds its way into the luncheon bag the sandwich may quite well consist merely of well-buttered bread and a layer of jam or jelly. But upon these meatless days, grated cheese, milled nuts, etc., should be liberally used between the slices of bread and butter—or better still, the "sweets" course itself should upon occasion be made particularly nourishing, and the sandwich as an item of importance be then dispensed with. This, Penelope feels sure, will meet with the entire approval of those for whom the luncheon is provided. Let us therefore to-day, for a short space, regard the sweets, or light-side of the school lunch, from a serious point of view. The small dried currant is notably of high food value, and if a slice of well-made cold plum pudding or plum cake can be spared from the home pantry let it by all means be wrapped about with grease proof paper and placed in the school bag.

And now that our winter time is practically at hand our store-room might advantageously contain a jar or two of that old English favourite—mincemeat. In the old country it is greatly used in their winter-time (or was, in pre-war days) and is particularly popular during the months of December and January.

An English cookery book gives the following recipe for making this nutritious delicacy, and Penelope, while quoting it, advises the cook to modify it as best suits her taste and pocket. Take 1lb of well-washed and dried currants, 1lb of peeled, cored, and chopped apples, 1lb of finely-chopped suet, 1lb of moist sugar, ½lb of stoned and chopped raisins, the juice of four oranges and two lemons, and the chopped peel of one lemon, 1 teaspoon of allspice, the same measure of mace, and a wineglass (or less) of brandy; mix all well together, and keep it covered closely in a cool place. The brandy will, of course, make it keep, but it is highly probable that the younger set will object to it as a flavouring agent. However, a smaller quantity of it might be used, and then there will be small chance of its presence being detected.

With this we might almost name it preserve—at hand it will be an easy matter for the cook to make a little pastry (a dripping crust will serve quite well) to line a rather deep patty tin with it, place in a good spoonful of the mincemeat, cover it with pastry, and bake in a brisk oven. The mincemeat is also a useful filling for a baked roly-poly pudding. Instead of placing mincemeat within the patty tin, a little plain custard may be baked therein—or, more nutritious still, a few spoons of ground rice custard.

Again the various forms of "bread" must not be overlooked by us, in our quest for nourishing luncheons. Of these we have an endless number, which can easily be increased if one troubles to consider American breads. One can make with very little trouble any of the following:—Milk loaf, date loaf, raisin bread, nut bread, ginger bread, and cinnamon bread. There is not space to-day to give the recipes for making these fancy breads. Most cooks make a dough of plain flour, carbonate of soda, and cream of tartar, add salt, sugar, and butter to taste, and then the distinctive ingredient, dates, chopped nuts (walnuts are very good), sultanas, carraway seeds, or whatever it may be, binding all together with a well-whisked egg and enough milk to form a stiff dough. To get a well-shaped loaf, pour the mixture into well-greased, round tins, tall baking powder, or coffee tins will do quite excellently. Apple or rhubarb turnovers are wholesome fare, while such items as seed cake, cheese straws, and brandy snaps, are certain of being welcome.

The authorities have been very busy fixing prices for many of our foodstuffs just lately. No article seems too insignificant to escape their notice. A while ago it was difficult to obtain that useful commodity semolina; to-day it may be bought—or it is ordered that it be sold at not more than 4½d per 1lb tin, or 7d per 3lb bag. Rice is to remain at 3½d a lb, oatmeal 3d a lb (loose), sweetened condensed milk may be charged 9d a tin, unsweetened 8d. The price for kerosene is 9s a tin—7d a quart.

Butter has not grown dearer, and is still quite plentiful. Not so suburban or new-laid eggs. It is now extremely difficult to obtain really reliable table eggs, and they are too precious when obtained to be used much in cake or pudding making. Their price runs from 2/10 to 3/ a dozen, with every prospect of mounting higher.

Fruit is less attractive to us than it was a few weeks ago. We regard less the fruit for dessert than that which we may employ in the making of puddings and pies. Thus the large cooking apple at 1/ and 1/4 a dozen and rhubarb at 3d a bunch are popular to-day. Bananas are always inquired for. Good ones may be bought now at 1/ a dozen. For the rest, we still have grapes (10d and 1/ a lb), pears (1/ and 2/ a dozen), custard apples 4d and 6d each, quinces 1/6 a dozen, passionfruit, persimmons, oranges, and lemons.

Cauliflowers are very much cheaper. A good specimen, suitable for a family of six, may be bought for 6d. Peas are not good, and are 4d a lb. French beans are 2d a lb. Vegetable marrows 6d and 7d, tomatoes 1/6 to 2/6 a dozen, corn 2d a cob, cabbages 5d and 6d a piece, and spinach 1½d a bunch.

THE CHOKO.

Several correspondents have sent in requests for recipes in which the choko may be used. In very few cookery books is the choko mentioned, and some tried recipes which are given below will be doubtless found useful by those who wrote in. They are really "too numerous to mention" separately. "L. Hope" kindly forwards some notes on this vegetable, which, when used young, are delicious, either baked with the meat, or boiled and served with white sauce, the flavour being far superior to that of the vegetable marrow.

The trouble is that the larger number of those displayed in the shop windows are a bit on the old side, and often stale, and so many housekeepers, after trying them once or twice, make up their minds they are no good. Then, as to the cooking. They should be put into slightly-salted water, and boiled fast for about half an hour or longer, according to the size of the pieces; the small ones cut into four and the larger ones into six or eight pieces.

A delicious way of serving is to slice an onion rather fine, cut the chokos into small pieces, and put on to simmer with a little water, a little butter, pepper, and salt, and just before dishing up thicken with a little flour mixed with milk.

The chokos may be used instead of or with apples, in making sweet-sliced chutney. This recipe for pickle has been found most successful: 3lb onions, 3lb chokos, and cauliflower (either in equal parts or otherwise). One cup of sugar, brown preferred, ½ cup of flour, 3 tablespoons of mustard, one tablespoon turmeric (this is for colouring only), one teaspoon spice and cloves, one teaspoon cayenne, or a few chillies, sliced, one teaspoon curry powder, two quarts of vinegar. Cut the vegtables up rather small, and stand for 24 hours in a brine made of four quarts of water to one pint of salt. After soaking, put on the fire, and heat through, then drain through a colander. Mix the flour, mustard, cayenne, spice, curry powder, and turmeric with sufficient cold water to make a smooth paste, then add the sugar and vinegar. Boil the whole until it thickens. Bottle when nearly cold, and cork well.

Choko Jam.—Take 3lb of choko, 3lb of sugar, and 1lb of crystallised ginger. Pare and cut the choko in small pieces, and soak over night in water, with a little salt in it. Next day grease the pan, put in the sugar with about half a cup of water, and when the sugar is melted, put in the choko. Boil for one hour. Add the ginger cut into small pieces, and cook 10 minutes longer. Choko and pineapple jam is made in the same way, substituting a cut of pineapples for the ginger. Add one hour before jam is cooked.

Another Choko Pickle.—Take 12 chokos, 2lb of the smallest onions you can get, one cup of flour, one cup of sugar, three tablespoonfuls of mustard, one tablespoonful of turmeric, one teaspoonful of mixed spice, and about five pints of vinegar. Make a fairly strong brine, and steep the sliced choko and the tiny onions in it for 24 hours; then put on the fire and boil up. Meanwhile, mix the rest of the ingredients together, smoothing the flour, mustard, and turmeric with a little of the vinegar. Boil the mixture until the flour thickens, being careful that there are no lumps. Then put in the choko and onions, and simmer until soft. If the pickle is liked very hot, add a dash of cayenne pepper.

Choko Chutney.—Take 8lb apples, 2½lb choko, ½lb of ground ginger, ½lb sultanas, one quarte vinegar, 1½oz onions, ½lb sugar, 1oz mustard, ½lb salt, and a tablespoonful of cayenne (or half all these quantities). Pare and cut choko, peel and core apples, boil with half the vinegar to a pulp. Pass through sieve. Chop up raisins and hard parts of apples, mix all together. Boil the sugar in the other half of vinegar. Chop up onions, mix mustard with a little vinegar, add it, and all the rest, put in onions last. Mix and stir all well together. Keep a day, and stir again, then bottle, the onion is left raw.

Another chutney is made of choko 5lb cut up and pared, to ½lb of green apples, ½ a tin of peach jam, 2 chillies, ½lb onions, cinnamon, brown sugar, green ginger, use four tablespoonfuls sugar to this quantity choko and two tablespoonfuls treacle, or put in all the 1lb tin of jam. Cut all up small, mix and boil like jam. This is very much liked.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

To Whiten Clothes.—Maggie: If you like to go to the trifling expense of a good ammonia soap, you will easily get the clothes white, by boiling in the copper, adding to the water a liberal supply of soap shavings. But our bright sun will often obligingly bleach the clothes without any special help. If you make the blue water rather strong, then wring the clothes lightly out of it, spread them on the grass or on bushes, and let the sun shine on them all day. Obstinate yellow stain, tea stains, or the like will be bleached out in a few days if the cloths are wet as soon as they become dry and left out day after day. Only cotton and linen things should be treated in this way. Woollen underclothes will grow yellow if dried in the sun.

A Pierrot Dress.—Mrs. A. C.: A girl "pierrot" is called a "pierrette." The dress is so simple as hardly to need a description. It is usually in white and black, and is made with a knee-short full skirt, bodice finished off in a large web or muslin neck ruffle, a pointed cap, and shoes are worn, and as many pom-poms as you like are sewn on the dress; cap and shoes are similarly adorned. To make the pom-poms, you need several skeins of black wool (or any colour you may choose). Cut two pieces of cardboard quite round with a large hole in the centre of each, place them together, with a piece of twine between the two, and leave the ends of twine dangling. Thread the wool on a needle, and bind it round and round the two cards, keeping them tightly together, in through the hole, and over the top of the cards. When you have got the hole nearly filled up, pass the scissors around the top edge of the card, and cut the wool, tie the twine tightly, take off the cards, and the wool will fluff up into a pom-pom. The top of a small tumbler or a wine glass would be a good measure to cut the cards from. But it depends on what size you wish the pom-poms to be.

Ridding a House of Bugs.—A.T.: The remedy you describe was not given on this page. You must mean corrosive sublimate, which is quite the best cure for bugs, but extremely dangerous to use. The chemists from whom you buy it would tell you exactly how to use it. The fumes are poison.

FROM NEAR AND FAR.

Members of Miss Jobson's Battalion Correspondence League, now known as the Australian Soldiers' Correspondence League, may obtain badges, price 2s 1d posted, from the honorary secretary for New South Wales, Miss V. Symons, 33 High-street, North Sydney. The hon. secretary would be pleased to receive applications from intending members. The annual subscription is 1s.

The Australian Flying Corps Comforts Depot is very much in need of sewing machines as the number of workers is increasing. The depot, 59A Wentworth-avenue, is open every Tuesday and Thursday, and the depot shop at 305 George-street will be open in future every Wednesday instead of Monday. Spinners are needed to help with the orders for hand-spun wool, and lessons in spinning may be had at the depot. Individual parcels for flying men or any soldiers on active service will be packed at the depot and forwarded by parcel post. The secretary would be pleased to have the names of the next-of-kin of the New South Wales flying men who have recently left for the front.

Many well-known society people will appear in the garden party and other scenes in "Cupid Camouflaged," which is to be screened at the Theatre Royal on May 31. Mrs. T. H. Kelly, Miss Rosamund Lumsdaine, Miss Madge Harvey, Captain Saltmarshe, Mr. John Maude, and Mr. James Osborne will fill the leading parts. There will, besides the picture, be an attractive programme, including the "Ballade des Desesperees," by Mrs. T. H. Kelly and Mrs. Alexander Gordon. The idea of the film originated with Miss Cicely Catterill, as far back as January last, and the arrangements for the production have been in the hands of Miss Barbara Knox, Miss Janet Knox, and Mrs. D. F. Garvan. The prices of admission are to be £1 1s, 10s 6d, and 5s. The box plan for the guinea seats will be opened at Paling's on May 20, and for the half-guinea and 5s seats on May 22. Meanwhile tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Spencer Brunton, Gladswood, Double Bay, or from the office of the Hotel Australia. All unsold tickets should be returned to Mrs. Brunton as soon as possible.

To-morrow, in the grounds of "Twilight House," from 3 to 5 p.m., a sale of work will be held with the object of augmenting the funds necessary for the maintenance and upkeep of "Twilight," as it is affectionately called by the residents there. Anyone who knows anything of the place it fills in the lives of lonely women, who can find there, in their own "life's twilight" the true "home touch," with all its refinement and fellowship, that is going to banish its shadows altogether, will welcome the chance of showing practical sympathy with its ideals and objects. "Twilight House" is situated in Bickell-road, Mosman, close to the Spit tram-line, and commands a beautiful view of Middle Harbour. Admission to the bazaar will be by a silver coin.

On Saturday a garden fete on a large scale will be given at Hawkesbury College, under the supervision of Mrs. H. W. Potts, in aid of the comforts fund for the soldiers from among the students who have enlisted from the college. Admission will be free; there will be a fancy dress procession from Richmond Station on the arrival of the midday train. Among the many novel attractions offered a flight in an aeroplane will be raffled. Pierrot shows, a palais de danse, a confetti battle, and the usual fancy and produce stalls will help to make the fete one of the most noticeable ever planned in the district.

The women's conference, to be held on Friday at St. James's Hall, Phillip-street, will have three sessions, each of which will be devoted to the discussion of matters of importance to women and children. The Women's Reform League has arranged the conference in celebration of "Founder's Day," an annual event which is observed in memory of the late Mrs. Molyneux Parkes. Mrs. Fell will give the president's address at 10 a.m., and topics treated at the sessions include the nationality of British women married to aliens, women's place in local government, laws affecting children, and the effect of picture shows.

A very successful fete was held at Narrabeen last Saturday afternoon and evening, in aid of the Red Cross funds. There were many stalls, all daintily stocked, and the bevy of attractive stall attendants added to the pleasure of the fete. A feature of the day was the blocking of all motor cars on the main road. These were held up for "backsheesh." In the evening there were moving pictures in the open air kindly arranged by the Union Picture Co. The net proceeds will probably be in the vicinity of £300. Mrs. A. A. Brodziak was the hon. organiser.

Concerning the Sydney Medical Mission, Mrs. Hugh Dixson, president of the council of the mission, writes that "the impossibility in the present circumstances of securing a suitable successor to our late superintendent, Dr. Ettie Lyons, has, much to our regret, forced us to close the mission until happier times. Our patron, Lady Cullen, the trustees, and the executive all very gladly agreed to lend the premises to the Sydney Day Nursery, an association so nearly akin to our work in the district. We have given the place to the association until the end of the year. After that it will have the use of the mission building until we can resume the original mission work."

Mrs. Andrew Fenwick gave a garden party in her grounds at Balmain East on Saturday to the members of the Balmain branch of the centre for Soldiers' Wives and Mothers, with their children. The grounds were decorated, and it was a pretty sight to see the children of our soldiers playing merrily on the lawns. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Fenwick and her daughters, assisted by friends.

LADY DAVIDSON'S FAMILY.

On the Woman's Page of May 1, in the account of the meeting of the University Women's settlement, Lady Davidson's speech was read with great pleasure by my mother, now 70 years of age, as one who can remember the good work done by Lady Louisa Feilding and Colonel Percy Feilding's sisters. Born and reared on the estate of the late Earl of Denbigh, my mother is never tired of telling of the many little treats and kindnesses received at the hands of the Earl and his family to the villagers; two of her most cherished possessions, are photographs of the hall at Newnham Downs, where the school children were given many a treat, waited on by ladies of the house themselves; at the balls given at the hall, when all the tenants of the estate were invited, my mother has danced more than once with Colonel Percy Fielding, her ladyship's father, and she tells many a tale of the doings of those times. If any one in the village had been ill the ladies from the hall did not think it beneath their dignity to drive down with their own little pony carriage, and take them out for an hour or so. It was not a crime with them to belong to the poorer classes, and evidently Lady Davidson does not think so either. It might possibly interest her if she knew how much pleasure her speech gave to one from the family estate, and who reads of all her doings with appreciation.

THE UNIVERSITY SETTLEMENT.

At the recent annual meeting of the Sydney University Women's Settlement it was stated that pressing financial needs might make it necessary to discontinue this field of service. To those who know the history and the purpose of the settlement, such a suggestion seems appalling, for to them the settlement seems a real part of the University itself. It has passed through various stages of history. The Sydney University Women's Society, founded by Lady Jersey 27 years ago, had, as one of its avenues of service, a night school in Harrington-street, city, which Mrs. H. E. Barff (then Miss Russell) successfully pioneered. Later this merged into the Girls' Club at Woolloomooloo, and finally the University Settlement was established at Newtown, close to the Women's College, and under the special aegis of Miss Louisa Macdonald. In various ways this work during a quarter of a century has made its appeal to graduates and undergraduates of the University. Though only a small settlement, and one of the youngest, it yet endeavours to show the results of work, exemplars of which have been given to the world by Arnold Toynbee and others.

There can be no finer lesson for the undergraduate in her years of probation, sheltered and cultured years, but years that after all are only a preparation for the battle that has to be fought out on the one common plane, than to come into touch with the girl or woman who is taking up her tasks fearlessly and faithfully, under conditions often hard and often adverse. And because her lines may have fallen in pleasant places, she must see the view point of the girl who has to live out her days in one of two rooms, with an outlook on the dingy street. There are thousands who live thus and keep loyal and faithful to high ideals. Women who are with them day by day in the industrial world can speak with authority. There then are valuable and intrinsic experiences for the young student. But university women are scattered far in country and distant suburbs, and Settlement House is in the heart of busy Newtown. A "neighbourhood" evening at the Mother's Club, over which Miss Evans presides, will repay the time spent there. If you have an understanding of girls, the Girls' Club wil welcome you, or if, as Mrs. Francis Anderson says, you can see in the life of a little child the promise and possibility of all hope and beauty, for you there is the kindergarten branch of the settlement and the children's play hour.

On Mothers' Club evenings father minds the children and mother goes out. Lectures are given by experts on such subjects as hygiene, the effects of worry, waste, travel, clothing for infants, structure of the body. There are also calisthenics, games, folk dancing, sewing, and knitting for the annual competitions or for patriotic purposes.

Similarly at the Girls' Club, drill, sewing, elocution, games, and educational topics, competitions and patriotic work fill in the hours. The play hour and the library are a joy to the children whose horizon, except for school and the pictures, is bounded back and front by the street, the lane, and the opposite terrace. When the first interest both of working women and of university women lay in the lives of soldiers fighting the Empire's battle in Gallipoli and Egypt, France, and Belgium, the need for a centre for soldiers' wives and mothers became evident. And where better than at the settlement could this be found? The nucleus of mutual sympathy and undertaking already existed, established. So women have been helped and directed and kept in touch with the right channels, and sometimes spared needless worry and anxiety. And so I venture to make an appeal to graduates far and wide, because of what the settlement and its purpose may at some time or other have meant to you, and of what it may mean to the students of this generation. And how to help? If you reside near the Mothers' Club, the Girls' Club, the Playground, or the Soldiers' Centre, all invite you. Farther away there is the medium of increased or doubled donations. Even the humble Jumble Cupboard helps considerably to swell settlement funds. All discarded goods and apparel are salable at the settlement.

FORENCE ARMITAGE.

COVERED FEET.

I must admit that I don't altogether agree with "Mildred" in her warm advocacy of bare feet for children.

Strange to say, a woman doctor and I were talking about this very matter only a few weeks ago. She said: "Some people drive this fad of bare feet for their children to the most absurd limit. Perhaps for very strong children (who seem absolutely impervious to chills and the like), it might be wise—but I doubt it. On the other hand, try it with a child who is at all puny and delicate, and you will sow the seeds of perpetual colds, and perhaps later the consumptive germ." What she said all wise mothers echo.

Have you ever watched a bare footed child on an "extreme" day—that is, either unusually hot or very cold. On the first of these days, the child will take a little hesitating step on the asphalt pavement (which seems to attract and hold the heat to an extraordinary extent), and then hurry on to the next. The child's feet are not blessed with the hard, tough under skin of the aboriginals; while on a very cold day the bare footed child has a pinched blue look about the face, which, to say the least of it, is rather painful to behold.

In summer days stockings may easily be dispensed with, though, unquestionably a child looks much daintier if the feet are encased in well-fitting shoes and stockings instead of sandals. But this, of course, is purely a matter of taste and for day wear in summer, sandals are a quite sufficient covering.

Footgear is certainly a very expensive item just now—but then, what isn't? On one side, is the question of expenditure, and on the other the child's future health. Which will win? Why the child's health, of course, because what "commonsense" mother minds spending an extra shilling or two to ensure her child being "comfy."

MATOKA.

SOME WASHING HINTS.

Every one knows the annoying way hand-knitted or crocheted woollen garments stretch out when they are washed for the first few times. Particularly do mothers with infants find this trying. Much better results may be obtained if the clothes are dried in this way instead of on the line: After ringing the woollens by hand, and without stretching them out, drop them loosely on to a sheet which has been spread on the grass (if possible), or on a verandah; they should be rather bunched together, and all strain and stretching must be avoided. They will need turning about a good many times. When dry they may be pulled into shape. No doubt quite a number of stitched white silk hats are discarded because they come out of their first wash streaked with brown. I washed one lately with disastrous result, but decided to see if anything could be done to make the hat, a very pretty and useful one, wearable. I put it into the soiled clothes basket, and washed it well again next washing day, dried it, and again put it in the soiled clothes basket, lest it might be overlooked. This process I repeated six times, noticing an improvement each time, until at last the hat looks like a new one. Of course anyone could get through the process quickly by administering several washings in one day, but I think the hat should be dried after each one. A very little blue in the rinsing water keeps the silk a good colour.

ANN GRANT.

If socks were paired and tacked together before being washed, this would save much trouble, time, and sorting, when the darning has to be done. Boys wear out stockings' knees quickly, if nothing is done to save wear and tear. Always take square pieces cut from the leg of a done-for stocking, and sew them in the knees of all new stockings before they are worn at all. If very carefully done, the patch does not show when the stockings are on. But one needs to take stitches that do not go through to the front, or it will look like a patch. When holes come at last, unpick the patch, or, if not worn, replace the old one. Stockings treated in this way last seldom go at the knees, till the remainder is wearing too. A hint from our American sisters when repairing the toes and heels of stockings is to reinforce with pieces of chamois leather.

MILDRED.

On June 5 some members of the Newcastle War Chest Fund are producing, with the aid of Mr. Baker of the Victoria Theatre, an entirely new, bright, and catchy "Revue." Several of the songs have not yet been sung in Australia, being some of the London successes from the leading theatres. Amateur talent is well to the fore, and one of the most attractive items so far arranged is a fascinating ballet led by Miss Campbell Wood and Mr. O'Hara. Misses Steele and Creighton will appear in a dainty and delightful number, and also Misses Hancock and Janssen. Others taking solo parts are Mrs. Grayston, Miss Lewington, D. Zions, Mrs. J. A. Wood, Mr. Hannell, Mr. Brodie, Mrs. Ingall, Mrs. De Marie, and a stage chorus of sixty, in addition to several other items still to be arranged for. The ballets are being trained by Mrs. Rees, ballet mistress for Messrs. Dix and Baker, and several principals from the Victoria Theatre will appear in a bright comedy.

SOUND TEETH,
A PRICELESS POSSESSION.
"Sound teeth are necessary for the efficient mastication of food. Digestion commences in the mouth, and once the food has been swallowed—the process is beyond voluntary control." Those are the words of a prominent dental authority. Most of us realise the fact, but do nothing about it. However, now that I have definitely proved my ability to DRILL AND FILL TEETH ABSOLUTELY WITHOUT PAIN one of the big "excuses" for neglecting dental work has been removed. I am the fortunate possessor of an appliance which makes painless filling possible. ABSOLUTELY PAINLESS EXTRACTIONS by my special method are as safe for a child as a person of 80. I have used it successfully in both cases, many times, and patients so treated continue to bring their friends even years after. I will also supply missing teeth by Bridgework, in a manner that will give perfect satisfaction, and defy detection. My written guarantee given with Fillings, Crowns, Plate and Bridge work, means this—that if a tooth breaks or a filling should fail, I will replace it free, even 5 years after. If you desire I can arrange terms. Open till 6 p.m. Daily (Sats. included), until 9 p.m. Friday. Half Holiday Wednesday.

The Sterling Worth of CLEMENTS TONIC

The proprietor of one of the leading carrying firms in N. S. Wales, Mr. T. G. Smith, who has proven by personal experience the value of this great medicine, writes his opinion of it as a Great Restorer of Health.

"RICHMOND,' MILLETT-STREET,
"CAMPERDOWN, 11/4/'18.

"To Manager,
"CLEMENTS TONIC, LTD.

"Dear Sir,—

"As one who has proved the sterling worth of Clements Tonic it is with the greatest gratitude that I recommend it, and send you this testimonial.

"About 8 years ago I underwent a serious operation, with the result that ever since I have suffered from nervous headaches, which medicines, poultices, liniments, and ointments failed to cure.

"I thought I had tried every remedy possible, and when Clements Tonic was suggested by a neighbour I consented, and now I can concientiously state that after taking it for a consistent period I have been entirely free from any head pains; in fact, I feel 10 years younger, and fit for another score of years of hard work.

"I shall always be pleased to confirm this statement to anyone calling on me, and I am well-known, as I have been in Sydney over 45 years, and in business on my own account for many years.

"You may use this in any way you desire.

"(Signed) T. G. SMITH."

Anyone suffering from overstudy, arduous training, or commercial work, who cannot sleep, rest, or eat well, should use this medicine. In cases of Wasting Illness, or the after-effects of Influenza, Typhoid, Low or Dengue Fever, or for the relief of Constipation, Indigestion, Nervous Breakdown, or Biliousness, it is invaluable. Send to your Chemist or Store for it to-day.

ARBITRATION COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Heydon.)

THE DE-REGISTERED UNIONS.

Minister's Application for Re-registration. Argument was concluded on the application made by the Minister for Labour and Industry, under the provisions of the new Industrial Arbitration Act, for the restoration of registration of unions, which suffered for complicity in the recent strike.

Mr. Croft, speaking for the Liquor Trades Employees Association, referred the Court to the honour boards in their union rooms, and the pride which remaining members felt and expressed for the service which their comrades who had gone to the front had performed for the Empire.

His Honor: I do not want to enter into a discussion as to the patriotism of the workers, taking them as a body. I think that anyone who would say to an Australian abroad that Australians had not courage and patriotism would get nothing less than he deserved if he were knocked down. As Australians, we can stand proudly before any country in the world, thanks to what our fellow-Australians have done in war. To-day we are dealing with a matter of business.

Mr. Watt (who appeared for the Minister), in reply, said that the Minister had satisfied himself, fully realising the responsibility of the propriety of making such representations as he had before the court. Replying to Mr. Taylor's argument that one must not do a wrong to achieve a right, that, he said, was a good enough rule for ordinary circumstances and in ordinary conditions; but here we stood in a condition in which the well-being of the people was brought urgently under notice. His Honor, in accepting the conclusions and representations of the Minister, was following a precedent of the English Courts. Counsel referred to a case, "In re a Petition of Right," reported in 3 K.B.D., in which Lord Justice Warrington, said: "The only condition, which it would appear must be fulfilled, is that the act in question, having regard to existing circumstances, must be necessary for the public safety and the defence of the realm, and on this matter the opinion of competent authorities who alone have sufficient knowledge of the facts, provided they act reasonably and in good faith, should be accepted as conclusive."

This was not an application, Mr. Watt further submitted, for registration. This was an application for reinstatement, and the reinstatement would be the act of the Minister, safeguarded by the provision that it should be done after the matter was ventilated in open court, with an opportunity to persons who might be interested to show reasons why it should not be done. The object of the Legislature seemed to be to allow the Minister to act, but to avoid any "hole and corner" methods or improper political considerations being given effect to, it provided for the interposition of the senior Judge in Arbitration, as inquirer. That machinery was in existence at the time the Governor-General's conference took place, and a promise was given that the Minister would attempt to restore the registration of these unions. Mr. Hughes stated that he had the authority of the State Ministry to say that an Act of Parliament would be passed to restore to the unions their registrations. He would suggest, however, that it was always an undesirable thing for the Legislature to interfere with the Court's functions.

His Honor: Is it not also undesirable for the Court to interfere with Legislative functions, and is not the reason given here one for Legislative function?

Mr. Watt: I think your Honor is a little supersensitive on that point. I cannot see for the life of me that there is any political reason—in the sense that the word "political" is used.

His Honor: There is a wide distinction between "party politics" and matters of broad general concern. A matter of broad general concern, however, can be the subject of party politics.

Mr. Watt: I may stand alone in holding the opinion, but I do think that the greatest factor in our present condition was that it was a matter of party politics.

His Honor: That just illustrates my difficulty and strengthens me in my objection to doing what I am asked to do now, because it is politics.

Mr. Watt: Politics is a wide word, and includes practically all national welfare.

His Honor intimated to the representative of the Blacksmiths' Union seeking registration, who had been invited to appear in these proceedings, that he did not desire to hear their case now. The present matter might turn on considerations which at the present stage would not affect that union. He would however, see that they did not suffer.

Judgment was reserved.

MOTOR CAR ACCIDENT.

Whiddon v Cousins.

Thomas Whiddon, senr., of Orange-street, Randwick, fibrous plaster worker, sued A. Cousins, of Leichhardt-street, Waverley, to recover £100 damages for injuries alleged to have been received by his being knocked down by defendant's motor car in Albion-street, near Macpherson-street, Waverley, on December 28 last. He charged that the defendant negligently and unskilfully drove the car, so causing the accident, and that in consequence of it he was injured. Defendant entered a plea of not guilty, and denied negligence.

The case, after some evidence had been taken, was adjourned until Monday.

Mr. D. S. Edwards, instructed by Mr. A. C. Hobbs, and Mr. Curtis, instructed by Messrs. J. H. Clayton and Son, for the defendants.

LEATHER CONTRACT.

Vickery and Co. v Challis Bros.

Mr. Teece, instructed by Mr. E. H. Newman, appeared for the plaintiffs; and Mr. Mocatta, instructed by Messrs. F. C. Petrie and Son, for the defendants. Plaintiffs in this case, were Joseph Vickery and Emily Annie Lamplough Vickery, trading as Joseph Vickery and Co., of 201 Castlereagh-street, Sydney, boot and shoe manufacturers; and the defendants were Frederick John Challis and Herbert Miller Challis, trading as Challis Bros., of Quondong-street, Willoughby, tanners. Plaintiffs alleged that they contracted with defendants for the supply of two bundles of heavy black grain kip leather at 2/ a lb, and one bundle of medium black grain kip at 2/1 a lb, weekly deliveries, and the defendants, after delivering portion of the goods, rejected and refused to supply the remainder. Consequently plaintiffs were obliged to buy other leather at enhanced prices, and now claimed £27/11/1. Defendants, in their pleas, alleged that they duly supplied part of the leather, but the plaintiffs then declined to take any more or to pay for that already delivered. Therefore they refused to continue to supply.

The case stands part heard.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before his Honor Judge Docker.)

John Macdonald, who was defended by Mr. E. R. Abigail, pleaded not guilty to stealing at Canterbury, on December 17, a cow, the property of Louis Allen. Mr. Herbert Harris, Crown Prosecutor, said it was alleged that accused, a butcher, after stealing the cow, cut it up for meat. The paddock of Mr. Allen at Canterbury adjoined that of the accused. After a three hours' adjournment the jury returned a verdict of guilty. Accused was remanded for sentence.

Charles Brookshaw, charged with larceny as a clerk, admitted having stolen £278 16s 8d, the property of Spencer Joseph St. Clair Butler. This plea was accepted by the Crown, and accused was remanded for sentence.

Vereau M'Kivett was charged with stealing from the person of John Bews, on March 30, a wallet containing £9 in money, and an open cheque for £29. Accused, who was defended by Mr. M'Mahon, was found not guilty by the Jury.

BUILDING LOSSES.

John Theodore Bruning, of Liverpool-street, Sydney, a bankrupt, in his examination before the Registrar in Bankruptcy, yesterday, said that up to the date of his sequestration on April 23 last he was a painting contractor. In August, 1914, he took a partner. The partnership was a verbal one, and lasted 12 months, until the works were burned out. His partner was a joiner, who put no money into the business, but put in £60 worth of timber, which was used in joinery work and sold. The joinery works were burned out, and the partner walked away and left bankrupt to finish all the jobs. The works were insured for £150, and witness received the money. Witness put £200 into the partnership, and paid about £200 outstanding debts in addition. The bank account was in bankrupt's name, because the partner did not want his name in it, as he was an uncertificated bankrupt. It was then too late for witness to get out. The joinery and building business did not pay. Bankrupt's painting business paid, but there was a loss on the other. The partnership took contracts for building villas, and built seven, with one partly built. In connection with the seven completed villas witness did not think they paid for the materials. The partner looked after the building part and witness after the painting and plumbing. Witness erected one building himself at Gosford for a client, and lost £200 on it. It was a partnership affair, but he was trying to manage it himself. He could not look after the labour; he could only go up a couple of days a week, and the men were fishing and shooting most of the time. There was a foreman, but he was as bad as the rest of them. Money was lost on two pairs of cottages built at Bondi. The partner kept the books, and witness could not get him to make up the accounts. All the account books were burned in the fire. While in partnership bankrupt drew £4 a week on an average, and his partner £4 8s. All his losses were made through this business.

The meeting was concluded.

SHIPWRECK RELIEF SOCIETY.

The monthly meeting of the committee of the Royal Shipwreck Relief and Humane Society of New South Wales was held in the Royal Exchange when several cases of relief to widows and orphans were dealt with, including those dependent on the crew of the auxiliary steamer Warrigal, supposed to have foundered recently in a cyclone near Norfolk Island.

Several awards for bravery were made, and the following certificates of merit were granted:—John A. Witcombe and Willis Fraser, both youths, 15 years of age, for rescuing two boys named M'Kell and Todd in the Murrumbidgee River at Hay on February 6; Edward Fahy, for going out with a life-line from Bronte Beach on March 1 and bringing ashore two Marist missionaries who had got into difficulties while bathing; William John Watson, for saving the life of a little boy, George Higgins, who had accidentally fallen into the Murray River, Albury, on April 28; and to Gordon Goddard, aged 8, for his plucky rescue of a little girl named Evans, who had accidentally fallen from the pontoon at the C. of E. Grammar School's boatshed, Berry's Bay, North Sydney, on February 24.

CHARGE OF THEFT.

Grace Bockett, or Best, 46, appeared before Mr. Clarke, S.M., at the Central Police Court yesterday. The charge was that accused, between April 13 and May, stole thirteen dresses, one opera cloak, two kimonos, one bathing costume, one manicure set, one powder box, and other articles, of the total value of £300, the property of Dorothea Marks, wife of Mr. Theodore Marks. Mr. Madgocks Cohen appeared for the accused.

Constable W. Barrett, in his evidence, said that the theft of some of Mrs. Marks's property having been reported, he went to Barons Court, Woolcott-street, Darlinghurst, on the 6th instant. He first saw Miss Nellie Tully, maid to Mrs. Theodore Marks, and then searched the room of accused, who had been employed for some weeks at Barons Court as a cook. A number of articles were found in a trunk, which were identified by Miss Tully as the property of her mistress. Accused made a statement, and said that she did not want to see an innocent person charged with the theft.

Nellie Tully said that Mrs. Marks was now ill at a private hospital in Sydney. Accused had access to the rooms which Mrs. Marks had occupied in Barons Court. In the opinion of witness, the dresses had been despaired to the extent of £100 since they were taken.

Accused, who reserved her defence, was committed for trial.

POLICE COURTS.

CHARGE OF MURDER.

At the Central Police Court, Annie Belinda Turnbull, 52, was charged with having on or about April 28 feloniously and maliciously murdered Mildred Aylmer at Kensington, Burwood Petals, 57, was charged with having incited the female accused to commit the crime. It was stated that the girl died in Prince Alfred Hospital on Saturday night.

Mr. Macfarlane, S.M., who refused the application of Mr. Penny for bail, remanded the two accused till to-day.

CHINESE GAMBLERS.

As the result of a raid by Inspector Doig on a house in Foster-street on Sunday night 18 Chinese were proceeded against at the Central Police Court on a charge of having been found in a common gaming-house. The magistrate in each case imposed a fine of £1, in default seven days' imprisonment.

SLY GROG PUNISHMENT.

Mr. Clarke, S.M., at the Central Police Court passed a sentence of four months' imprisonment with hard labour on John Mack, 58, who pleaded guilty to selling liquor without a license in Chapel-street, Woollomooloo, on the 11th inst. The police prosecutor said that accused had been twice convicted for similar breaches of the law, the last fine being £20.

BOOT PRICES.

RAPID CHANGE OF FASHION.

Mr. A. B. Piddington, Chief Industrial Commissioner, continued his inquiry into the price of boots and shoes yesterday at the Commonwealth Bank-buildings.

Thomas Routley, secretary of the Boot, Shoe, and Slipper Manufacturers' Association of New South Wales, continuing his evidence, said that between December, 1916, and the same month in 1917, the price of grindery increased by 50 per cent., and since then by another 50 per cent. Between the months named in 1916 and 1917 there had been no official increase in the price of labour, but there was an actual increase. Wages were fixed at £3 6s a week, but owing to the shortage of men because of so many going away to the war, wages went up to £3 10s; in the first-named month the minimum was not often exceeded, but it had been exceeded since then.

Herbert Edward Colyer, resident proprietor of Whybrow and Co., a Melbourne firm, said that since December, 1914 prices had increased from 25 to 35 per cent., but the increase had not been relatively so great since December, 1916. The demand for the better class of boots was greater than formerly, and there was a greater demand for variety now than there was four years ago. Large quantities of particular lines were often left on hand through change in the fashion. Coloured goods, mostly the black and white combination, had gone out of favour, and they had to be sacrificed.

William Weatherook, managing director of the Australian Boot Factory, Limited, Kippax-street, said the output from his factory had increased year by year since 1914, and the value had also increased, but the rate of net profit had slightly decreased.

Harry Tyler, a partner in Day, Son, and Harris, boot manufacturers, Newtown, said the price of imported boots had advanced since 1914 by about 116 2-3 per cent for glace kid, 100 per cent. for patent leathers, and for suedes about 300 per cent.

George Michaelis, representing M'Murtrie and Co., Limited, boot manufacturers, said his firm had two factories in Sydney. Some of the shareholders were also shareholders in a tannery company. Since the war the volume of output from the factory had decreased, but the value had increased. The rate of profit now and before the war was about the same. When leather prices rose the price of boots rose, and witness's factories put up theirs about 10 per cent. This was not done in agreement with any other house. The rise took place in January, 1917, and since then in some lines prices had risen about another 5 per cent. Fancy leather boots had gone up considerably. Local glace kid was now of much better quality than formerly, partly because of better methods of manufacture, and partly because better skins could be obtained from India. Before the war Germany had almost a monopoly of the best Indian skins.

To Mr. Kleinsmith (for the People's Food Protection Association): The cost of leather had increased by from 25 per cent. to 30 per cent. since 1914. The wholesale price for women's best quality boots manufactured at witness's factory was 22s or 23s. Some retailers would not sell boots with his company's registered brands on them, but preferred, for advertisement purposes, to sell the boots with their own names stamped thereon. Sometimes they ordered fancy names to be placed on the boots. New models of boots mostly originated abroad, and were adopted here, either from models or from illustrations in trade journals. Retailers often ordered new varieties, and the varieties of boots were constantly increasing and changing.

Mr. Kleinsmith: Don't you think that when prices for hides are fixed, and prices for leather also, the prices for boots could also be standardised and fixed?

Witness: I should not like to be the man to undertake the job. There are hundreds of different varieties of boots; there are about 300 varieties of men's boots alone, without counting women's and children's.

The commission adjourned until the following day.

LETTERS TO DEFENCE DEPARTMENT.

The attention of all persons who have occasion to communicate with the Defence Department is invited to the fact that the delay in replying is invariably due to letters being addressed personally to some staff officer, and, in order to avoid delay through members of the staff having been transferred, away on leave, or other duty, it is advisable that all official communications should be addressed to district headquarters, Victoria Barracks, Paddington.

When opened, the letter is immediately passed to the branch dealing with the subject in question.

FAIR WAGE.

JUDGES SUGGEST INQUIRY.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Mr. Justice Powers, in the Arbitration Court yesterday, gave his final award in the suit by the General Divisional Officers Union of the Trade and Customs Department against the Commonwealth Public Service Commissioner and the Minister of Trade and Customs. His Honor said the award stood generally as formerly communicated to the parties. The President of the Court and himself had suggested to the Commonwealth Government to arrange for an inquiry to be held as to the basic wage which should be allowed to Commonwealth and other servants, based on cost of all articles required by the worker and his family. He made that suggestion because he was not satisfied that justice was being done to the Commonwealth employees by fixing £180 a year for married men in the Government service in capital cities, although he had felt bound to fix that rate as the Federal rate on the only evidence generally submitted to the Court. Such inquiry should be held to ascertain what, if any, war bonus should be allowed to married employees who were receiving less than the living wage based on the principles laid down by the Court, and he presumed Parliament left it to the Court to make all necessary investigation before fixing wages. That being so, he was prepared to re-consider any application by the Public Service organisation as a whole, not by one union only, for an increase in the basic wage fixed by his awards by way of war bonus during the war. An additional reason was that the costs of coal, wood, clothing, and other necessaries had increased since August, 1914, at a much greater rate than rent, food, and groceries combined, and the awards of the Court had been based on the increased costs of the last three items only. The suggested inquiry had not been held. He had proved that the cost of living, including food, groceries, and rent had increased since September of last year, and that the costs of clothing and other necessaries of workers' homes had increased since 1914 to a greater extent than food, groceries, and rent—to such an extent as to warrant an increase of the basic wage. He would make such award as he thought just. Parliament would still have the right to decide whether the increased rate allowed, if any, should be paid as a war bonus. It may be said that it would be better if everyone went on short rations during the war. Possibly it would be better for everyone to do so, but the only question at present under consideration was whether one class should be compelled to do so.

BUSH BOOK CLUB.

"I know exactly the value and solace of books in a lonely life," said Lady Davidson yesterday, when presiding at the eighth annual meeting of the Bush Book Club, at the King's Hall.

Lady Davidson went on to explain that on her marriage she had gone to live in the Seychelles—a group of lonely islands in the Indian Ocean. She was one of a large family, and she keenly felt the breaking of the home ties, and the cutting of herself adrift from the doings of the great world in which she had lived. There was only one mail a month; no books, and no newspapers. The white population seemed to care little about either of the latter, and it was not until the end of her second year's residence amongst them that she prevailed upon them to interest themselves in the events beyond their little circle. Lady Davidson said she could quite imagine the joy which the distribution of books would give to folks in the backblocks of New South Wales. She urged the committee to continue the good and useful work.

Miss Beulah Bolton (secretary), in submitting the report, spoke of a year of excellent progress. Many women with husbands and sons at the front had lailed them as friends in lonely hours. Last year 5000 books had been despatched to country districts.

Several speakers, including Mrs. Andrew Harper and Mr. Hanbury Davies, urged the claims of the club.

PUBLIC SERVICE BOARDS.

The ballot for the election of a divisional representative of the clerical division of the Commonwealth Public Service of this State to act on boards of inquiry and boards of appeal resulted in the election of Mr. W. G. Piper, telegraphist, Postmaster-General's Department. For the profession division, Mr. L. P. R. Bean, assistant engineer, was elected unopposed; as was Mr. R. H. Wynne for the general division.

Shampoo your Hair with REXONA SOAP

It will become soft, lustrous, and beautiful. Stops the hair from falling out, itching scalp, and dandruff.

To shampoo or wash the hair with Rexona Soap is an easy task, but the results are startling. It leaves the hair in such a beautiful condition, the scalp perfectly clean and wholesome. The hair becomes light and fluffy, waving about the face in abundance as beautiful hair should always appear. Rexona Soap leaves a delicate perfume, invigorating the roots of the hair, which prevents greyness. A few shampoos with Rexona Soap effectively remove every trace of dandruff or loose and falling hair. Ladies who use it for the hair say that Rexona Soap is far better than any of the so-called hair tonics.

Best for Baby's Skin

The skin of a new-born baby is so fresh and delicate that only the best soap is suitable for baby's bath. Mothers recognise the value of Rexona Skin and Facial Soap when they find that its regular use keeps that dainty skin from becoming rough and coarse, and the baby's bloom remains into childhood.

The best time for baby's bath is early morning. Have everything ready, the tub of warm water, Rexona Soap, a soft flannelette wash-cloth (which must be boiled daily), and a big soft towel. All the little clothes must be laid at hand, as there is no delay in dressing baby after the bath. Wash first its face and head, then his whole body; lift him out and dry him gently, but thoroughly. Powder is not a necessity when baby has been washed with Rexona Soap, as the skin is kept in such a good condition that chafing is unlikely. The baby will have such a nice, comfortable feeling after this bath that when fed he will enjoy a long, refreshing sleep. Again at night it is well to sponge baby's face and hands and part of his body with Rexona Soap and warm water. A baby so cared for will cause his mother no anxiety with eruptions or skin trouble, and will be protected from disease germs as well.

We advise that no one else be allowed to use baby's cake of soap, and that it be carefully put away after each bath, in a clean place.

Rexona Soap is a purely herbal soap, delicately medicated after the same principle as the famous Rexona Ointment, and can be used as a general toilet soap, but it is specially recommended for sensitive skins or for any skin trouble, as it greatly assists the action of Rexona Ointment, and can be relied on by fond to prevent skin troubles. When a child has been brought up to keep itself in a pure and clean condition by the use of Rexona Soap, good health and beauty must surely follow.

Gives Natural Beauty to Skin and Hair

The natural beauty of skin and hair which cannot be imitated can be obtained by regular use of Rexona Skin and Facial Soap. Ordinary Toilet Soaps do not assert this influence. Many of them contain free alkali, which tends to dry the skin and destroy its delicate texture. Even the best of such soaps can only cleanse; they cannot heal and protect the skin. Rexona Soap contains the same soothing, healing, antiseptic balsams as Rexona the Rapid Healer, the value of which in the treatment of skin affections is known throughout the world. Simply use Rexona Skin and Facial Soap regularly once or twice a day, and see if it does not quickly soothe and cleanse the pores, lessen the tendency to pimples, and leave the complexion clear, fresh, and velvety. Price, 1/ per tablet.

The only Safety razor costing less than 22/6 that can be Stropped without removing the blade

The "7 o'clock" gives a beautifully smooth shave because you always have a perfect edge on the blade. The stropping is done in the simple old-fashioned way. As a result you obtain each time an edge of which any barber might be proud.

The lower illustration in margin shows the razor in position for shaving. With a single touch of the finger it springs open into position for stropping or cleaning, as shown in the upper illustration. It is so simple that nothing can go wrong. In quality, finish, accuracy of adjustment and sharpness of blades, this razor will please the most fastidious. Indeed, many men, to whom money is no object, use it in preference to the most expensive razor that money can buy. Convince yourselves of its value by asking to see one before you decide to purchase.

Open—ready for stropping or cleaning.

Closed—ready for shaving.

Complete razor set, handsomely boxed, with strop in hinged partition, and 6 finest lancet steel blades . . 12/6

In Australia and Tasmania.

Price in New Zealand, 12/6.

OBTAINABLE EVERYWHERE

7 o'clock Safety Razor.

ON THE LAND.

PIGS BY WEIGHT.

A recommendation sent on from Kiah, in the Eden district, to the Primary Producers' Union, that pigs should be sold at the abattoirs yards by live weight, has been forwarded to the Meat Industries Board for consideration. In outlining the scheme the Kiah branch secretary said it was not proposed that each pig should be weighed separately, as this would mean that pigs would still be sold at so much per head. It was proposed that pigs be sold at so much per lb. It was estimated that a pig lost 20 per cent. of its weight in the killing—the exact percentage could be ascertained readily. All the farmers' pigs would be sold at so much per lb. Then they would be run over the scales—a simple scheme for which was supplied—and 20 per cent. deducted from the total, the buyers paying for the balance.

The objection that had been raised that officials in charge of the weighbridge would have to be persons in whom both buyer and seller had confidence was answered by the fact that at present the unfortunate farmer had to do all the trusting. The plan for the weighbridge included a number of pens opening into a race. Into these pens the classified pigs would be placed, and sold by auction by the pound. After being sold the pigs would be run through the race on to the weighbridge, and then into buyers' pens on the other side, to await delivery.

WEEVILS IN WHEAT.

An important demonstration in the treatment of weevil-infested wheat took place in the city yesterday, in the presence of the Federal Wheat Board and others interested in the problem. A weevil destructor was installed outside the Sydney Municipal Electric Lighting Station, and three or four bags of badly infested grain were passed through the machine. The process consists in the wheat being carried through a series of corrugated plates, and subjected to intense heat, the wheat being raised to a temperature of from 140 to 160 degrees F. This, it was claimed, is sufficient to destroy the weevils in the wheat. Samples of the wheat tested were taken from the hopper after being subjected to the process for 20 minutes, and were examined. In almost every instance the weevils were found to have been killed, and as far as could be ascertained the weevil eggs in the grain were also destroyed. Mr. R. A. Love, the representative of the British Commission on Wheat Supplies, who was present, subsequently expressed his satisfaction at the result of the experiments and considered that the machine had performed all that was claimed for it. The tests were carried out by Mr. F. Payne, of Payne and Denton, engineers, and the electrical elements were supervised by Mr. G. Maas.

WHEAT ELEVATORS.

Mr. E. Harris, secretary of the State Wheat Office, has been appointed by the Government as acting officer in charge of the Government grain elevators. He will leave Sydney at the end of the month on a visit to the United States and Canada, and will institute inquiries into the methods adopted in those countries in connection with the bulk handling of wheat. Elevators are in course of construction in various parts of the country, and the foundations for the big terminal elevator in Sydney are being prepared on Glebe Island.

BERRY EXPERIMENT FARM.

The Minister for Agriculture yesterday replied to criticisms which have recently been directed against the cattle bred by his department at Berry Experiment Farm. Taking the statement as to the high cost of milking the cattle at Berry Farm, Mr. Grahame pointed out that this was misleading, for the simple reason that the employees who milked the cows also assisted in the general cultivation work of the farm, and the cost of milking was well within a reasonable rate. The Minister considers that cattle bred by the department were putting up an excellent performance as show-winners; for instance, the yearling Milking Shorthorn bull, Robert Gibson of Berry, during the present year won second prize at Kiama, first at Nowra, first at Berry, and was third in a class of 75 young bulls at the Royal Agricultural Show. He was afterwards sold for 160 guineas, while at the same time the two bulls that beat him for first and second places at the Royal Agricultural Show were sold for 90 guineas and 60 guineas respectively. This bull was beaten at the Kiama Show by another bull bred by the department, which went to the North Coast, and immediately after completing a rough sea trip was awarded second prize in a good field of competitors at the Bangalow show. At Berry the winning two-year-old Milking Shorthorn bull was also bred by the department. With regard to Holsteins, a bull bred by the department, Captain Muller, won first and champion, also grand champion (all breeds) prizes at Camden, and at the Royal Agricultural Show he was awarded first and reserve champion prizes, being subsequently sold to a Western Australian buyer for 165 guineas. The champion bull (all breeds) at Hawkesbury District Show, Enver of Berry, was also bred by the department at Berry Farm.

The fact that these animals were bred at Berry Experiment Farm seemed, Mr. Grahame said, an effective answer to the argument that the farm did not justify its existence; but if further proof were wanted it could be found in the prices realised for a number of Holstein cattle recently submitted for auction at that farm. The department decided to dispose of 29 head of surplus stock, and they realised an average of 44 guineas per head; cows reached as high as 105 guineas, and averaged 56 guineas. Heifers secured top price, 63 guineas, and bulls 65 guineas. The results obtained from cattle bred at other farms had been equally satisfactory. In the show ring the department's cattle had also proved their quality. In fact, it could be said that at practically every show in the dairying districts leading prizes had been taken by stock bred by the department, thus proving that they were of sufficient quality to meet the requirements of show judges.

MEAT PRICES.

Mr. W. E. Abbott, Wingen, writes:—

When the Royal Commission was appointed to inquire into the cause of the high prices charged for meat to consumers in our capital cities I naturally expected that the first thing to be done would be to find out, first, what price the producers were getting; secondly, what prices wholesale butchers were charging to retail butchers; and thirdly, what price retail butchers were charging to the consuming public. If this had been done the facts could be put before the Government, Parliament, and the consuming public in a concrete form, easily understood by anybody. If the Royal Commission had taken the prices of the cattle and sheep sold in each of our capital cities from the stock agents books for, say, one week, then taken the weights of cattle and sheep killed at the slaughtering places the same week, with the prices at which the meat was sold to the retail butchers by the wholesale butchers, and the prices charged to the consumers in the retail shops, a fair average could be got, and we could all see who are the profiteers, if any. This does not seem to have been done.

I resolved to try and get the facts for myself as far as beef was concerned without the help of the Royal Commission, and having no sheep, to let the sheep owners work out their own case for themselves. I arranged with the manager of the Aberdeen Freezing Co. to take 20 pure-bred Devon steers (No. 5) just under three years old, paying me the highest market price, and supplying me with the weight and net value of the by-products at Aberdeen. The price was 50s per cwt, and the steers averaged 616lb, the by-products being valued at £3 8s. These steers were pure-bred Devons, fattened on cultivated fodder crops, and were, of course, the highest class of beef produced in Australia. Coarser bred and poorer quality would be worth about a halfpenny less per lb. The net return to me was 4½d per lb. If I had to deliver at the yards in Sydney and pay freight, commission, yard dues, and loss of weight in travelling, it would certainly not have been more than 4d or 4½d per lb for best quality meat produced—probably less. The cattle were weighed at Aberdeen on April 12, 1918. Allowing time for them to be put on the market on April 17, I asked a reputable citizen whose word can be relied on to go to one of the leading butcher's shops in Sydney and buy samples of the beef on sale. The prices charged were 1s 6d per lb for steak, 1s 4d per lb for roasting pieces, and 1s 1d for ribs, so that about 1s per lb was added to producer's price before the beef reached the consumer, when the consumer paid cash and took delivery in the shop. Second rate or shop beef, which forms about 90 per cent. of the supply, would not net the producer more than 3½d to 3¾d per lb, at the saleyards after paying freights, commission, yard dues, droving, etc.

This makes it clear that if producers made the beef a present to the consumers the price to be paid would still be over 1s per lb. Now, what I want to know is, who gets this shilling per lb added between the saleyards and butchers' shops in about a week's time, and what do they do for it?

TICKS AND REDWATER.

BRISBANE.—The outbreak of cattle ticks at Jericho is regarded as the worst ever experienced in this part of Central Queensland. It has been followed by a serious occurrence of redwater, which caused very considerable mortality amongst the cattle on the Jericho common, and led to several holdings surrounding the district being quarantined. Five hundred head travelling through Jericho common on their way to Blackall became tick infested, and were stopped 15 miles from here and quarantined. Redwater developed, and 70 died.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

BERRIGAN.—Messrs. W. F. Gomans, P. Connell, D. S. McLarty, and S. P. Wilson have been re-elected unopposed as directors of the Jerilderie Pastures Protection Board.

BERRIGAN.—At a stock sale at Jerilderie a pen of nine Shorthorn heifers, about 18 months old, bred on Mr. W. Thornton's farm at Berrigan, realised the high average of £19/5/ per head.

BOMBALA.—One bull at the recent sale of Nangutta cattle brought 250 guineas. Remarkably good prices were obtained throughout, the stock generally being of fine quality. Rain is very badly wanted if this portion of Monaro is to avoid a bad winter.

SHIRES' CONFERENCE.

OPENED BY GOVERNOR.

SOLDIERS' SETTLEMENTS.

The tenth annual conference of the Shires Association of New South Wales was opened by the Governor, Sir Walter Davidson, in the King's Hall, Phillip-street, yesterday. The president, Mr. A. K. Trethowen, M.L.C., presided. One hundred and twenty shires were represented, and visitors included Mr. J. Garlick, Under-Secretary Department of Local Government, Alderman H. F. Waller, president Local Government Association of New South Wales, Alderman John Morrison, vice-president, and Mr. R. M. King, secretary of the Local Authorities' Association of Queensland, Alderman H. J. Diddams, C.M.G., Brisbane City Council, Mr. C. C. Reade, secretary Town Planning Association, Adelaide, and Dr. T. H. Price, Mayor of Toowoomba (Q.).

Sir Walter Davidson said that, meeting for the first time the representatives of that form of local government, which followed more or less on the old lines and old traditions of the race, and which formed a very important factor in the devolution of self-government throughout the rising populations of the further districts of the State, he knew the paper facts a man in his position should know. He knew there were 136 shires, representing about 800,000 square miles of the State; he knew that the unimproved capital value was about £100,000,000; that the revenue of the shires totalled about £1,000,000 per year; that the shires were in a fairly solvent condition, and that nearly the whole of the revenue was spent on lines of communication and local needs. It was most interesting in all countries, especially where there were congeries of States and shires as in Australia, to follow and watch, and if possible guide, the two processes going on at the same time—the devolution of the State in its connection with the Federal power, and the devolution on the other hand of a great many powers which might be acquired by the central authority, but which would only develop when confined so far as practicable to small units of administration. Russia provided an example. The hope was felt that the Soviets, corresponding to the shire councils here, would be able to stave the progress of destruction and revolution. They were, however, swept away like everything else; but in the ordinary course of rebuilding and reconstruction it would be found that units such as these would be a dominating factor in the regeneration of Russia. Other nations were all working in the direction of large, fairly workable units of administration. In this State the shires were gradually taking over from the early stages wherein the pastoralist was the only developer of the resources of the back country, and the organisation had reached what he thought was a most efficient form of local administration. Everyone, of course, had a few local grievances and troubles; but apart from them the main point lay in the fact that the councils and the people whom they represented were intent upon natural and wise development, and they had his full sympathy. As a district commissioner in Ceylon, it was his duty to carry on much the same work as the shires here. "I can make roads and build bridges as well as anybody," his Excellency concluded." I commend your work and trust you will be able to carry out your wishes—even in the course of the next 100 years or so." (Laughter.)

His Excellency was accorded a vote of thanks on the motion of Mr. W. T. Missingham, seconded by Mr. P. F. O'Brien.

Mr. Garlick, Under-Secretary of the Local Government Department, said the only way Australia would be able to meet the liabilities incurred and still to be incurred before a victorious peace could be won was by increasing primary production. (Applause.) The shires would have to provide the means whereby these products could be sent to railways and ports. That meant an increase of work for the councils in which he hoped the Government would be able to assist. The Minister, for whose absence he apologised, was pleased with the results of his visits to the country, for he had learnt a great deal as a consequence, and intended to visit every shire in the State. (Applause.)

Alderman H. F. Waller, president of the Local Government Association, urged the imperative need for an amended Local Government Act. Exclusive of the City of Sydney, the liabilities, including loans, of local governing bodies amounted to £3,317,651, and the revenue was £3,486,947, or £169,896 more than their expenditure. Therefore, as the councillors gave their services in looking after this great commercial concern, the least the Government could do was to provide them with efficient machinery to carry it out. (Applause.)

Alderman Morrison (Q.), Mr. King (Q.), Alderman Diddams (Brisbane), Dr. Price, and Mr. Reade also briefly addressed the conference.

In moving the adoption of the executive's report, the president said the shire councils were "doing their bit;" they were forming into recruiting committees, and were taking up the repatriation scheme. It was only by united effort that the tide of adversity on the Western front could be stayed. But for the strike the new bill would doubtless have been passed. The measure had been promised for next session, but that day he had heard a rumour that the session would be a purely financial one. However, they had a definite promise by both the Premier and the Minister for Local Government. The proposed measure retained the principle of local control. Wherever possible, resolutions passed by the conference had been embodied. It was one of the most advanced measures introduced in the Commonwealth. The Land Valuation Act passed since last conference looked very much like imposing a huge expenditure on shires, involving them, on appearances, in a cost of anything from 10 to 80 per cent. of their rates for their valuations. He might have made a mistake in his review of the gazetted announcement, but the executive would look into the matter thoroughly. It looked to him as if some of the larger shires would have to pay from £1000 to £1500 to get their valuations through.

By 54 votes to 32 the conference expressed the opinion that where the allocation of the expenditure of the main roads grant in individual shires was concerned, more power as to details should be left to the council concerned.

Lyndhurst and Macquarie shires proposed a protest against the innovation by the Local Government Department imposing an obligation on councils to subsidise, to a very large extent, the sum granted for expenditure out of the main roads vote. Councillor J. Kelly, moving the combined motions, said Lyndhurst council was offered £500 on condition that it spent £600 on construction and £500 on maintenance.

The conference agreed to a motion by Ku-ring-gai shire that councils should have power to construct or contribute to the cost of works outside their boundary if such works were of benefit to it.

A lively discussion took place on a proposal from Toramia shire that councils should be given power to recover the cost of repairing damage to roads, in addition to the penalty provided in ordinance No. 30. Representatives of the northern districts emphasised the damage done by timber waggons; in one case £150 was spent on repairing a road, and two hours after completion of the work another £30 had to be spent on further repairs. "Make roads that will carry traffic," said one delegate, who claimed that men with heavy loads were using the roads legitimately. The motion was carried by 43 votes to 41.

Cobbora shire proposed that councils should be empowered to limit the tonnage of loads passing over roads within their respective areas. The proposal was agreed to by a substantial majority.

Councillor A. M'Bean (Windouran) moved on behalf of Wakool shire that councils should be given power to divert heavy traffic, such as wool and wheat waggons, from the main streets or villages or towns on to by-streets. The motion was carried.

Motions in favour of empowering councils to control and levy taxes on all traction engines traversing roads throughout the shire were agreed to.

LAND FOR SOLDIERS.

The conference agreed to the following resolution:—

In pursuance of circular letter from the Minister for Lands, dated July 18, 1917, relative to local assistance and advice to returned soldiers, this conference is of opinion that the proposal made therein placed too much work on the two men whose appointment was suggested. This council feels that a consultation with the Shire Council on certain aspects would be of much practical benefit, and could be readily done, and suggests, particularly in connection with the resumption of land in the shire, the opinion of the Shire Council should be sought on the following points:—(1) If the land is fit for closer settlement in soldiers' blocks; (2) if the vendor's price is reasonable, or what is a reasonable price; (3) what areas should the land be subdivided into; (4) for what purpose is the land suitable; (5) what capital is essential for successful working of the land.

EIGHTY-FOURTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE DIRECTORS OF THE BANK OF AUSTRALASIA, With the Accounts for the Half-year to 15th October, 1917. Presented to the Proprietors at the Annual General Meeting, held on Thursday, 4th April, 1918.

REPORT.

The Directors submit to the Proprietors the Balance-sheet as at 15th October last, with the Profit Account for the half-year to that date. After providing for rebate on bills current, for British and Australasian rates and taxes, and after making provision for bad and doubtful debts and other contingencies, the net profit for the half-year amounted to £200,440/13/6.

To this sum must be added £122,868/13/4 brought forward from the previous half-year, making a total of £323,309/6/10, out of which the Directors have declared a dividend for the half-year at the rate of 14 per cent. per annum, or £2/16/ per share, and a Bonus at the rate of 3 per cent. per annum, or 12/ per share, together £3/8/ per share, free of income tax.

The Dividend and Bonus will absorb £170,000, and the Directors have further appropriated £30,000 to the Reserve Fund. There will then remain £123,309/6/10 to be carried forward to the next account.

The Dividend and Bonus will be payable in London and in Australasia on the 5th April.

The Directors retiring by rotation are:—Horace Peel, Esq., Tom Richard Johnson, Esq., and the Rt. Hon. Viscount Midleton, K.P., who, being eligible, offer themselves for re-election.

The Proprietors will be asked to approve the election, as a Director, of Mr. Harold Nelson, in place of Sir E. Montague Nelson, K.C.M.G., resigned.

The Auditors, Messrs. Welton and Bond, have merged their business with that of Messrs. Deloitte, Plender, Griffiths, and Co., and the latter firm offer themselves for election as Auditors.

Since the date of the last report the Agencies at Coburg (Melbourne) and Kiewa, Victoria, and the Branch at Rosedale, Victoria, have been closed.

4 Threadneedle-street, London, 25th March, 1918. T. R. JOHNSON, Chairman.

THE CALL FOR MEN.

Among all the assurances of ultimate victory given us since the beginning of the offensive none has been so encouraging as the recruiting figures published during this week and last. The Australian people have answered the latest revelation of German strength in the only way that can appeal to their enemies, by coming forward as they have always done in the face of actual disaster. It would be impossible to graduate in order of importance the number of influences which have brought about this result. Undoubtedly the foremost among them was the series of German victories and the repetitions of German insolence which followed them. Men realised at last that in this war there could be no limit to their sacrifices. They saw that the only obstacle to enlistment should be not poverty or family ties or occupation, but physical unfitness. The lesson of the revival is that the actual dangers of Australia must be brought home to the minds of its citizens, and that the conventional methods of exhortation have failed. This brief success has come only when the facts needed no explanation, when controversies about the prizes of the war have become demonstrably futile, and when every man can see for himself that immediate and permanent defeat is a possibility. The risks before a nation which will take no warning from its leaders and will not act until the enemy has struck his blow have often been insisted on. What we may be grateful for now is that the final warning has evoked this response, and that thanks to the indomitable heroism of our defenders it has not come too late. With this recognition of the danger hanging over the Allies, and involving our own country, there mingled a sense of the splendid achievements of our soldiers in the field, and of our obligations towards them. Every man who remembers the assurances given to the first divisions has felt that Australia in its apathy was on the point of dishonouring its promise. The part which Australians have played in resisting this attack has recalled this obligation to men who had forgotten its full meaning. The knowledge that other and heavier attacks would follow has sent recruits to the colours so that they might avert the disaster of a further reduction of their divisions. The best possible answer has been given to the German propaganda designed to persuade Australians that they will be used unfairly. It is clear from the details of this defence and of the Flanders campaign that English divisions have suffered as severe a strain and far heavier losses. Where all troops have been tested to the limit of human endurance, troops from the Dominions have shown themselves fitted for operations in which only a certain number of the British divisions are employed. The true inference, and the inference which has been drawn in this country is, however, quite contrary to the aim of the German propaganda. The defence of Dernancourt and the recapture of Villers-Bretonneux have taught us that the more Australians go to the front the quicker will victory come to the Allied armies, and our own divisions enjoy their well-earned relief.

For the methods which have been devised for bringing the national danger home to the hearts and minds of the Australian people great credit is due to the Minister for Recruiting and his helpers. For him obstacles exist to be overcome, suggestions are made to be considered and adopted where possible. In every case the cause is above the system, and above all precautions which are unnecessary for the national safety. The Minister has been able to give added force to his appeals through the interest which he showed when a private member in the welfare of the soldier. His audiences may be satisfied that to the best of his ability he will see that there is equality of sacrifice between the stay-at-home and the soldier, that the man who is disqualified by age or physical disability shall not enjoy any financial advantage in addition to the security of his life. In bringing about a sense of the approximate equality of sacrifice Mr. Orchard has undoubtedly been helped by the movement to insure soldiers' lives by private individuals. The recognition of the obligation of civilians to soldiers and of soldiers to their country has been wider and deeper than at any time since the first year of the war. It has been beyond either the control or the inspiration of party or industrial or ecclesiastical leaders. It has sprung from the people exercising an independent judgment on the facts thrust before them by the German advance and the splendid resistance of the Allies. We must trust to the same judgment, fortified by the same methods, to see that this revival is continued. There is not the slightest reason to believe that the need for men is less now than it was when the King sent out his appeal to the Dominions. It is still true that the army now in France must maintain its defence for many weeks if we are to be able to initiate a counter-offensive at the time chosen by the Allied leaders. In that resistance the Australian people cannot do their full share, and Australian troops may have to do more than their share in consequence of our prolonged apathy. But the recruits of to-day will be in ample time for the counter-offensive which will end the war. They will fight in a campaign in which the Allies must have numbers if they are to avoid a compromise. They will fight knowing from revelations of the German character that a compromise would be equivalent to slavery postponed for a few years, and that in bringing victory to pass they will be completing the work of their countrymen who have been neglected too long, and protecting the honour of their country which has been put in jeopardy.

WAR AND INDUSTRY.

The visit of members of the Chambers of Commerce and Manufactures to the Eveleigh railway workshops yesterday throws a strong light upon one effect of war upon industry. For years the Railway Commissioners imported a large proportion of the rolling stock and material for permanent way, and although local manufacture met with a certain amount of encouragement at their hands no attempt whatsoever was made to produce in Australia many essential articles. The department, according to official returns, imported nearly a million pounds' worth annually. Then the war came and imports were restricted, partly because it was not possible to obtain certain commodities for money, and partly because tonnage was so scarce as to interfere seriously with oversea transport. The Commissioners then had to face a serious curtailment of the service, or help themselves. They helped themselves to an extent disclosed to the somewhat astonished visitors yesterday. We have had a lesson in self-reliance such as only the war could teach. All this is very satisfactory. It shows that Australian engineers and Australian workmen can be resourceful under difficulties.

When the war is over some of the arts learned under its tyrannical sway will remain with us. No one can say precisely what the future has in store for us. All that is tolerably certain is that things will be materially changed. Whether the resolutions of the Paris Economic Conference will obtain, and a certain period of economic boycott will be imposed upon the Central Powers or not, is enshrouded in doubt. Much will depend upon how the war ends. With a complete victory only will the Allies be able to dictate terms. But whatever happens, providing we survive, there will be a tendency on the part of all countries to render themselves much more self-sufficient than they were. Towards this end the Federal Government proposes to organise industry. For this purpose it has created its Board of Trade. With this object in view it intends to apply science to industry as it has never been applied here before. In doing this it is only following the example set by Britain, by the United States, by Canada, by France, and by Germany itself. The struggle of the future may or may not be one of tariffs. It certainly will be one of efficiency. In the past in Australia we have not been efficient. We have lagged behind in science and in economic theory. Our captains of industry have carried on by rule of thumb. Our workmen have believed that their salvation lies in high wages, short hours, and small production. Both were wrong. The masters should have taken more care in keeping themselves abreast with the times. The men should have realised that the product was the mother of wages, and only by increasing the output could they hope permanently to enlarge their share. It is to be hoped that the war has instructed both. The masters must study efficiency, the men must give fuller value for their wages. By organisation of industry and by applying the most efficient methods the evil effect of high wages upon costs can be more than neutralised, always provided the men give full value.

INCREASED PRICE FOR AMMUNITION.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The Minister for Defence, Senator Pearce, said to-day that it had become necessary to increase to rifle clubs and other units the price of .303 ball ammunition from £2 10s to £3 15s; and .22 miniature rifle ammunition from 14s to 14s 3d per 1000 rounds. This action had been taken on account of the considerable increase in the cost of the ammunition to the Department.

PRINCE LICHNOWSKY'S REVELATIONS.

GERMANY'S PERFIDY.

The Melbourne "Argus," in its issue of Saturday last, publishes the following letter from its London correspondent under date March 26:—

Society and official people in London recall with a certain amount of pleasure the favourable impression that was formed here of the last German Ambassador, Prince Lichnowsky. He was much liked because of his seeming fairness: he was an aristocrat to his finger tips, and he was genuinely distressed when war broke out. He left London in tears. Some people doubted the sincerity of his regrets, for, of course, he was serving the purposes of the Kaiser, but it was noted that when he reached Germany he did not seem to be "persona grata" with his master, and, if I remember rightly, the Kaiser was reported to have treated him coldly.

We now learn that Prince Lichnowsky was apparently not permitted to know too much of his Kaiser's treacherous plans. After this week's revelations, it almost seems that the Prince was sent here to mask the doings of Kuhlmann, who was undoubtedly the most active man in the Embassy, and was probably closer in with the war party than was the Ambassador. Be that as it may, Prince Lichnowsky has done this country a great service. He has given the lie to some of the worst accusations made by the German officials and Press against Lord (then Sir Edward) Grey, and has flatly contradicted all that has fallen from successive Chancellors respecting the bellicose designs of Great Britain. The Prince now boldly accuses his own country of having been the disturbing element in Europe.

A more damning document of German perfidy could not have been written by Germany's worst enemy than the Prince's private memorandum, which has just been published by the Swedish Socialist newspaper, the "Politiken." The Prince, we are told, wrote this document for the family archives, and had half a dozen typewritten copies circulated among his private friends, in order to justify his position as an honest public servant. One copy reached the Chancellor's department, and caused a great hubbub. In some way not explained, the Socialists secured another copy, and had it printed in Sweden, for it was not permissible to publish it in Germany. It is dated August, 1916. This week the Prince has been deprived of his ambassadorial rank.

The writer first discusses the futility of Germany's Moroccan policy, its needless irritation of France, and proceeds:—"After rejecting Delcasse's attempt to come to an agreement with us respecting Morocco, and declaring we had no political interests there, we suddenly recognised in Sultan Abdul Aziz a Kruger No. 2. To him, like the Boers, we promised the powerful support of the German Empire. Both affairs ended, as they had to end unless we wanted a world-war, in a withdrawal." "Our attitude," he adds, "promoted the Russo-Japanese and the Russo-British 'rapprochements.'"

It is especially interesting to note what this high authority has to say respecting the accusations which German statesmen, and their newspapers, have specifically directed against Lord Grey. Prince Lichnowsky says that when he arrived in London, in November, 1912, Mr. Haldane's mission had failed, because Germany had demanded a promise of neutrality, instead of being satisfied with a compact which would secure that country against a British attack, or an attack with British support. The Prince found Lord Grey "anxious to remove causes of friction between England and Germany, and by a network of agreements to secure the peace of the world." He found in England two parties, one including most of the Liberal Cabinet and the leading Liberal organs, who believed in the possibility of an understanding with Germany. The pessimists were Conservatives like Mr. Balfour, Lord Roberts (who was preaching compulsory service), and the Northcliffe Press. But these refrained from all attacks, and observed, personally and politically, a friendly attitude. The Prince points out how provocative the action of his own Government had been, and how it portended trouble. There was the Kaiser's visit to Tangiers in 1905; the threat to Russia after Austria's annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina in 1908; the Agadir incident; and "our naval policy." He declares bluntly that at the time of the Balkan trouble Germany had the choice of promoting a stable settlement of the Peninsula, in accordance with the wishes of the people, or the Triple Alliance policy. Instead of placing herself by the side of young, strong, and aspiring communities in the Balkans, who were ready to turn to Germany and open their markets to her, Germany committed herself to reactionary Austria—a country "which was absolutely dependent on Germany, in peace or in war, without an alliance." And "in Serbia," says the ex-ambassador, "against our own economic interests, we also supported the Austrian policy of strangulation. We have always ridden wrong horses—Kruger, Abdul Aziz, Abdul Hamid, William of Wied, and finally, we came to grief over Berchtold's stable."

Prince Lichnowsky complains that when the Ambassadors' Conference was held in London, in 1913, he was merely a stalking horse. The conference was led by the Austrian representative, Count Mensdorff, and the language of the Prince's memorandum seems to suggest that the writer did not seem to understand that Germany and Austria were bent on war. Lord Grey took a leading part at that conference. So far from being a promoter of the war, one of the causes of the war, as the Germans allege, Lord Grey "never sided with the British Allies, Russia or France; he usually took the side of the German group."

This damaging disclosure has attracted much attention. It is the testimony of a German diplomatist to the straightforwardness and honesty of our own Government, and it also shows that the real authors of the present war are to be found in Berlin and Vienna. Many of its passages give the lie direct to Count Hertling and the Pan-Germans.

PERSONAL.

VICE-REGAL.

His Excellency the Governor, accompanied by Captain Saltmarshe, A.D.C., was present at the 10th annual conference of the Shires Association of New South Wales in Sydney yesterday.

His Excellency the Governor yesterday received Mr. K. Kamaki, of the Japanese Consulate-General.

His Excellency the Governor, accompanied by Captain Saltmarshe, A.D.C., presided at the annual meeting of the Sydney City Mission, at the Town Hall, last night.

Lady Davidson, accompanied by Captain Saltmarshe, A.D.C., presided at the annual meeting of the Bush Book Club of New South Wales yesterday afternoon.

Mr. W. A. Watt, Acting Prime Minister, and his Ministerial colleagues, Messrs. Groom and Massey Greene, returned to Melbourne last night.

The visiting State Premiers and Treasurers were entertained at dinner last night at the Town Hall by the Lord Mayor, Alderman Joynton Smith.

Mr. H. de B. O'Reilly, barrister-at-law, of Sydney, has been informed by the Secretary of State for the Colonies, through the Solicitor-General for the Commonwealth, that he has been appointed as British Judge of the Condominium in the New Hebrides. Judge Roseby, whom Mr. O'Reilly succeeds as British Judge, has been appointed to a similar position in Mauritius. Mr. O'Reilly is to leave Sydney this week to take up his new duties.

The President-General of the Methodist Church of Australasia (Rev. Dr. Carruthers) leaves Sydney for Brisbane to-day on an official visit to Queensland. During his tour he will visit Brisbane, Bundaberg, Mount Morgan, Rockhampton, Maryborough, Ipswich, Toowoomba, and Warwick; also Tenterfield, Armidale, and Tamworth, on the return journey. He expects to be absent from Sydney for fully three weeks.

Mr. Percy Allan, of Hunter's Hill, has been officially notified that the elder of his surviving sons serving in France—Captain Herbert T. Allan, M.C.—was specially mentioned in Sir Douglas Haig's despatch of November 7, 1917. Captain Allan received his early military training at St. Ignatius College, Riverview.

Mr. F. F. Way, chief accountant to Messrs. Elliott Brothers, Limited, who completed 50 years of service with the company on Monday last, was, at a meeting of the directors and employees, presented by Dr. Elliott, on behalf of the directors, with a cheque, and by the employees with a gold watch and chain and a gold pencil case.

KEROSENE SHORTAGE.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

A serious kerosene famine is threatened in Australia, the chief contributing factor being lack of tonnage between the Commonwealth and American ports. Orders have been lodged with the Vacuum Oil Company for the supply of nearly 100,000 cases of spirit, but it was stated to-day that the company's local stocks were low.

LABOUR STILL TALKING.

WHILE GERMANY ACTS.

For two weeks the New South Wales Labour Council has been discussing what attitude it shall take in answer to the appeal for unity which came to it, with its own representatives' full concurrence, from the Governor-General's recruiting conference in Melbourne. Two whole nights of debate have been taken up by the discussion; at least one more meeting is practically certain to be occupied in the same way. Meanwhile, Germany acts. The most determined preparations are being made for the most colossal attack on the liberties of the world. It is the primary issue of the war all over again. We parley among ourselves, while the foe makes ready to crush us. Should we not end this debate at once?

Set up, like a fiery cross, before the whole community, is the appeal for unity. A voice such a voice as has never spoken to us before; the voice of outraged democracies, of devastated peoples; the voice, indeed, of our own great Empire in distress, pleads with us to settle our differences and unite to meet and crush the foe of individual and international freedom. That voice has awakened a momentary revival of the patriotic impulse of the people. It is bringing recruits to the enlisting depots in greater numbers than for many months past. It has fired the enthusiasm of some who have not heretofore urged the necessity of recruiting.

Yet unionists are being urged to tarry awhile and to parley a little further. Is there time to parley? Men are suspicious; the very men whose hearty co-operation it is admitted is necessary to the success of the recruiting movement say that they are suspicious. "Promises have been made," they say, "let us wait until they are fulfilled." These men themselves admit that the foe must be beaten. They have declared their choice, that they are anti-German, and that they would not willingly submit to German rule. Yet they ask us to wait while we talk over our domestic differences.

Who would not wait, could they be convinced that waiting were the better policy? Who is there among us that would willingly send one man more than is necessary to the war? But will the foe wait? There is indisputable evidence that the German would stop altogether, or at least delay indefinitely, the reinforcement of the Australian troops at the front. But all he offers us in return is that we shall become vassals of a war lord, subjects of an autocratic tyranny that is admitted even in Germany itself, and by the very men and women who are straining every nerve to secure the ascendancy of the Teutonic race.

If there were any real reason to doubt the fulfilment of the promises that have been made, it might be possible to understand this attitude. Yet even then he would be a brave man who would deny that the industrial conditions obtaining in Australia are infinitely preferable to those which would be inevitable under a foreign yoke. But there is no reason to doubt the sincerity of those who gave the undertakings. Substantial steps have already been taken to observe them. On the other hand, there are not lacking evidences that the rank and file of the industrial organisations are accepting their personal responsibilities. The message of Private Tom Flynn the other day was clear and distinct: Unionists, fall in! Are we to tolerate a position in which the leaders of the working men and women of this country lag behind the rank and file in a crisis where our all is at stake?

The Labour party is at the parting of the ways. It has been there for a considerable time. But now there is an imperative demand which cannot be long ignored, for a decision to be made. Something more than lip pronouncements against German autocracy and military domination is required, and it is required at once. No one asks Labour leaders to forego their right to discuss their legitimate grievances. Public sentiment would be altogether too strong against any attempt to deprive them of this right. But when they set up that the redress of these grievances must precede any effort on their part to help stem the onrush of the German hordes, then they must expect that their motives will be suspected. It is only because of the indomitable valour of greatly-outnumbered Anglo-Saxon forces that the Germans are still some miles from Calais and Dunkirk and other Channel ports. And as sure as there is a heaven above, upon which Labour leaders call for witness of their singleness of purpose, it will only be by further exhibitions of that same valour that the Germans will be blocked again when they make their next great thrust towards the same objective.

What will it profit the Labour party to find all their grievances, both real and imaginary, redressed if that German objective is gained this month, or next month, or next year? Little good can be achieved by a depressing pessimism. But it surely requires no argument to demonstrate that there is an imminent danger of a German triumph of arms. Some people who are reviving the cry of peace by negotiation profess to believe that the Germans only need to be talked to in the right way, and the war will come to an immediate end. Let those who think that stand apart from the rest of the community, and get what comfort they can out of their reflections. It is the sheerest madness, however, for those who disagree with them, those who realise the tragic seriousness of the real position, to lend them aid by taking any course which means delay, while our battle-scarred troops strain their eyes to see the dust of tramping reinforcements, or bend their ears to catch the sound of the "quick alarming drum, saying 'Come, Free men, come, or your heritage be wasted!'" What will any of Labour's cherished ideals be worth if Germany wins? Even Labour leaders have admitted that we have reached a stage now when that aspect of the war must be considered. Then it is plain that this is no time to parley. Let the peace negotiators get the ear of Germany if they can; no one will object. But to stop our recruiting activities while we do that is the sure and certain way to get laughed at for our pains.

When one takes the optimistic view, there is little, if any, more comfort to be got out of the reflections. Germany cannot win, we say. The war must end eventually in the triumph of the Anglo-Saxon race. Even so, where stands Australia if we waste these precious days in parleying about our own domestic troubles? Already the effect of the tremendous falling off in our recruiting has been to make the name of Australia a byword in the mouths of other nations. Is that what the very flower of our land has been sacrificed for? Is that a fitting monument to the volunteer heroes of Gallipoli and of a dozen battlefields in France? God forbid.

Yet what are we doing to prevent that stain sinking into the fabric of our national life? We are parleying about strikes, and strikers, and political prisoners. To the Labour leaders Cromwell's famous injunction rings out with great force to-day: "I beseech you in the bowels of Christ, think that ye may be wrong."

THE "SYDNEY MAIL."

The current number of the "Mail" contains excellent pictures of the "March to Freedom," which began at Armidale, and the various stages of which have been fully described in the "Herald." A recent parade of reinforcements in Sydney is the subject of the title page; and the public welcome given the sick and wounded soldiers who returned on Monday last is depicted. Saturday's inspection of the ambulance and nursing divisions in the Inner Domain is freely illustrated, and there are also interesting pictures secured on the occasion of the bowling match at Waverley between the Commercial Travellers' Club and the returned soldiers of Randwick Hospital. The "Mail" has from time to time published portraits of the fighting descendants of many of our pioneers; of especial interest is the group reproduced this week showing Captain Philip Gidley King, R.N., the third Governor of New South Wales, with his wife, son, and two daughters, and no fewer than 58 direct descendants who responded to the call of the Empire in the present war. A descriptive article on Port Macquarie; an illustrated account of the Liverpool Old Men's Home; an entertaining "Outdoor Australia" page; and groups of our soldiers abroad, are among the features of a capital issue. The Administrator's report on the Northern Territory aborigines is reproduced, with pictures; and special mention may be made of an exclusive "Mail" photograph of the State Premiers in conference in Sydney.

WEST FRONT.

BRITISH AIRMEN BUSY.

ARTILLERY ACTIVITY.

LONDON, May 14.

Sir Douglas Haig reporting at noon on Monday stated: There is hostile artillery fire in the Somme Valley and Albert sectors, and between Locon and Nieppe Forest.

Sir Douglas Haig on Monday night reported: Hostile artillery has developed considerable activity north of the Serre, and is also active on the southern portion of the British front, and in the sector northward of Kemmel.

Flying was impossible on Sunday until evening, when the visibility was excellent. We dropped eight tons in the neighbourhoods of Menin, Armentieres, and La Bassee; also on Bruges docks.

We brought down six Germans. One British machine is missing.

Our airmen dropped 14 tons at night-time at Douai, Marcoing, and Chaulnes railway stations, Bruges docks, and Bapaume and Peronne. One British machine has not returned.

A French communique issued on Monday afternoon stated: There is mutual artillery fire at some points north and south of the Avre. Detachments penetrated the German lines north of Momeny, in Lorraine, and brought back prisoners.

The latest French communique reports nothing except a somewhat lively reciprocal bombardment, notably on both banks of the Avre.

A GERMAN CLAIM.

(Admiralty—Per Wireless Press.)

A German official report states: The enemy lost in April 271 aeroplanes, of which 122 fell behind our lines. We lost 123.

GERMAN PLANS.

OFFENSIVE ON TWO FRONTS.

An Amsterdam message says the German Press is attaching capital importance to the meeting of the Emperors of Germany and Austria. It is regarded as a prelude to the opening of an Austrian offensive on the Italian front simultaneously with the resumption of operations of great magnitude on the Western front. It is understood that Ludendorff has planned both operations.

A German official report states: The Emperor Charles visited the German Emperor at the main headquarters. He was accompanied by Baron Burian and General von Erz (Chief of the Austrian General Staff). Germany was represented by Hindenburg, Ludendorff, and Kuhlmann (Foreign Minister). There was a cordial and thorough discussion of all fundamental political, economic, and military questions affecting Austria and Germany. The representatives of Austria and Germany were in complete accord on all these matters, and favoured the extension and deepening of the existing alliance. The guiding lines of the contemplated contractual agreements already exist in principle.

THE AMERICANS.

ALLIES' WAITING POLICY.

OTTAWA, May 13.

A summary of war operations received from the British War Cabinet, states that the Allies are so confident of their ability to hold the enemy that they have decided not to use the whole American army until later reinforcements arrive, and convert it into a complete, powerful, self-supporting force.

General Foch has large reserves still available, while the enemy is rapidly using up his reserves, and is obliged to hasten in order to achieve victory. The next blow is expected on the Arras-Amiens front.

A Washington message says: Military officials rejoice at the decision of the Allies not to use American troops in large numbers until the Americans are ready to strike as a powerful, self-supporting army.

Lord Reading (British Ambassador to Washington) has not received any confirmation of the report that the Allied Commanders brigading the Americans with the British and French will wait until the Americans are able to form their own armies.

Lord Reading doubts the accuracy of the announcement attributed to the British Cabinet.

Mr. Baker (United States Secretary for War), in the course of a statement, said the American forces in France are now actively engaged in battle, and will be so engaged regularly in future.

[The war summary referred to is probably identical with the communication cabled by the Colonial Secretary to the Acting Prime Minister of Australia, which appeared in yesterday's "Herald."]

PURSUING THE TURKS.

TWO MORE GUNS TAKEN.

LONDON, May 13.

An official report on the Mesopotamian campaign states: Mounted troops pursued the Turks beyond Kurkuk. They drove the enemy across the Lesser Zab, at Altonkupri, capturing 30 prisoners and two guns.

According to advices received in Washington from Berlin "Vorwaerts" admits that if the British succeed in cutting the Hedjaz railway, Turkey will lose Arabia.

GERMAN NAVY.

WILL IT COME OUT?

M. Marcel Hutin, writing in the "Echo de Paris," says the German Navy will take part in the next phase of the battle on the western front. The German people were so impressed by the energetic blows delivered at Zeebrugge and Ostend that the Reichstag Committee took Admiral von Capelle to task for the inaction of the navy.

RUSSIAN AMAZON.

GOING TO FIGHT IN FRANCE.

A New York report says Marie Leontiva Botchkareva, leader of the Battalion of Death, has arrived at a Pacific port from Russia, and is going to France to fight the Germans. She expects to die on the battlefield. She crossed Siberia, disguised as a peasant, and took refuge in British warships in Vladivostock Harbour.

IMPERIAL POLITICS.

Earl Brassey has given notice of the following motion at the meeting of the Royal Colonial Institute on the 29th inst.: That the separation of Imperial matters from the domestic affairs of the Motherland is urgently necessary, and that the settlement of the future constitution of the United Kingdom is an essential preliminary to the discussion of the future government of the Empire at a special Imperial Conference at the conclusion of the war.

BRITISH BOMBS.

OSTEND AND ZEEBRUGGE.

NAVAL AIRMEN'S WORK.

LONDON, May 13.

The Admiralty reports: Between May 6 and May 11 aircraft from Dunkirk have successfully bombed the docks and seaplane base at Ostend; also Zeebrugge mole and lockgates, and shipping; several direct hits were scored on sheds and the Zeebrugge mole. A large shed at Ostend was completely burnt out.

We destroyed six machines and drove down two during patrols. One British machine is missing.

A seaplane on Friday in the North Sea engaged a Zeppelin, which retreated after half an hour.

ITALIAN CAMPAIGN.

AUSTRIANS' HEAVY LOSSES.

An Italian official report states: After an intense bombardment on the night of the 11th inst., the enemy attacked our new positions at Monte Corno. He was arrested by our fire, and when we counter-attacked he was obliged to retire with heavy losses.

HUNGRY GERMANS.

NEW CRISIS APPROACHING.

Mr. Cyril J. Brown, the Hague correspondent of the "New York World," learns that Germany is approaching a new and grave war crisis. The people are alarmed because of the delayed victory and dwindling food supplies. The comparative plenty enjoyed in the winter is now succeeded by hunger. The meat ration has been reduced, and sickness is spreading at an alarming rate. Twenty-three per cent. of the population are suffering from disease. Germany's food reserves for civilians are near exhausting point, and no relief is in sight.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE.

GERMANY'S ANTIPATHY.

The Amsterdam correspondent of the "Daily Chronicle" says Germany does not conceal her disappointment at the success of Mr. Lloyd George. She professes to accept Major-General Maurice's accusations as true. The German newspapers assert that Mr. Lloyd George must be removed before peace can even be discussed.

The "Berliner Mittagszeitung" says the most important fact is the revelation of a deep cleavage between the British and French army staffs.

RED CROSS PARCELS.

ENABLE PRISONERS TO SUBSIST.

Thirty-two prisoners repatriated from Germany have arrived in England, including two Western Australians, Privates G. Bell (16th Battalion), formerly employed at the Bank of Western Australia, Perth, and R. Pilgrim (51st Battalion). Bell was taken prisoner at Reincourt on April 11, 1917, and Pilgrim at Mouquet Farm on September 3, 1916. Bell was wounded in the left leg and shoulder, and the leg did not heal. Pilgrim sustained severe facial injury.

Before his capture Bell lay in a shell hole for 26 hours in a heavy snowfall. He crawled to the German line 10 yards distant, and was carried back to a dressing station through a heavy barrage. He was taken to Valenciennes, Stettin, Altdam, and Aachen. He remained in hospital throughout.

Pilgrim was picked up by the Germans in a shell hole, and successfully treated at Caudry, Darmstadt, Constance, and Dusseldorf. He was passed for internment at Constance, but returned to Dusseldorf, where he remained for 13 months.

Both agree that they could not have subsisted on the German rations. They lived almost exclusively on food parcels sent by the Australian Red Cross.

POST-WAR TRADE.

PARIS CONFERENCE POLICY.

Replying to Sir Edward Carson Mr. Bonar Law (Chancellor of the Exchequer) stated in the House of Commons that the Council of Ministers in France had denounced all commercial conventions containing the general clause regarding most-favoured nations. The object of the denunciation was to leave each country's hands free when peace arrives. It was the intention of the British Government to adopt a similar course, having regard to the probable shortage of raw material after the war, and the necessity for providing for the requirements of the British Empire and her Allies. He would make a statement upon the progress made amongst the Allies in carrying out the policy agreed upon at the Paris Conference, when the Imports and Exports Bill was re-introduced.

Sir Edward Carson asked if America was anxious for united economic control.

Mr. Bonar Law said he had every reason to believe so. Such action would be much more effective if taken in conjunction with the Allies.

THE NEED FOR MEN.

Arrangements have been made to enable the British army to take 30,000 younger agricultural workers of the fittest category before July. It is expected that the authorities will make considerable use of German war prisoners in agricultural work.

PROPORTIONAL REPRESENTATION REJECTED.

In the House of Commons Dr. Herbert Fisher moved the adoption of the proportional representation scheme, as recommended in connection with the Franchise Bill. Mr. Asquith recommended the House to agree to an experiment on a small scale, seeing that a large, new body of electors would be enfranchised.

The House by 166 votes to 110 rejected the clause whereby proportional representation was to be applied to selected constituencies, the Government standing neutral.

SOLDIER BRIDEGROOMS.

The Registrar-General of Marriages has instituted a system under which the celebrants of the marriages of oversea soldiers must notify the military headquarters of the Dominion concerned prior to the celebration, and also inform the bride of the result of the inquiries.

Brigadier-General Griffiths, of Australian Headquarters, replying to the charges made by Mr. Rendall, M.P., says he is always prepared to inform bona-fide inquirers as to the marital condition of soldier suitors without disclosing their military record. Inquiries number on an average 60 weekly.

AIR HERO A PRISONER.

Lieutenant Jerrard, V.C., who was recently awarded the Victoria Cross for a wonderful series of air fights, is now a prisoner in Austria.

RUSSIA.

MAY STRIKE AGAIN.

The Washington correspondent of the United Press interviewed Thomas Masarik, a Bohemian education leader, who has arrived from Russia. He said Russia was preparing to strike against Germany in the closing days of the war. The Czechs and Slovenes are organising an army.

ROMANOFFS ROBBED.

It is reported from Amsterdam that the Germans have confiscated all property belonging to the Romanoffs in the Crimea, including the Empress Dowager's castle at Duelber, near Sebastopol, leaving the Empress only her private apartments. German guards stand before the castle.

IRELAND.

BISHOPS' ATTITUDE.

Dr. Keating, Roman Catholic Bishop of Northampton, reprobates the attempt to arouse an anti-Popery campaign. He says the Irish bishops have taken a grave step, but it is exclusively their own. They had not consulted either the Vatican or the British bishops. He hoped the Irish prelates would yet find a way of diverting attention from domestic troubles, and succeed in making available Ireland's resources to fight against the greatest menace to the world's liberties.

RAND STRIKE.

COMPROMISE PROBABLE.

CAPETOWN, May 13.

The Johannesburg strikers have cut off all power. Mine engineers are providing power for the water supply. There is a large number of unemployed in consequence of the strike.

A later message states that a compromise is probable. The men have consented to keep the light and water supply normal. One result of the strike is that large quantities of meat in cold storage are affected. This morning there were continuous streams of people walking from the suburbs to town owing to the trams being stopped.

OBITUARY.

LORD COURTNEY.

LONDON, May 13.

The death is announced of Lord Courtney of Penwith, at the age of 86 years.

[The late Lord Courtney was the first Baron, being created in 1906. As the Right Hon. Leonard Henry Courtney he held office in 1880 as Under-Secretary for Home Affairs, and 1881-2 as Under-Secretary for the Colonies. He was Chairman of Committees, and Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons, 1886-92.]

RECRUITING.

BEST WEEK FOR A YEAR.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

A total of 1250 recruits enlisted in the Commonwealth last week. This is the highest number since April 28 of last year, and exceeds the quota by four. The details are:—New South Wales, 570; Victoria, 377; South Australia, 109; Queensland, 93; Western Australia, 60; and Tasmania, 41. These figures show that the quota was exceeded in New South Wales by 84, Victoria 47, and South Australia 8. Queensland was 91 behind its quota, Western Australia 38, and Tasmania 6.

The enlistments in New South Wales were the highest for over 17 months.

The Director-General of Recruiting, Mr. D. Mackinnon, said that the position to-day was satisfactory, and they should endeavour to maintain it. Those States which were not up to the mark would have to make further efforts.

BALLOTS AT ROSEVILLE.

The Roseville War Recruiting Committee has decided to take two war ballots on June 8. The first ballot for eligibles will contain the names of no fewer than 20 members, and of this number two will be selected by ballot to enlist. The second ballot will be for ineligibles, with no fewer than 20 members, and five will be selected to offer for home defence or for home war service.

The two selected by No. 1 ballot will, if they have dependents, be insured under the Public Trustee scheme. A confidential subcommittee of two residents has been appointed for the purpose of considering any private matter that may be put forward by persons intending to take part in the ballot. The applications to take part in the ballot will close on June 1.

Keen interest has already been evinced in the matter, as the two ballots will disclose eligibles and ineligibles. The committee has also provided that the members in each ballot will have the right to arrange the method and control of the ballot.

Already a number of residents have offered to support the insurance scheme, including Messrs. Hough, Fuller, Tebbutt, J. Ferguson, R. Davidson, Mrs. Davidson, Miss Davidson, and the Roseville Bowling Club.

FIVE HUNDRED DAY.

In connection with the appeal for 500 recruits on Friday next, Sergeant Salisbury, M.M., and Mr. W. Mayor yesterday delivered patriotic addresses at five schools—Fort-street, Cleveland-street, Fort-street High School, Petersham, and Leichhardt. To-day these speakers will be at the Paddington school at 10 a.m., and the Waverley school at 10.45 a.m. To-morrow the children at the Neutral Bay school will be addressed at 10 a.m., and those of the Mosman school at 10.45 a.m.

SCHOOL NOMINATIONS.

The head office of the New South Wales Recruiting Committee, Commonwealth Bank, is advised by the teacher of the Pallamallawa school that a returned man who had nearly two years' active service (Edgar Edward Cory) is anxious to re-enlist. The man will be examined, and, if suitable, accepted for service overseas. The same teacher supplies the name of a second recruit from Pallamallawa, and says: "This youth, 19½ years of age, will be insured by the residents."

GOVERNOR'S SHIELD.

There has been an excellent yield of recruits from the municipalities and shires throughout New South Wales in the competition for the Governor's Shield, which closed yesterday. The towns vied with each other as to which should raise the biggest number on the population basis. The name of the winning district will be published as soon as all the figures are available.

LIEUT. MARKS' APPEAL.

LISMORE, Tuesday.

Lieut. Marks had good meetings here, securing 14 recruits, making 36 for the week.

To-day at 1 o'clock Mr. Peter Bowling, Lieutenant Davis, Sergeant-major Coleman, and Corporal Burns will be the Martin-place speakers. At noon Private M'Farland will make an appeal at the Eveleigh cleaning shop. The following meetings will be held to-night:—

Top of William-street, 8 o'clock: Mr. Peter Bowling, Corporal Burns, Sergeant-major Mulready, Private Leary.

Oxford and Flinders streets, 8 o'clock: Sergeant-major Banks, Sergeant Campbell, Private Martin.

Leichhardt Town Hall, 7.45: Speakers, returned soldiers.

The Paddington Superior Public School, in addition to the five recruits who receive parcels and letters every month from the school, has now secured a recruit for Carmichael's Thousand, and has undertaken to insure him for £200.

VICTORY POLICIES.

Mr. E. M. Perrott, of the Amphitheatre Station, Cobar, has notified the Public Trustee that, in addition to his agreement to insure ten soldiers from Nyngan and Cobar districts, he is prepared to look after two children of any married recruit while the father is at the front, and if the father is killed will undertake to educate and provide for them and give them a start in life. Additional subscriptions for policies are:—

Amount previously acknowledged by Public Trustee	£24,540 2 8
*C. Fetherstonhaugh	20 0 0
P. E. L. Hayley	10 0 0
*Roseville Bowling Club	55 0 0
Roseville Bowling Club	8 10 0
Total	£24,683 1 0

Asterisk denotes annual contribution for the duration of the war.

BERRIGAN.—A school children's fete at Mulwala, to raise funds to insure a soldier in Carmichael's Thousand, realised £24.

LATE WAR NEWS

THE OFFENSIVE.

WHY FOE DELAYS.

LONDON, May 14.

The "Morning Post's" Paris correspondent says there is much speculation as to the cause of the prolonged delay in the resumption of the German offensive. It is believed to be due to the enemy's inability to solve the problem whether the reinforcements necessary for a great success shall be drawn from the Russian or Austrian front.

Mackensen could provide a maximum of 600,000 from the Russian front, but this would denude the front of practically every man. On the other hand the Austrians are believed to have half a million men massed in the Tyrol. The conference of Emperors has significance owing to the report that the German Emperor is urging Charles to send these reserves to Flanders. The correspondent learns that the Austrians are not likely to accept the demand, and are determined to maintain their armies in the Tyrol in readiness for an Italian counter-offensive.

Germany's reluctance to withdraw her armies from the Russian front is easily explained. The Germans would then be powerless to enforce the claims for food supplies which they hope by fair or foul means to extract from the occupied provinces. In the event of a German withdrawal these supplies probably would fall into the hands of the Austrians, who are much nearer absolute famine than the Germans. Austria regards the Russian grain as a very important factor. Undoubtedly Austria in the absence of German troops would secure the bulk, if not all, of the 450,000 tons of wheat which the Ukraine has promised to deliver to the Central Powers jointly. Austria regards the question as vital. She must secure additional foodstuffs before August because her own supplies are dangerously near exhaustion.

Austria does not forget the possibility of a Czech—Jugo-Slav rising in the event of her forces being unduly depleted for service on the West front. The main point is that the Allied blockade has brought both Austria and Germany within measurable distance of famine, and obtaining food from Russia is a more vital problem for both Austria and Germany than the success of the Western offensive.

Another reason suggested for the delay in the offensive is because the Allied air successes in recent weeks have so blinded the Germans, who are reluctant to attempt a great attack against largely reinforced armies regarding whose strength and dispositions they are ignorant.

Colonel Repington, writing in the "Morning Post," says: Though the next most critical stage of the German attack is expected this or next week, it is uncertain whether the Austrians will be able to comply with the German desire for a concurrent attack on Italy owing to the lateness of the season. The Italian rivers are still flooded. A mysterious element is the whereabouts of von Mackensen's divisions which were on the East front when the German attack began. Colonel Repington's view is that the idea of an oversea attack against Britain may be revised, improbable though it may seem.

In order to allay the impatience and uneasiness of the German people the newspapers, headed by the semi-official North German "Gazette," explain what is happening, and say that all goes well despite the slowness of the advance because the Germans are forcing the Anglo-French to use up their reserves in vain assaults on the German front. The Germans also are undermining the Anglo-French will to victory. The German command will wait until the enemy is exhausted, then strike again. This blow has already been prepared, and will bring victory and peace a step nearer.

It is noteworthy that peace prospects are always mentioned in the same breath as victory.

OSTEND HARBOUR.

BLOCKING THE ENTRANCE.

The Admiralty issues the following account of the Ostend operation, dated from Dunkirk, on the 11th instant:—

The Sirius lies in the surf some 2000 yards east of the entrance of Ostend Harbour, which she failed so gallantly to block. The planning and execution of the enterprise was entrusted to Commodore Hubert Lynes, who directed the previous attempt to block the harbour with the Sirius and Brilliant. On the former occasion unforseen and unforeseeable conditions fought against him. On this occasion the main problem was to secure the effect of the surprise attack upon the enemy, who clearly was expecting him.

The Sirius and the Brilliant had previously been baffled by the displacement of the Stroom Bank buoy marking the channel to the harbour entrance, but since then aerial reconnaisance had established that the Germans had removed the buoy altogether, and there were no guiding marks of any kind. They also cut gaps in the piers as a precaution against landing. Furthermore, when, at midnight on the 9th instant, the ships moved from their anchorage, it was known that some nine German destroyers were patrolling the coast.

The night was favourable for the enterprise. There was little wind, no moon, and a still sea. From Dunkirk a sudden brief gunfire announced that German aeroplanes were about. The Vindictive was seen mistily through the streaming smoke from the destroyers' funnels. She plodded silently to her goal. She receded astern as a destroyer raced on to lay a light buoy, which was to be her guide. She passed thence into the hands of the small craft, whose mission was to guide the light and hide her in the clouds of the smoke screen.

The absence of a preliminary bombardment was the first surprise element. A time-table had been laid down for every stage of the operation. Monitors were anchored far to seaward and awaited the signal to fire. The great siege batteries of the Royal Marine Artillery in Flanders stood by to neutralise the big German artillery along the coast, and airmen, who were to collaborate with the aerial bombardment of the town, awaited somewhere overhead. Destroyers patrolled seawards of the small craft.

The Vindictive, guided by the light buoy, arrived where a motor boat awaited. By a calcium flare upon the old position of the Stroom Bank buoy, four minutes before her arrival there, the signal was given the guns to open. Two motor boats dashed in and torpedoed the high wooden piers. Simultaneously shells came from the monitors at sea, and the surprise part of the attack was sprung. The surprise, despite the Germans' watchfulness, seems to have been complete. Hitherto, not a shot had been fired from land. Motor launches, manned by the Naval Volunteer Reserve, worked magnificently and produced the likeness of a dense sea mist on either hand of the Vindictive's course.

Then the guns roared into action. A tremendous uproar ensued. German batteries registering from six inch to fifteen inch naval pieces fought a duel with the Royal Marine artillery.

IRISH PROBLEM.

The Parliamentary correspondent of the "Daily News" states that the speech of Mr. Barnes (Labour member of the War Cabinet), in which he referred to the difficulty of the Irish question and said that Ireland must have a Parliament and so must Scotland and Wales, was a Government kite. The Cabinet is tending more and more to the view that the Federal scheme offers the only chance of winning Ulster to Home Rule. Mr. Barnes' membership of Mr. Long's Irish Committee lends additional weight to his speech, though Cabinet has not yet decided the issue. Cabinet believes that the feeling of Parliament and of the country in favour of Federalism is now stronger, and that the best policy would be to frame an Irish Bill which could be fitted into a subsequent all-round Bill. The Government believes that the best course is to introduce a Federal Irish measure with a pledge to introduce an all-round measure at the earliest opportunity.

The "Daily Express" Parliamentary correspondent writes: Mr. Barnes' speech must not be regarded as representing the Cabinet's decision, but it represents the view of the majority of the Cabinet. The Federal idea is gaining ground among Unionist leaders, and Scottish and Welsh Federal groups are busily discussing the scheme. Sir Edward Carson, when interviewed, said the project had the advantage of enabling local needs to be met. There was no reason why there should be only one Parliament in any country under Federation if local differences required more.

The "Daily Telegraph" states that Mr. Long has been appointed General Adviser to the Irish Executive, and will confer with Cabinet in that capacity.

The Dublin correspondents of the "Daily Express" and "Daily News" agree that the Nationalists certainly will reject Federation. Ulster may accept if Ulster is regarded as a unit.

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY.

UNDER GERMAN YOKE.

CONFERENCE OF EMPERORS.

The German communique relating to the Austro-German conference, especially the reference to the contractual agreements, is generally interpreted in London as heralding changes of the first magnitude in the relations of the two Empires, which will probably include a military and Customs union. The effect of the agreements undoubtedly will be to place Austria-Hungary more than ever under the German yoke, increase the power of the German elements in Austro-Hungary, and give the death blow to the aspirations of the Slav races within the Empire. It is also opined the conference persuaded the Austrian representatives of the advisability of supporting Germany's strategic plans according to Germany's desires. It is expected one immediate effect of the new arrangements will be to place Hindenburg in command of the Austrian armies, thus resolving at a stroke all disputes relative to Austria's offensive. It will take place when and where Hindenburg orders.

The Viennese "Arbeiter Zeitung" recently bitterly resented the assumption prevailing in Germany that Austria will undertake the offensive on the Italian front simply because the Kaiser wishes it. The newspaper exclaims: "What impudence!"

COSSACKS GAIN SUPPORT.

The Siberian Cossack movement under Colonel Semenoff is meeting with considerable support in Trans-Baikalia. The Bolshevik force retreated to Chita, which is expected to be the scene of a decisive encounter. Colonel Semenoff is now within a few miles of the Karimskaya railway junction. Colonel Semenoff's supporters believe the advance will curb the extremists in Eastern Siberia and will also stop the activities of German prisoners.

BOMBS ON CATTARO.

An official report from Rome states: Our aeroplanes successfully bombarded the submarine base at Cattaro. All our machines returned safely despite the heavy barrage.

GERMAN INTRIGUE.

A message from Paris says the Germans, under the auspices of the Legation at Madrid, are intriguing to nullify the Franco-Spanish economic agreement for exchange of products, by cornering Spanish exportable supplies. Already they have placed large orders for woollen goods, but their aim is principally to corner food in the hope of aggravating the high cost of living and thus provoking disorder.

JOHANNESBURG STRIKE.

After all day negotiating the Johannesburg Council Committee, subject to confirmation by the Full Council, has conceded the full demands of the men by a majority of one.

FINLAND'S INDEPENDENCE.

A Stockholm message states it is understood that Britain has promised provisionally to acknowledge Finland's independence until the final peace conference, on condition that Finland releases British subjects and guarantees to maintain neutrality.

GENERAL CABLES.

In the House of Commons the second reading was agreed to of the Soldiers' Small Holdings Bill for purchasing 60,000 acres in England and 20,000 acres in Scotland for discharged soldiers after the war.

DEATH OF MR. J. G. BENNETT.

NEW YORK, May 14.

The death is announced of Mr. James Gordon Bennett, proprietor of the New York "Herald."

[Mr. J. G. Bennett was born in New York on May 10, 1841. He was educated abroad by private tutors, and returned to New York in 1866. He assumed control of the N.Y. "Herald" on his father's death in 1872. He inaugurated the publication in England of storm warnings transmitted from the United States. At his own expense he sent Henry M. Stanley to Africa to find Livingstone, 1874-7; fitted out the Jeannette Polar Expedition in 1879, and with John W. Mackay he established the Commercial Cable Co. He won the yacht race from Sandy Hook to the Isle of Wight with his yacht "Henrietta" in 1866, and participated in the race from Queenstown to New York with the yacht "Dauntless" in 1870.]

STRONG POST SYSTEM.

MR. ORCHARD'S PROPOSAL.

Mr. R. B. Orchard, Minister for Recruiting, admitted yesterday that he had not completed his plans for the reception of our returned soldiers in Sydney. It was his desire, he said, that more should be done in a public way to honour "the boys" when they are leaving for the front, and to welcome those who come back sick, wounded, or on furlough.

What Melbourne can do, Sydney can do also, said the Minister yesterday. The "Strong Post" system in Melbourne has worked wonders, and the enthusiasm of the people is ever on the upward grade. Strong posts are the bulwarks of our front line trenches. The strong posts are thrown out at intervals a few hundred yards in front of the line, and consist of a small expert garrison of fighters well dug in and well equipped. Just as the Australians at the front with strong post system meet the foe, so we in Australia should welcome Billjim with our "Strong Post" system.

Mr. Orchard went on to say:—The splendid work on behalf of our soldiers by the Australian Red Cross and the Voluntary Aid Detachments, cannot be too highly praised. Their work has been one of the best achievements of this war. I am inundated with letter from patriotic citizens asking how they can help in the welcomes. I should like to see at least twelve "Strong Posts" between the wharf or railway station, each in charge of a local committee. Say a strong post in charge of the residents of Newtown, another by North Sydney, and so on. Manly, patriotic Manly, might strike the waterside idea with a procession of launches, gaily decorated. These to meet the transport at the Heads and escort the boys into the harbour. At the Strong Posts in the city bands and choirs should be stationed, plenty of flags displayed, and bells and rattlers used to make the welcome as enthusiastic as possible. I shall be glad to hear from citizens who can and will assist in making these "Strong Posts" a success. It will only take a few hours of your time to join in this movement, and surely these brave soldiers of ours are worthy of a small sacrifice on your part.

DEATH OF MAJOR-GENERAL DAVIES.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Tuesday.

Major-General R. H. Davies, a New Zealander, commanding a division of the British army in France, died suddenly.

THEY WILL QUESTION US.

["Nought broken save this body, lost but breath."]

The day will come when we shall say the last shot was fired, ten, twenty, fifty years ago. The last of these tremendous hours will long since have been spent, and the war will have been won and lost. Time will have dealt with all of us, gently here or hardly there; and fortune will have smiled or frowned, as her habit is. We shall all be subtly changed. Our enthusiasms will be less; our wisdom a little more. Many will have taken a wife to themselves and begotten children. The ways of peace will be back again, and crusts will be over old wounds. But memory of these days will have stayed with us as no other thing in experience has done. As they come down from a shelf of the mind, we shall recognise the magic of them, as now we feel only their bitterness. The colour and the movement, the terror and the triumph, will return with the trueness of to-day; but more gently, because time deals gently with all things. But still they will move us in our easy chairs. And according to our manner of meeting these days so will recollection be sweet or bitter. If bitter, we shall sit by ourselves in silence; if sweet, we shall wander with old comrades, and as the years pile up, and Azrael beckons us one by one away, the children of our children will stand about the last of us. They will question us with solemn faces, and we shall reply.

"It came in the quiet, in the dark. It came in a sudden shouting far away. The streets filled and windows rattled up. All heads turned one way. There was red in the sky. Ah, word has come. Britain draws a sword. She is beset. She must be helped.

"Child, many heard with grave faces. Duty was not easy to do. We were young at that time and making a way. I was building my business and must give it to others to go on with. Rivals waited to batten on it when I should go. Uncle Tom was fencing in his farm, ringing the trees, clearing the land. Time would undo all his work in a year or two. We would have made excuse. But the shouting came again. Britain has drawn her sword. She is beset. You who love her ring her about. It was a stern cry, coming above the clamour in the dark. We heard it, and this time put down what we were doing and picked up a rifle each. Long ago I laid that rifle back in the rack; but before I did so I sailed great seas, marched about new lands, jostled new nations, carried a two-edged sword for loyalty and for glory, learnt to spend the moment for what it was and not for what it would bring in ten years hence. Hard was each day, but each one charged with some bitter sweet medicine of the soul, for when I came back older and a little tired I found life simpler to live than before. It was less difficult to be gentle. It was less difficult to be strong."

And Uncle Tom?

"He still keeps guard along the eastern wall of France. The tumult has departed there. The shouting has died down. The seasons have brought flowers and grasses to cover up the ruin. Cattle roam in the meadows now, streams, unmuddied by trampling feet, call in the rushes, and children small as you are patter up and down without harm. But when the night is fallen, and when the stars are clear, when you are long in bed, Uncle Tom, and many a thousand with him, rises from the bivouac where he lies waiting Gabriel's reveille, and holds again in spirit the eastern wall of France. The fences round his farm must have fallen now, and the scrub have crept over the land again, unless it is a stranger has entered his possession. But he has grown heedless of these things, and cares only that he may be ready and waiting, lest again some jealous foe, greedy of Britain's greatness, creep upon her in the night."

And Uncle Jim?

"He has prospered much, my child. Fortune has been gentle with him it would seem; yet sometimes as he nods in the chair a sudden wind outside startles him awake, I believe he hears again that shouting of long ago. And then I wonder, could the day but be again, if this time he would not choose the harder but the less bitter way—and take a rifle from the rack—and step upon the waiting boat—and heard the seas—and push into the press of those departed congregations—and find a loophole in the wall—and stride his legs apart—and side by side with the rest of us make his stand for Britain."

WAR NOTES.

GERMAN NAVY AND WESTERN BATTLE

Marcel Hutin's statement in the "Echo de Paris," to the effect that the German Navy will take part in the next phase of the batle on the Western front, will be regarded with that scepticism due to the frequency of fallacious reports regarding the enemy's intention to risk a naval battle. The suggestion that such a momentous decision would be influenced by the fact that the German people were greatly impressed by the British naval raids at Ostend and Zeebrugge cannot be entertained. In the first place, the great bulk of the German people believe what they have been told regarding the results of those raids, and they were told that the British had entirely failed to achieve their object. Even if they realised exactly what occurred, and displayed resentment at the inaction of the German navy, it would not make the slightest difference to Germany's naval policy. The German people have been compelled to suffer hardships consequent on a rigorous blockade by the British navy, owing to the inaction of the German fleet. These hardships have impressed them more than the British raids on Ostend and Zeebrugge, but they have not induced the German Admiralty to risk the High Seas Fleet in a decisive battle for the command of the sea. Other and much more weighty factors than the feeling of the German people are necessary if Germany is to make such a departure from her usual naval policy. There is, of course, one important factor in the relief which Germany has obtained in the Baltic, as a result of the Russian collapse, and another in the possibility of a certain amount of reinforcement for the High Seas Fleet being obtained from the Russian Baltic Fleet, the fate of which is still by no means certain. It is doubtful, however, whether these would be sufficient inducement for the High Seas Fleet to risk a decisive engagement.

EMPLOYMENT OF AMERICAN FORCES.

There is a remarkable similarity between the British Cabinet statement received in Canada, regarding the manner in which the American troops are to be used, and a passage in the optimistic review of the situation in the West which was forwarded by the Secretary of State for the Colonies, and published yesterday. The message published this morning states that "the Allies are so confident of their ability to hold the enemy that they have decided not to use the whole American army until later contingents convert it into a powerful self-supporting force." Mr. Walter Long said:—"The Entente is so confident that, given choice of a small immediate army for defence or of waiting until reinforced by a complete, powerful, self-supporting American army, they have chosen the latter." The statement has evidently caused some misconception in America, and it is to be hoped that some further official explanation concerning it will be made public in order to prevent the opinion gaining currency that there is no longer any need for the speeding up of America's military preparations. If it has been decided not to continue the method of brigading American troops with British and French forces, the decision has been arrived at, not because the Allied reserves are so preponderatingly great as to dispel all anxiety regarding the future. The decision would mean that General Foch now considers himself justified in refraining from altering fixed plans in order to meet the special emergency represented by the enemy's offensive. It was because of the seriousness of the situation that General Foch was given power to make the best available use of the men and material at the disposal of the Allies, and it was in order to facilitate his work in this direction that General Pershing, with his Government's consent, offered to permit of the brigading of American troops with the British and French.

THE ITALIAN FRONT.

The interest which was aroused regarding the Italian front about a week ago soon diminished again on account of the absence of any further news of the "big battle" which was then reported to have been begun there. It has been a rather rare experience during the war to receive a definite official message such as that which the Austrians issued at that time without some reference being made to it by the other side. This message mentioned "fighting activity of considerable violence along the whole Italian front from Giudicaria Valley to the Adriatic," but, if the fighting in question ever took place, it was completely ignored by the Italians. The length of front said to be affected was well over a hundred miles, but neither side has claimed any successes until recently, when the Italians announced a local gain in Vallarsa, which has apparently no connection with the extensive activity reported last week. It is extremely improbable that the Italian authorities would have entirely suppressed all news of an offensive of such extent as that to which the earlier Austrian message referred, and, in view of the continued silence on the subject, it must be concluded that the Austrians greatly exaggerated the fighting activity which was said to exist on the front at the time. The local success claimed by the Italians a few days ago was secured in Vallarsa, southward of Rovereto, and eastward of Lake Garda. Monte Corno, the strongly organised height which the Italians claimed to have stormed, is about 4400 feet high, and is no doubt a position of importance. It is situated on Austrian territory, just across the Italian frontier, slightly eastward of the valley of the Adige. It therefore commands the latter valley, which carries the main roads and railway leading down to Verona from the Trentino. The possession of the height considerably improves the Italian position here where the enemy may in future attempt to force his way down towards the Italian plain on the eastern side Italian plain by this route on the eastern side of Lake Garda. The enemy showed his appreciation of the significance of the Italian move by delivering a heavy counter-attack, as a result of which he claimed to have thrown the Italians out of the position previously gained. The Italian communique published this morning, however, denies this, and asserts that the enemy was obliged to retire after sustaining heavy losses.

RETURNED SOLDIERS' DAY.

It has been decided to hold a "day" in connection with the Returned Soldiers' Association on August 2, and as this date has clashed with the one usually set apart for an appeal on behalf of the Kindergarten Union of New South Wales, the latter organisation has agreed to amalgamate with the association, and to share in the appeal to the extent of £2000.

A well-attended meeting was held yesterday at the Education-buildings, Mr. John Mackay, the president of the Kindergarten Union, being in the chair. Brigadier-General Jobson, representing the Returned Soldiers' Association, was present, and outlined the general scheme. He dealt briefly with the tribulations of the association, and said that it had fallen to him to put it on a firm footing. Therefore he hoped that the appeal to the public would be met with sympathy. He had no special objective in view, so far as the amount was concerned, but he trusted that £3000 would be obtained to liquidate the debt of the Returned Soldiers' Association, £2000 more to carry on the work for another year, and £2000 for the Kindergarten Union. The balance of the collections and sales would be devoted to the building of a memorial to every soldier who had left on active service. The time was now ripe for such a memorial, whilst every heart beat in gratitude for the response to the call the men had answered.

A committee of four members of the Kindergarten Union was formed to confer with Brigadier-General Jobson and the executive of the Returned Soldiers' Association, in order to formulate a plan of campaign.

VIOLET DAY.

Violet Day, in aid of funds for the Soldiers' Club in George-street, promises to be a success, and a large committee is working hard to make June 14 a memorable day. Already many stands have been allotted about the city streets. All patriotic circles in connection with the soldiers will be found in Martin-place, where bands and other music will form a great attraction. It is hoped that owners of motor cars will fly special pennons in order to advertise the date as much as possible. Special orders for violets will be received at the club, and these orders will be executed by special delivery girls on the day itself. The club has proved to be of utmost utility and comfort to the soldiers. That they make good use of the writing room is exemplified by the fact that no fewer than 113,000 penny stamps have been sold since the club opened. All contributions intended for Violet Day may be left at the Soldiers' Club on or before June 14.

PROPOSED HIGHLAND BRIGADE.

SYMPATHY FROM MR. WATT.

THE MILITARY DIFFICULTY.

Yesterday afternoon the Acting Prime Minister (Mr. Watt) consented to be interviewed by committeemen of the Australian Scots Brigade Association.

Sir James Burns, president of the Highland Society, asked Mr. Dugald Thomson to state the case for the brigade.

Mr. Thomson pointed out that the prime aim of the movement was to secure recruits, who for various reasons would not otherwise be obtained. The hope of increasing recruiting was the mainspring of the request for a kilted unit, such as were included in the forces of Canada, South Africa, and the United Kingdom. The traditions surrounding the kilt furnished a most powerful appeal. He urged the Government not to refuse this opportunity of getting men.

Mr. Watt said that he sympathised as a Scot with the movement, and perceived its great value. There was no hostility to the kilt.

Mr. John Stewart: We have not always found that so.

Mr. Watt: Many views had changed during the war. The difficulties are purely military. The question is—Can you show us how to surmount them?

Colonel Gerald Campbell and Colonel J. T. Wilson addressed themselves to the practical military side of the question.

Mr. Watt said that these military gentlemen had presented to him new viewpoints, upon which he as a civilian could not pass final judgment. Any workable scheme would be a proper ground for reconsidering the answer given in the House. He was quite ready to take the proposals to the Minister for Defence.

In reply to a question, Mr. Watt said that he saw no objection to furnishing a statement of the military difficulties, so that military men on the committee might have an opportunity of replying. It was also arranged that the concrete proposals of the association should be drafted by its military members and submitted to Mr. Watt, who would ask Senator Pearce to consider them.

THE PREMIERS.

MR. WATT ATTENDS CONFERENCE.

A SHARP INTERLUDE.

"IMPUDENT ASSUMPTION OF STATE POWERS."

Further evidence of how Commonwealth and State governmental functions clash and overlap were given at the Premiers' Conference yesterday. Mr. Watt, Acting Prime Minister and Commonwealth Treasurer, and Mr. Groom, Acting Attorney-General and Commonwealth Minister for Works and Railways, were again in attendance, and the discussions frequently became animated.

BUREAU OF SCIENCE.

Mr. Holman (N.S.W.) said he did not propose to continue the debate on the motion requesting the Commonwealth Government to cease the procedure at present being carried out "whereby unnecessary expenditure is being incurred in the assumption of functions by the Commonwealth Bureau of Science and Industry which are at present being efficiently performed by the States." He still felt that the work would be far better done ultimately if it were left, as hitherto, to the States' authorities and to local effort. No doubt, those efforts could be supplemented by the Commonwealth functions.

Federal Ministers strongly defended the work of the proposed bureau.

Mr. Ryan (Queensland) asked Mr. Watt what it was proposed to do in regard to the blowfly pest.

Mr. Watt said they hoped to get the services of Professor Lefroy in order that he could specially devote himself to the subject.

Mr. Holman concluded with a strong protest against what he termed "this piece of unwarranted and impudent assumption of State powers."

"If that is the view of your conference," retorted Mr. Watt, with some warmth, "it is better that it should define its view in that way."

The resolution was left over for further consideration, if necessary.

SURPLUS REVENUE AND CAPITATION GRANT.

Mr. Gardiner (W.A.) moved, following upon a previous discussion: "(1) That this conference desires to draw the attention of the Federal Treasurer to the singularly inequitable character of the legislation by which the surplus of 1916—which, under the terms of the Surplus Revenue Act of 1910, had accrued to the States—was confiscated and made available for Commonwealth purposes by a piece of ex post facto legislation. (2) That such legislation amounted to a definite repudiation of vested rights, and this conference expresses the hope that the Federal Parliament may see fit, even now, under the guidance of the present Government, to annul the gross act of injustice which was then committed. (3) That this conference also desires to draw the attention of the Commonwealth Treasurer to the impolitic and inequitable operation of the method now employed for estimating the per capita returns due to each State, under which the States that send the largest number of recruits to the front are the most heavily penalised, and urges that the Commonwealth Government will make whatever regulations may be necessary to direct its statistician, in preparing such estimates, not to omit from his enumeration citizens who are engaged on active military service."

Mr. Watt said he was doubtful whether the Act which appropriated what were known as "back surpluses" truly reflected the obligations towards the States. But the Act had been tested and upheld, and laymen had to put their doubts aside. He had fought, as a State Treasurer, against the substitution of the 25/ per capita for the Braddon clauses of the Constitution, which returned three-fourths of the Customs revenue. But that also had been accepted, and it could not be urged now that there was anything immoral in the Commonwealth appropriating all the rest. No one would deny that Western Australia was entitled to special consideration, in view of its special circumstances, and of what it had done in the war. If Western Australia got into serious difficulty, its position would be promptly considered by the Commonwealth Government.

With regard to the claim for the per capita payment for soldiers abroad, Mr. Watt held that the Commonwealth was quite within its rights in deducting the payment. He did not like it. The decision was not his. It was a legacy. But there could be no doubt, he said, that from a business point of view, it was impossible for the Commonwealth to meet the demand. Every adult who left Australia meant a loss of over £4 per annum in Customs revenue to the Commonwealth. This meant that the Commonwealth was getting £1,500,000 less revenue, because of the soldiers' departure, while the loss to the State of the per capita payment was £434,000. It could not be expected that the Commonwealth should bear all the burden of the war. The States must bear their share. Great as the financial straits of the States may be, he could assure them that the Commonwealth financial outlook was even graver. Each soldier sent away cost the Commonwealth from £3 to £4 per week to maintain, in addition to the loss of Customs revenue. They could not cut down their war expenditure. They had to go on finding the money for the war. He did not fail to appreciate the difficulties of the States, and would be very glad indeed if he could promise to make up the per capita revenue for the soldiers abroad. But it was quite impossible, and he must ask the States not to press the demand.

Mr. Holman said the Commonwealth would have to consider the position of the States. If the States continued to find, as they were finding now, that they could not pay their way, then they would be forced to impose further direct taxation, and that must inevitably prejudice the Commonwealth when it made any further incursion into the fields of taxation.

Mr. Watt suggested that there might be a conference of Commonwealth and State Treasurers in July to review the financial problem of all the Governments, including the co-ordination of loans.

Mr. Peake (South Australia) said the amount of money represented was not comparable to the loss sustained by the impression that was beginning to obtain that the Commonwealth would not keep agreements, and would be guilty of sharp practice. It would be better for the Commonwealth to keep faith with the States, and to bear the odium of raising the money in some other way. The loss in productivity to the States by the departure of the soldiers could not be reckoned in a few pounds. It probably ran into hundreds of pounds per annum.

Mr. Holman said the suggestion of a conference of Commonwealth and State Treasurers thrown out by Mr. Watt was typical of the kind of action that should have been taken all through the Commonwealth. It was a new note in their relationship, which would be appreciated.

This suggestion was accepted, and in this way the agenda paper was cleared of purely financial matters.

GUARANTEES TO WHEAT-GROWERS.

Sir Richard Butler (South Australia) urged the Acting Prime Minister to recognise by a further guarantee of a payable price the needs of the wheat-growers of Australia. The position was so acute, he said, that the States had to step in and undertake all the risk. Unless something more were done, it was certain that huge areas of wheat lands would go out of cultivation. On the other hand, he thought the guarantee of a net return of 4s per bushel, payable on delivery, would induce the cultivation of a much larger area. And in view of the urgent need of Great Britain for foodstuffs made increased cultivation a strong national obligation. The Commonwealth was being asked to increase its guarantee to 4s net, and to extend it for two years instead of one.

Mr. Watt said he was afraid they could not, in view of the responsibility of handling and selling the stocks of wheat now on hand, undertake to advance more money. The farming community had got to realise the almost insuperable financial difficulties of this question, and should not ask for more. If the States, however, could arrive at something, unanimity both in regard to the amount of guarantee and extension of time, he would see that the Commonwealth Government gave it prompt attention.

SPIRIT OF CO-OPERATION.

As Mr. Watt was withdrawing from the conference at this stage, the president, Mr. Holman, said they all appreciated the spirit and attitude in which the Acting Prime Minister had approached the various problems brought before him. That spirit of anxiety to obtain harmonious co-operation had been, unhappily too much lacking on the part of some Commonwealth spokesmen in the days gone by.

Acknowledging the compliment, Mr. Watt said it was the desire of the Commonwealth Government to see that all the great activities of Australia are linked up during the continuance of the war. There must be give and take to accomplish that, but the object of consolidating the whole of Australia's resources in her war effort was well worth the hearty co-operation. (Hear, hear.)

UNIFORM PUBLIC HOLIDAYS.

The Victorian and Queensland representatives asked the conference to affirm the desirableness of having uniform public holidays in Australia, in order to minimise inconvenience to trade and commerce.

It was decided to prepare a schedule of holidays, in order that the State Governments could go further into the matter by correspondence.

THIRD RAIL DEVICE.

At the instance of Mr. Holman (N.S.W.), the conference referred the question of the third rail device to the committee organised by the Commonwealth Government, with a request that it should be the subject of an early report, and that, subject to the nature of the report, consideration should be given to the practical application of the device. It was pointed out by Mr. Holman that the Adelaide Conference had already agreed to the appointment of a committee of experts, one from each of the States and the Commonwealth, to investigate the whole question of the laying of a third rail, in order to get over the break of gauge, and the difficulty of unifying the gauges of Australian railways. Experiments with the third rail device should be carried out at the joint expense of the Governments, at a point between the Victorian and New South Wales railways. New South Wales had already carried experiments a certain stage; the question was whether it was now worth while incurring the expense of an experiment upon a larger scale.

UNIFORM COMPANY LAW.

At the instance of Mr. Garland (New South Wales), the conference carried a resolution:—"That it is desirable that an amending company law be produced in each of the States, as far as possible on the same lines." It was arranged that the States should enter into correspondence with a view to eliminating the differences in the present laws.

UNIFORM FOOD STANDARDS.

A resolution, moved by Mr. J. D. Fitzgerald, Minister for Health in New South Wales, that the States should adopt the provisions of a uniform Pure Foods Act was adopted. The New South Wales Government was asked to draft a bill for submission to the other States.

GRADING OF BUTTER.

Mr. Ryan (Queensland) brought under Mr. Groom's notice, for submission to the Assistant Minister for Trade and Customs (Mr. Massy Greene), the following telegram received from the Queensland Minister for Agriculture relative to the previous day's proceedings:—"Greene's statement not supported by facts. Expense was incurred owing to operations of butter pool established by Federal Government. Butters were purchased by Federal Government, held for some months in cold storage here, and subsequently shipped under Federal Government's orders to other States as ordinary cargo. Butters were carefully and accurately graded at time of purchase by officers here; but treatment butters received after grading led to deterioration in quality. Balance-sheet covering Federal Government's transactions in Queensland butter reveals that Commonwealth made profit by handling of trade. Known here that Federal Government paid for alleged deterioration of quality in butters which were not included in the pool purchases. Speculators reaping the benefit. Advices from London state that the grading of our butters compares more than favourably with other States."

The conference will be resumed this morning.

TOWN PLANNING.

TO REDUCE DEATH-RATE.

Citing the case of the Letchworth Garden City, England, whose death rate has been reduced to 4.8 per 1000 of its inhabitants a year, Dr. Price, Mayor of Toowoomba, Queensland, thinks that with effect given to proper housing and the carrying out of town-planning principles the death rate in Australia could be reduced from 10 or 12 per 1000 people annually to below 5. Dr. Price was one of the speakers at a large gathering which met at Farmer's yesterday, at the invitation of the Town Planning Association, to meet the Minister for Local Government (Mr. J. D. Fitzgerald, M.L.C.) and the delegates from the different States attending the Federal executive meeting in Sydney. The executive is arranging the second town planning conference to be held in Brisbane next August.

The president of the N.S.W. association (Mr. John Sulman) presided, and said that one of the subjects which had been proposed for consideration was that affecting the repatriation of soldiers.

The Minister for Local Government (Mr. J. D. Fitzgerald), interstate president of the Federal executive of the association, responding to the toast of the health of the delegates, said the Queensland Government had very wisely insisted that, conditionally upon its support being given to the conference, the town planners of Australia should devote themselves to problems as affecting repatriation in order to benefit the returning soldier. (Hear, hear.) Not only in connection with city dwellers, but also with the distribution of the soldiers on the land, the Queensland and other Governments expected much from the town planners. The question of closer settlement was one eminently fitted for town planners. The N.S.W. Government and Mr. Ashford (Minister for Lands) had decided that where in future settlements were arranged for soldiers attention should be given to their scientific planning. (Hear, hear.) Mr. Fitzgerald said that town planning organisations in France were already dealing with the reconstruction of destroyed and other cities there after the war.

CO-OPERATIVE COMPANIES.

PROPOSED FEDERAL SCHEME.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

An interstate conference of co-operative companies was opened to-day. The main purpose of the conference is to establish a Federal co-operative scheme for producers. The Governor-General said he was glad to open the conference, both as Governor-General and as a landowner. For many years he had taken a deep interest in the question of co-operation as applied to agriculture. Without that closer settlement meant nothing. The conference represented all Australia, and it was exactly the area over which co-operation should apply. England, Ireland, and Scotland all had their national organisations for co-operation in agricultural matters. The parent societies, with which many local bodies were affiliated, met in London once a year, and struck prices for the whole of the United Kingdom with the merchants and manufacturers. They had facilities for placing the products on the market, and thus the producers, large and small, could sell to the best advantage. If that system commended itself to the conference, each State of Australia should have a federation of local unions, and these in turn should federate with a Commonwealth body, which could be in touch with the central agricultural body in London, and could place Australian products on the European markets to the best advantage. One of our master strokes against Germany must be trade within the Empire, and nothing could be more effective in this direction than to foster agricultural associations. The smaller farmers should be considered, and this could not be done without the co-operation of the big farmer. Denmark has made herself rich by co-operation, and her system would be found worthy of study. As the whole market was a very small one, the Australian producers must make "the world their oyster," and to do this successfully they must look beyond the seas. If we lost this war, there would be no need to bother much about co-operation or anything else. We could only look on while Germany was doing as it pleased with trade and industry.

A motion that the growth of the co-operative movement throughout the Commonwealth demanded the formation of a Federal wholesale co-operative company for purchase and distribution of all requirements of primary producers, was moved by Mr. Harper (Westralian Farmers, Ltd.), seconded by E. Relph (New Zealand), and agreed to. The conference adjourned till to-morrow.

STATE INCOME TAX.

The State income tax assessment notices for 1917 were issued yesterday, and will be in the hands of taxpayers within the next 24 hours.

Taxpayers are requested when making payment by cheque, in order to protect their own interests, to make such cheques payable to the Commissioners of Taxation only. The cheque should also be crossed, and marked "not negotiable."

It should also be borne in mind that the State Department does not employ collectors, and on no account should any payment be made to a person representing himself as a collector.

Payments should therefore be made at the office of the Commissioners, or through the medium of the post.

THEATRICAL EMPLOYEES' CLAIMS.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Judgments on the application to vary the award affecting the theatrical industry were given yesterday by Mr. Justice Powers in the Arbitration Court in the matters of the Australian Theatrical and Amusements Employees' Association (claimants) v. J. C. Williamson, Ltd., and others (respondents), and of the Theatrical Proprietors and Managers' Association of Australia (claimants) and the Australian Theatrical and Amusement Employees' Association (respondents). His Honor said he would not grant the claim for different rates for females. On the question of the interchangeability of work, he intended to order that 10 per cent. extra be paid if a man were employed in two or more sub-departments of scene shifting, properties, and lights between scenes, and 15 per cent. more if required to do the extra work referred to, and to work during acts in the time that used to be waiting time. He had agreed to allow an amended claim to be made in regard to junior employees and improvers.

SHIPBUILDING.

Mr. R. T. Ball, Minister for Works, said yesterday that the terms upon which Mr. Bomphrey has been engaged by the State Government in connection with the shipbuilding contract at Walsh Island was for a salary at the rate of £1500 per annum. There is provision in the agreement, however, whereby Mr. Bomphrey's remuneration may reach during the progress of the contract beyond £2000 per annum, and Mr. Ball states he will be glad indeed if it so be that Mr. Bomphrey has to receive this extra amount, as it will be payable in the shape of bonus on results obtained in the actual building of the ships under the contract.

ELIGIBLES DISMISSED.

The decision of the military authorities not to employ eligible men on home service has already been put into operation at Victoria Barracks. Many of the men who have been found fit have been notified that their services would be no longer required on home service. In the pay office a number of girls have been employed to fill the places of the eligibles. Major Evans, paymaster, when asked yesterday why these vacant positions had not been filled by returned soldiers, said that the men offering did not possess the necessary qualifications. The returned men who came to him for a position were mostly ex-tram conductors and tradesmen, who possessed no clerical qualifications whatever.

Brigadier-General Antill, Assistant-Adjutant-General, stated yesterday that the paymaster found it very difficult to obtain qualified men from the returned soldiers who had offered themselves.

MR. LISTER'S PAINTINGS.

Following upon his successful exhibition of last year, Mr. W. Lister Lister is now represented at Anthony Hordern and Sons' Fine Art Gallery by another and less extensive collection of oil and water-colour paintings. There are in all two score pictures, characterised by the faithful quality of the work which always distinguishes this artist, and by that preference for the beautiful in nature which has made him popular. There are eleven oils, headed by "Radiant Summer" (No. 1), which is, in effect, a view of Edwards's Beach, Mosman, and Balmoral, from a slight remove which places the spectator on a footpath amidst bushes and grasses portrayed in shadow. A partially decorative treatment adds to the charms of this work, remarkable for the suggestion of heat and gaiety over the blue water, flecked by white sails, with a slight haze over the opposite shore. "In the Shadow of the Hill" shows cattle browsing in the lush herbage of the plains at the foot of a height, which throws the foreground into a transparently treated shadow. The whole owes much to the imagination, which has inspired the massing of heavy clouds just touched by the light. There is another beautiful and more widespread view of "Edwards's Beach" suggesting "plein air" and a spirited effect on the distant sea, and another alluring work is "Shadows Dark and Sunlight Sheen." This is painted in low grey tones due to murky clouds over a straight stretch of calm water, whilst a skilful gleam of light and colour of a subdued character will be observed in the foreground, where a boat is moored at the river's bank. The palette knife, rarely employed by this artist, is here apparent. The water-colour drawings include a beautiful harmony in soft grey tones showing "Broughton Creek" (No. 12), with a foreground of grass-like water. The feathery softness of the foliage and the magical purple tone of the distant hills will also be admired. "Mount Kembla" is viewed from Para Meadow in a clear atmosphere, part of the success of the composition consisting in the balance between the massed shadows of the foreground and the light at the back. "A Hazy Day, Berry," owes much to the tender suggestion of distance in the remote ethereal ranges far beyond, where cattle graze amidst the withered grasses. Mr. Lister has for some time back studied his cattle with unusual success, and this work furnishes a case in point, as also does No. 20. "Above Cathedral Rock" enables the spectator to gaze down from a height upon a lovely bay looking towards Middle Harbour, strongly and buoyantly handled, whilst convincing sea studies in Nos. 15, 24, and 14 should not pass unnoticed.

WATERSIDE WORKERS' CLAIMS.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The hearing of the claim for preference in employment for its members, and for the appointment of suitable mustering places, brought by the Waterside Workers' Federation against the Commonwealth Steamship Owners' Association and others, was continued yesterday in the Arbitration Court before Mr. Justice Higgins. Mr. Starke, for the respondents, proposed as a basis of settlement, for the consideration of the court and Federation, that no discrimination would be made in giving employment to other than employees competent in the opinion of the respondents for the work required who worked during the 1917 strike on or about the wharfs. Preference would, for instance, be given in Sydney according to the roster in use. Respondents would undertake to have registered mustering places and to continue the disc system. They would agree to appeal boards being constituted in every port where registration was enforced, such boards to be representative of both parties with a neutral umpire, and to determine whether any person or member of the Waterside Workers' Federation should be registered, or decide whether anyone had been fairly and rightly removed from the employment register, and order reinstatement if such ought to be made, conciliation committees to be appointed in each port to deal with grievances, disputes, or complaints relating to waterside workers in the port, employers to agree not to lock-out, and employees, being members of the Federation, to agree not to strike or cease offering for work. In respect to any matter referable to the Appeal Board or Conciliation Committee, any breach of that provision by 100 members of the Federation to, ipso facto, determine the provision made for appeal boards and conciliation committees.

ALLEGED WHOLESALE ROBBERIES.

LISMORE, Tuesday.

During March and April, it is alleged, wholesale robberies of spirits took place in the district, cases and casks disappearing from trucks in the railway yards at Lismore and Byron Bay, also from Lismore and Ballina wharfs. In addition, there were wholesale robberies of kerosene and benzine, one lot of 43 cases of benzine disappearing from a private store room. Detectives from Sydney arrived and investigated, the result being that several men were arrested.

PILLAGING ON WHARFS.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

A deputation consisting of Sir Owen Cox, representing the shipowners' associations, Messrs. Meares, Macpherson, and Clark, of the Sydney Chamber of Commerce, and Mr. Berry, representing the Brisbane Chamber of Commerce, waited upon the Minister for Customs, Mr. Jensen, to-day, regarding the question of pillaging on the wharfs.

The deputation said they had come to the conclusion that they should do something in the nature of providing a substantial fund, either by levy on bills of lading or some other process, in order to subsidise or establish some force for policing the wharfs. Customs officers had the power of searching, and they asked that the services of the Customs officers might be made available. The pillaging committee was prepared in every way to assist the Government's effort, either by subsidy or otherwise. They thought that the difficulty might be overcome if the State police were clothed with special powers, similar to those held by the Customs officers in the direction of boarding vessels and searching suspected persons.

The Minister said he would immediately instruct the Customs officers to use every endeavour within the powers conferred upon them to prevent pillage.

MR. VIRGO'S VISIT TO BROKEN HILL.

BROKEN HILL, Tuesday.

The local board of the Y.M.C.A. asked the Mayor, Alderman Hynes, to give Mr. Virgo a civic reception on the occasion of his visit to Broken Hill last week. The Mayor's reply has now been made available, and was as follows:—"Re request for a civic reception of Mr. Virgo, the general secretary of the Y.M.C.A. Owing to pressure of business at last night's meeting of the council the request was not dealt with. I decline to take any further action in the matter."

AMALGAMATED RAILWAY UNION.

Mr. Claude Thompson, secretary to the Amalgamated Railway and Tramway Service Association, said yesterday that at a meeting of the Lithgow branch of the union the following motions were carried:—(1) "That in order to protect genuine unionism in the railway and tramway service a close federation of the deregistered railway unions should be formed." (2) "That this branch greatly deplores and emphatically repudiates the foolish endeavours of disgruntled place-seekers in the metropolitan district to dissolve the association in an unconstitutional manner, and we therefore urge the executive to call upon these men to show cause why they should not be expelled from the union."

CITY MISSION.

SPEECH BY GOVERNOR.

BRITISH WAR SACRIFICES.

Appreciative references to the work of the City Mission were made by representatives of all denominations at the 56th annual gathering of the institution, held yesterday at the Mission headquarters at 276 Elizabeth-street. The president (Mr. A. W. Meeks, M.L.C.) was in the chair.

The chairman said that all those acquainted with the work that the City Mission was doing recognised its value to the community. The gross receipts for last year compared favourably with those of other years, notwithstanding the constant calls necessitated by the war. This indicated that there was a general feeling that the work of the Mission was one that must not be allowed to suffer. The Tremulla home had been a very successful enterprise. It would be a moral and religious help to the children of the poor as well as minister to their physical health. The work of the Mission was entirely among the poor, and it was fortunate in having as its director Mr. Moore, who was a tower of strength to the institution. He moved the adoption of the annual report.

Mr. R. A. Dallen, who seconded the motion, said that the last street collections in aid of the Mission had been the highest yet received, and the subscriptions and donations had also been very satisfactory, the gross receipts for last year totalling £10,273.

Archbishop Wright remarked that it was always a pleasure for him to be present at the annual gathering of the Mission, because it brought him into association, in a pleasant and friendly manner, with other brethren who worked in different parts of the Lord's vineyard. The report that had been presented was a very encouraging one, and he congratulated all concerned. There never was an occasion when work, such as that carried out by the Mission, was more needed than it was to-day. Never before had we realised the enormous power of sin and evil in the world and the need for the message of the Saviour and its regenerating power. With all his heart he wished the Mission God-speed in its great work.

Mr. J. H. Burnett (president of the Baptist Union) regarded the Mission as one of the finest agencies for good in the city.

Mr. H. G. Harward (Church of Christ) observed that division was the great tragedy and shame of modern Christianity, and he therefore especially rejoiced in the work of this organisation, that stood for united effort on the part of all denominations in the service of God.

The Rev. Wm. Allen (Congregational) stated he was in hearty sympathy with the work of the Mission. Those who were doing the work of God at the home base were as truly helpers of the Empire as the men at the front.

The Rev. J. Macaulay (Presbyterian) and the Rev. W. G. Taylor (Methodist) also spoke in appreciation of the work.

The Rev. Edward Moore, secretary, mentioned that last year 35,674 visits had been paid by the missionaries, 15,173 persons had been relieved, 3058 meetings had been held in the open air and in halls, and 15,249 children had attended the Sunday schools.

A demonstration, at which the Governor (Sir Walter Davidson) presided, took place at the Town Hall last evening in connection with the mission.

Sir Walter Davidson said that he was happy to identify himself in every possible way with all the good work that was being done in the city, and he knew of no work more worthy of praise than that of the City Mission. There were difficult days coming. There might be dislocations of industry that could hardly be foreseen, and that might fall severely on various sections, and problems would arise through the return to civil life of the soldiers who had brought the reputation of Australia to the top of the world. He did not know whether they realised that Great Britain—that most marvellous country—had met a very large portion of its war expenditure by increasing taxation fivefold. Perhaps they could not sufficiently realise how great was this burden that had been so willingly taken without question in Great Britain, but he believed that if it were to apply to Australia the country would be prepared to make a similar sacrifice to help to win the war. There were no very rich people in Australia, and no large number of very poor—no "submerged tenth"—as there was in the old country, for example. There were very rich people in Great Britain, and these people had submitted to 80 per cent. taxation of their incomes. There was bound to be a heavier tax yet on their energies and means than there was now, but he trusted that organisations such as this would never fail in their philanthropic aims. (Applause.)

Mr. David Storey, M.L.A., said he was a great believer in practical religion. It was no use talking to people of spiritual things while they were hungry and ill-clad. The City Mission was doing a noble work that was worthy of the best help that could be given.

Captain-chaplain Wilson also delivered an address.

A musical programme was rendered by the united mission choirs and the South Sydney Orpheus Society, and by Misses Frances Gredley and Dorothy Gill, Miss Lilian Frost, Mr. R. M. Baxter, and others.

DEATH OF MR. JOSEPH BROOKS.

Mr. Joseph Brooks, F.R.A.S., F.R.G.S., died at his residence, Hopebank, Nelson-street, Woollahra. Born in Stockport, Cheshire, on August 2, 1847, he arrived in Adelaide at the age of 9 years, being a son of the late Mr. James Brooks, surveyor, of South Australia. He came to Sydney in 1877, and was appointed successively as surveyor in the Lands Department and as surveyor in charge of trigonometrical surveys, holding the latter position to the time of his retirement in 1907. About the year 1880 he took up the triangulation of the State of New South Wales, fixing the positions of the most important towns by approved astronomical methods, his observatory in the country being connected by telegraphic communication with the Sydney Observatory. On the completion of this work he carried out a series of triangulation surveys, commencing at the base line at Lake George, and on his retirement this work was still in progress. In addition he made a complete survey of the Sydney Harbour and its foreshores. In 1908 and 1910 he attended the eclipses of the sun at Flint Island and Port Davey (Tasmania), under the leadership of Mr. F. K. M'Clean, of Tunbridge Wells, London, and in 1911 the eclipse at Vavau under Dr. J. W. Lockyer's leadership, and had full control of the time and latitude observations at all these expeditions. At one time he was noted as a tenor singer, being a member of the choir of St. Mark's Church, Darling Point, and was one of the founders of the Sydney Liedertafel.

The funeral took place in the Church of England Cemetery, Rookwood, the Rev. S. G. Fielding, St. Matthias' Church, Paddington, being the officiating clergyman.

SOLDIERS' COMFORTS.

FOR "CAR'S" THOUSAND.

One of the things that help very materially to reduce the hardships and discomforts of a soldier's life is the certain knowledge that he has not been forgotten by the people of the community to which he belongs. The best and most practical way of making the soldier realise the warm-hearted sympathy of his people is the supply of little comforts and luxuries for him in camp, on the voyage and while in the fighting line. For this purpose the comforts fund of the 36th Battalion was established when Captain Carmichael, M.C., took his first thousand men away from Australia. The fund is administered by an energetic committee, whose headquarters are at 109 Bathurst-street, city. Contributions of money and goods are there received and forwarded to the troops. A special effort is being made now to secure a supply of comforts for Captain Carmichael's second thousand, which was raised during April, for use on the voyage, in England, and at the front. Already a number of letters have been addressed to Captain Carmichael personally, in which offers have been made to supply socks and various other articles direct to any two men of the thousand whose names are supplied. Speedier and surer transit will be assured if the donors will send the articles to the committee, mentioning the names of the men who they wish should get them. The offers already made are not simply for the time being, an undertaking being given to forward the supplies the whole time the soldiers are away.

The committee will be glad to receive contributions of money and goods now for the second thousand. The articles most needed are cigarettes, tobacco, socks, warm caps, sporting materials, etc. Money contributions are especially valuable, as they enable the men, when landing at different ports on the voyage across, to indulge in little pleasures such as the purchase of mementos and more extensive sight-seeing than the military pay (necessarily restricted in the case of married men) will allow.

Accounts will be kept of all money received, the manner in which it is disbursed, and details of distribution. Thus donors may at any time seek information at the committee-rooms as to how the money is being distributed. Care will be taken, of course, to see that those men who are most in need of comforts either in articles or money, will get a share proportionate to their immediate wants and responsibilities to dependents. The great object is to help those men who, owing to force of circumstances, cannot help themselves while serving their country.

A good supply of comforts now will ensure the welfare of the men for some time to come, as the supplies will be taken away on the transport and disbursed as occasion demands it.

All contributions of both money and articles for the second thousand should reach the committee not later than June 21.

AUSTRALIA'S WHEAT.

Further advices regarding the allocation of American sailing ships by the United States Shipping Board have been received by Messrs. Horwood and Co., of O'Connell-street. Some of the vessels, it is stated, are already on their way to Australia, whilst a number of them are loading general cargoes at various American ports. On reaching Australia they will be loaded with wheat, thus considerably lightening the burden of Australian shipping, and at the same time giving material assistance and encouragement to the wheat-growing interests of the Commonwealth. In addition to the vessels named in Thursday's "Herald," a number of first-class ships have been allocated to the work of lifting the wheat harvests and carrying them overseas.

Among these vessels are the John Murray, which commenced loading in San Francisco for Melbourne last month; the four-masted barque Annie M. Read, and the barque Buffon, which has been requisitioned by the Government, and is also listed for Melbourne direct with general cargo. The following vessels were loading in San Francisco for Australia when the last American mail left:—Golden Gate, Crowley, Bretagne, Hawaii, Pax, and the Olympic. All these ships are over 1000 tons, and, with the exception of the Olympic, are built of steel.

7th FIELD ARTILLERY BRIGADE.

About 60 returned members of the 7th, who left Sydney under the command of Lieut.-col. Pearce just two years ago, will hold a dinner on Thursday, 23rd inst., and form a Reunion Club.

Bdr. E. Harding is anxious for members of the brigade back in Sydney to communicate with him, at 154 Castlereagh-street.

MILLING AWARD VARIED.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Mr. Justice Powers, in the Arbitration Court, in the case of the Federated Millers and Mill Employees' Association of Australia against the Dominion Milling Company and others, made a variation of the award as follows:—Except where otherwise provided by the award, the hours of duty shall be 48 per week, and eight hours shall constitute a day's work. In regard to the overtime clauses, it is provided that employees, including engine-drivers and firemen employed in single-shift mills, may be required to work extra time on Monday to Friday inclusive without being entitled to overtime rates, in order to provide for a short day on Saturday, and provided that not more than 48 hours' work is required during the week without payment of overtime.

GERMAN ARRESTED.

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

Shortly after two o'clock on Sunday morning, Constable Walsh heard screams in a cottage attached to the Bellevue Hotel, Alice-street, occupied by Mrs. Finnigan and her three daughters. It appears one of her daughters was awakened by a man catching hold of her foot in mistake as he was fumbling about. She screamed and the man made off. The burglar scaled the fence and fell into the constable's arms. A violent struggle on the footpath followed, during which the man said, "I am a desperate man. I am a German. Let me go." Finally, Walsh overpowered the man and arrested him. In the police court to-day a German named Rudolph Asmussen, alias Fred Penk, 33, was charged with having entered Mrs. Finnigan's house with intent to commit a crime. Accused was remanded.

SCOTTISH WOMEN'S HOSPITALS.

It is announced that the Scottish Women's Hospitals for War Service Fund will be closed on May 31, and a request is made that collection lists and cards be returned at once. Further donations to the fund, which now totals £12,500, should be addressed to the hon. treasurers, Messrs. J. Russell French and H. E. Manning, 80 Phillip-street, Sydney.

ARCHBISHOP KELLY AND THE WAR.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—"Australian Catholic" is quite right. I know of concrete instances where employers refuse to employ Roman Catholics on account of the utterances of men like Dr. Kelly and Dr. Mannix, more especially the former. Thus these indiscreet prelates bring suffering and contumely on their flocks while they themselves escape scatheless. They would not feel flattered if they heard the comments passed on them by some of the better class members of their Church. While I regret that reprisals such as those complained of by "Australian Catholic" are taken, and disagree with them, it is, I fear, but natural that Protestants, smarting under unwarranted attacks made on them, should look about for some effective means of reprisal.

I claim to be impartial, as I agree with much that is contended for by the Roman Catholic Church in Australia. I am a Home Ruler, although I must confess that the growth of Sinn Feinism may make me change my opinion in this regard. I also believe in the contention of the Church that the secular portion of their education system be subsidised by the State. I agree with Dr. Kelly that much of the present day Godlessness is caused by our secular system of education. I have always contended that the Roman Catholic Church has been fighting the battle for the Church of which I am a member. I, and many of my co-religionists, agree that secular unaccompanied by religious education is not in the true interests of the community, and I feel certain that were denominational schools subsidised we should see a large number of Anglican schools established.

I flatly disagree with those who hold that the Roman Catholic Church, as such, is disloyal. If it is, how does one account for the large number of Roman Catholics who are fighting with the Australians, to say nothing of the attitude of Roman Catholics in England and America. The trouble comes from the Roman Catholics born in Ireland, and not those claiming Australia for their birthplace, although undoubtedly the more ignorant of the latter, acting under the influence of their priests, are often disloyal. Unfortunately, the priesthood of the Roman Catholic Church in Australia is almost exclusively Irish or of Irish extraction. I believe that the latter, with some exceptions, are loyal. But, unfortunately, a large proportion of the clergy have been imported from Ireland, and the great majority of them are disloyal and haters of England. A prominent Roman Catholic layman told me that there are serious differences between the two classes of priests on the subject of Australia's duty to the Empire. Of course, Dr. Mannix and Dr. Kelly are importations, and yet they are the pets of the party who are always shrieking "Australia for the Australians."

Any student of history knows that Ireland, prior to the last half century, had bitter cause of complaint against English misrule in Ireland through several centuries. But all that has since been changed. How many know, for instance, that between 1885 and 1911 no less than £99,675,910 was spent by England in purchasing Irish estates and reselling them to the Irish peasantry on ridiculously easy terms, so that the late John Redmond could say some years since that the Irish peasantry had never before been so prosperous. But the Irish have proved themselves to be unforgiving and ungenerous and obsessed with the recollection of the grievances of past generations of Irish, refuse to consider the undoubted benefits that have been showered on the present generation of their compatriots by the hated English. There is little doubt that but for the war much more would have been done in the direction of the repurchase of Irish estates, as statistics show that at the end of 1911 applications for the further expenditure of over £47,000,000 were under consideration.

May 11.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—After reading the different letters in reference to the sectarian utterances on both sides, Catholic and Protestant alike, it behoves the community to get together as one.

If these individuals do not stop throwing mud at one another they ought to be made to be brought to their senses—if they have any.

There is only one issue now—how to fight the Germans—the country first, the people after—and if there are any dissenters they ought to be brought to book quick and lively, no half-measures, then the atmosphere will be cleared of putrid matter. I am, etc.,
CHARLES BOSWELL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—There is a pathetic, if not a tragic, side to the sectarian wrangling set going from time to time in the public mind by inane clerical temerity. This sordid, pathetic-tragic side is well put, and emphasised in your issue of Saturday last, May 11, by "Australian Catholic." He affirms that his pronounced Irish Catholic name girds against his earning his daily bread in this free land, because of spiteful clerical vapouring in the public ear. How depressing it is to every thinking human being that the claimed hierarchy of peace and goodwill to men should be thus debased, and the poor and struggling be the suffering victims! How depressing to our hope in human uplifting progress, when mere clerical adjuration can set brother man rasping in hatred at his brother man—hatred so bitterly intense as to overreach that bond more sacred than that of any hierarchy—the bond of Nature, which joins all men the world over as brothers!

But we write in hope of "Australian Catholic" having compassed the cure for such a leprous, warping, sectarian malady, eradicate the disease by deportation. Rid this fair, sunny land of the sectarian virus, and all who preach its tenets, and who in any way generate hatreds amongst our people to the detriment of our toiling class, or any class. A lady shopkeeper in the old town of Killarney, hearing when the present writer came from, put him some questions, which were answered, and to which she warmly affirmed that it was industrious habits, clear heads, sweet homes, sweet tempers, tidy clothes, and kind hearts that our dear people should be assimilating in that great land under the Southern Cross, to which we added Amen, for we could not have compounded a more fitting prescription for the generous, but much misguided, Irish race.

How anomalous the position is that the humane, kindly, generous Irish nature, so open-minded, open-handed, willingly helpful, should be constrained to stultify these splendid attributes of their heredity. Neutralised by a seeming alien so-called spiritual regimen, which begets hatreds, divisions, impolitic bickerings, to the hindrance of peaceful social intercourse, national welfare, and progress. One can meet the man on Sydney street who inculcates that sinister tricky sectarian rasping is creating doubts in many minds on the very foundations of religion. In such position, with dubiety creeping in, it is for every earnest pastor, every churchman, every true progressive man to well consider "Australian Catholic's" proposition to the end of national safety.

And begin at once to end the rasping that hinders a poor worker from earning his daily bread, defend kind hearts, generate and disseminate kindness throughout the whole human family as the greatest force for human welfare. It will beat the cannon into ploughshares if you give it fair play. Are we not all convinced to-day that if the Germans had cultivated their hearts as assiduously as they did their intellect there would not have been such a cataclysm of blood and barbarity, and torn hearts, as the world is weeping over as we write.

I am, etc.,
JAMES MUIR.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Your excellent sub-leader on "Dr. Kelly and the War" must have commended itself to every reasonable, thinking man and woman. In a letter, inserted in your paper of the 11th inst., the writer asks some searching questions. May I quote the following in connection with art unions and lotteries:—"Do they confine their appeal to their own Church or do they send out their books of tickets broadcast?" Before a recent fete held at Mt. Erin Convent in Wagga Wagga, little boys went from house to house offering for sale tickets in a raffle, the prize being Dr. Mannix's photograph. I need not comment except on the somewhat astounding fact, to me, that loyalists and Protestants in the town openly expressed no surprise or resentment.

I am, etc.,
SOJOURNER.

Wagga Wagga, May 12.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Once again the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Sydney has seen fit to insult the general intelligence of the Australian public. In particular, the daily Press is singled out, and charged with "deliberate misrepresentation." Dr. Kelly, I fear, would find himself in rather an unpleasant position if he were called upon to give specific instances of "deliberate misrepresentation," and asked to prove his contention in a court of law. The daily Press, in the noble stand it has taken during the last four years on all patriotic questions, has incidentally told Dr. Kelly and certain of his followers some unpleasant home truths, hence the general abuse, in which Dr. Kelly and his brother Archbishop of Melbourne excel. Speaking on the education question, Dr. Kelly says "the children of Australia have been too long deprived of a sound education." Do facts bear out this statement? Unhesitatingly we answer No. Dr. Kelly has only to consult the pass lists of the public examinations, and he will receive a sufficient answer. The Archbishop concludes a characteristic speech by denouncing as "agents of hell" the great majority of the people opposed to his views. At such a time as the present, Dr. Kelly's utterances most certainly tend to promote discord and friction, and the daily Press would be doing a public good if it ignored Dr. Kelly and his remarks. By so doing his influence would be limited to his hearers, and would have no appreciable effect on the great Australian public.

I am, etc.,
"PRO BONO PUBLICO."

May 13.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Complying with the appeal "Australia First," dinned into our ears week after week, let us begin by insisting on having an Australian Archbishop in each capital city, also good Australians in all the other high positions in the Church.

I am, etc.,
ONE R.C. AUSTRALIAN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I was very sorry to hear Father O'Reilly speak as he did at St. Patrick's Church last night. It did no good, and only embitters the Protestants. This is a time when we should unite for the welfare of the whole British community, and not for the delivery of rash and thoughtless speeches, which must harm rather than improve matters. If Father O'Reilly would only suggest the formation of an Irish Brigade in Australia the same as the Scottish people are doing, it would have a better effect. Lots of us would join such a brigade, if encouraged to do so by our Archbishops Kelly and Mannix, and Father O'Reilly; and it would create a friendly rivalry that would do wonders towards recruiting, and draw the people of different faiths together. It is only the blind and bigoted that cannot see that these scurrilous attacks on sections that have willingly contributed to our institutions are isolating us, and in the end will leave us stranded.

I am, etc.,

JOURNALISTS' AWARD.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The High Court, composed of Justices Isaacs, Duffy, and Rich, to-day granted leave to the Commonwealth Attorney-General to intervene in respect of cases E. M. F. King v. the Commonwealth Court of Conciliation and Arbitration, the President of the Court, and the Australian Journalists' Association, ex parte Perth "Daily News, Ltd.," and King v. the Deputy-President and Court of Conciliation and Arbitration, ex parte Perth "Daily News, Ltd." It was announced by the Court that the cases would not be begun before Monday. Mr. H. E. Starke, instructed by the Federal Crown Solicitor, said that the cases were two orders nisi, seeking to prevent the Arbitration Court enforcing an award made in a claim by the Australian Journalists' Association against the Daily Newspaper Employers' Association and others. It was stated that reporters were not an industry, and that Mr. Justice Isaacs had no jurisdiction to make an award. The Commonwealth would contend that journalists came within the constitution; and in respect of the second matter, it would be argued that Mr. Justice Isaacs, as Deputy-President, could exercise his power as such both inside and outside of the Court.

PRICE OF MOLYBDENITE.

PAMBULA, Tuesday.

At a meeting of the Whipstick miners and those interested in the production of molybdenite and other rare metals, it was decided to wait upon the Federal Government with a view of steps being taken to remedy the injustice of only being paid £6 a unit for molybdenite, while the producers in other parts of the Empire are getting £10 a unit.

THE BOY SCOUTS.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the New South Wales section of the Boy Scouts' Association, Captain J. C. T. Glossop, C.B., R.N., formerly of H.M.A.S. Sydney, was unanimously elected a member of that committee. There will be a parade on Saturday next in the Domain of the Scouts in the metropolitan area. Owing to the unavoidable absence of the Chief Scout, his Excellency the Governor, Captain Glossop will review and inspect the Scouts, and make the presentation of awards for saving life and other acts of bravery performed by Scouts during last year. The Metropolitan Public Schools' Prize Band, under Bandmaster Bourke, will render selections.

WAR CASUALTIES.

WOUNDED.

Mr. Colman Burke has received a cable notifying that his eldest son, Colman, has been severely wounded, and is now in Wimereux hospital. Lieutenant Colman Burke, after leaving school in England, went to Woolwich Royal Academy, where, at the age of 19, two years ago he joined the Royal Field Artillery. Out of eight fellow-officers who left with the same battery he was the last one left on active service.

Mrs. Leaver, of 45 Milson-street, Milson's Point, has been notified that her son, Private Leslie Easton, has again been wounded in France (second occasion).

Mrs. T. Seary, of 246 Henderson-road, Alexandria, has received news that her husband, Private T. Seary, has been wounded. He sailed in February, 1915, being invalided home in September, 1915, and he sailed for the second time in March, 1916.

MISSING.

Mr. Arthur Rae, who was secretary to the anti-conscription campaign, received notification yesterday that his son, Private Ronald Rae, had been reported missing since April 12. Mr. Rae has two other sons still fighting in France.

SHELL SHOCK.

Mrs. Sinclair, of Union-street, Dulwich Hill, has been officially informed that her husband, Lieut. W. Sinclair, M.M., is now in hospital suffering from shell shock. While holding the rank of sergeant in the 14th Field Artillery Brigade the wounded officer was awarded the Military Medal for bravery towards the end of last year.

PRESBYTERIAN ASSEMBLY.

On Monday afternoon in connection with the Presbyterian General Assembly a service of intercession was held in St. Stephen's Church, in lieu of the customary harbour excursion. There was a large attendance, and short addresses were delivered by the Moderator, the Rev. David Smith, M.A., and the Revs. A. E. Ogilvie and Charles Crane.

At night a very large meeting in connection with Foreign Missions and the Women's Missionary Association was held in St. Stephen's Church. The Moderator, Rev. David Smith, M.A., presided, and the meeting was given several interesting addresses in connection with the missionary work of the Presbyterian Church in many lands. Miss Johnson, recently returned from China, detailing the work at Amoy, said that in that vast district 75 years ago there were no signs of missionary endeavour, and now there was a Presbyterian Synod worthy of the best traditions of church discipline.

During the sitting of the assembly yesterday, a motion was carried expressing gratification at the semi-jubilee of the Chinese Presbyterian Church in Sydney, of which the Rev. J. Young Wai is the minister.

BOARD OF TRADE INQUIRIES.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The Federal Board of Trade has decided to recommend the Commonwealth Ministry to grant a bonus or bounty for the rolling of black sheet iron, and for galvanised plain and corrugated iron. The recommendations will be dealt with at the next meeting of the Cabinet. In making this announcement, the Minister for Customs, Mr. Jensen, who is president of the board, stated that the functions of the board were:—(1) To investigate and report upon all matters referred to it by the Minister; (2) generally to consider and advise the Government upon all matters affecting the trade and industry of the Commonwealth.

The board, he said, had held four meetings and had considered several important problems relating to industry within the Commonwealth, and had made recommendations to the Government concerning them. The question of boring for oil had also received consideration, and the board, at its next meeting, would deal finally with this question. The supply of cardboard containers to take the place of tinplate was also discussed.

UPPER HUNTER BY-ELECTION.

Yesterday the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Mr. J. J. Cohen, issued a writ for the election of a member of the State Parliament for Upper Hunter, vice Mr. Macartney Abbott, resigned. Tuesday next, May 21, was fixed as nomination day, and the poll will be taken on Saturday, June 8. The writ is returnable on Tuesday, June 26.

JUDGMENT DEBTOR'S EVIDENCE.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Interesting evidence of financial relations between friends was given in the Banco Court before the Chief Justice on a summons against a judgment debtor. Sir Wentworth Fitzwilliam Newmarch was the judgment debtor, and Evelyn Rupert Atkinson the judgment creditor. The facts as submitted to the Court were that on December 3, 1916, Atkinson recovered judgment against Newmarch for £561 14s 10d, with costs, in respect of money lent and interest thereon and money paid on behalf of Newmarch. Judgment had not been satisfied, and Newmarch was now called before the Court on a summons of examination. In reply to the Chief Justice, he said that he had believed till October that he was entitled to an interest of about £5000 in the estate in which his grandmother had a life interest. He had agreed to an arrangement suggested by Atkinson that whoever of them came into their property first should lend the other £2000. At Bendigo in 1915 Atkinson had said that he could not lend him £2000, but he arranged to guarantee his account with the Royal Bank for £200. Witness said that his allowance of £150 a year from his father was discontinued about eight years ago. He had since that time earned £2 or £3 a week, and had occasionally received assistance from his grandmother. He had received an allowance for the past six months. Before he lost the allowance from his father he had incurred debts for £3000. He would just go into shops and get things. The debts included £400 owed at the Savoy, and £120, £161, and £50 to tailors in Melbourne.

Imports from Great Britain are of practically the same value as in 1915-16, but the exports to Great Britain showed an advance of over twenty-four million pounds. Exports to Canada increased by more than five and a half millions. To France the exports increased by a million and a half pounds, and to Italy by a little over a million pounds. Japan took from us not quite £300,000 more goods than she did in 1915-16. Exports to the United States of America declined by a little over ten millions. A great part of this decline was due to very little wool being sent in 1916-17, only £13,000 worth, as against eight millions in 1915-16. There was also a decline of three millions in the export of specie to the United States.

WAR RISKS INSURANCE.

Much of the cargo which comes to Australia is covered, so far as war risk is concerned, by insurance under the British Government scheme. Under that scheme, which has been in operation since the early days of the war, a flat rate was charged, varying from 1 per cent. to 5 per cent. It was quite distinct from the insurance of marine risk, which was left to the ordinary market. The Government took the whole of the war risk on cargoes offered to it, and received the whole of the premium. For a long time the Government rate for war risk—after the German mines had been driven off the seas—remained at 1 per cent. Then as the submarine danger grew the rate gradually increased to the maximum of five guineas per cent, at which again it remained for many months. Losses continued to be suffered and to exceed in amount the premiums paid into the funds of the War Risks Office to the detriment of the taxpayer. The one remedy, it was decided, was to abolish the flat rate system and to adopt the open market system of grading premiums according to the risks which experience from time to time shows the various voyages to involve. By assuming a large proportion of all the war risks, good and bad, it will be possible to set the less hazardous risks against those which are more hazardous to meet losses incidental to submarine warfare and at the same time to quote the lowest rates which will in fact cover the risks undertaken. The scheme came into force on March 7. War risk insurance to Australia via Suez is six guineas per cent, and via the Cape or Panama 73s per cent. The open market in war risks remains in existence, and, of course, there is no compulsion to insure with the Government if the open market is preferred.

THE MORATORIUM.

"Cornstalk."—The moratorium applies, and the interest chargeable is 6 per cent., though the mortgagee could apply to the Court to increase the rate to 6½, the rate made on January 1, 1916.

MISCELLANEOUS QUERIES.

"H. S.": Interest due on June 15 on the 1927 bonds amounts to £3/5/ or £3/10/, according whether the bonds were paid for on the instalment system or on application, and interest on the 1925 bonds amounts to £2/5/. That accounts for the difference in price. "W. H. B.": It is a matter for a solicitor.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

All kinds of oils are steadily advancing in price, and each day stocks are becoming smaller and smaller. Yesterday castor oil was practically unprocurable under 11/ a gallon, and sales of Japanese cod oil were made as high as 6/. First brands of cotton seed oil moved up to 19/, and even second brands brought 13/. For Japanese fish oil 6/9 was secured. No. 1 rapeseed oil was quoted at 11/6 in cases, and pale filtered whale oil at 6/ in casks. Holders of pale rosin oil wanted £43 a ton. Neatsfoot oil changed hands at 7/6, and creosote at 2/3. Pure No. 1 Fook Cheong realised 12/, and No. 2 11/. Imported brands of Stockholm tar commanded 35/ a drum, but Morrison's was to be had at 12/ for load lots. Australian wool marking oils cleared at from 4/ to 6/. Flyblown oil realised 4/6. Paint materials were in strong hands. Turpentine cleared at from 5/10 to 6/, and linseed oil at from 7/4 to 7/6. The market was almost bare of redlead, which was nominally quoted at £85.

Groceries were very firm. Tinned fish realised high rates. First brands of Sockeye salmon in 1lb tins brought to 21/, while Red Alaska fish were sold at 16/6. There were no English herrings available, and American brands of fresh herrings in 1lb tins commanded from 12/6 to 13/6. Kippered herrings commanded 15/6. Sardines were again quiet. Portuguese halves were offered at from 10/ to 11/, and quarters at from 6/ to 6/9. Salt was almost unprocurable.

CUSTOMS DECISIONS.

The following decisions in interpretation of the tariff have been announced by the Customs Department:—

Chain.—Link chain for conveying or elevating purposes—Plain ordinary links, whether of wrought or malleable cast iron. Item 194. Attachment links, being links with provisions for affixing buckets, etc., or slats—If malleable iron castings, item 309; otherwise, item 176. This classification applies whether the plain and attachment links are imported together and invoiced on the same invoice or not, but not to links for chain belting specially designed for particular elevating or conveying plants. Link chain, metal driving—Plain ordinary links, whether of wrought or malleable cast iron. Item 194. Special links for connecting up ends, imported separately, or for repair—If malleable cast iron, item 309; otherwise, item 194. Link chain, cycle and motor cycle—Links, ordinary, or for repair or connection. Item 351. Links, mending, other than those for metal driving chains classifiable under item 194 (b) or cycle chains according to material. Item 208 or 309.

Compositions.—Renbas, consisting of vegetable fibre and gummy substances, with a considerable amount of mineral matter, in an aqueous solution—used for preventing punctures in motor tyres. Item 255 (b).

Hinges for Sewing Machines, for connecting the head of the machine to the wooden tables. Item 404.

Machines—Computing and Typewriting combined.—Catalogued as an adding machine. The typewriter is fixed to the adding machine by a clamp, and can be removed. Typewriter. Item 169. Adding machine. Item 173 (a). Motor, electric, for operating adding machine. Item 179 (d).

INTERSTATE MARKETS.

ADELAIDE, Tuesday.

Offal firm, good demand, basis regulated rates, about 4000 bags Algerian oats sold 3/10 f.o.b., comparatively few now held, and market is firm. Stock Cape barley extremely light, buyers offering 4/3 f.o.b. English malting, practically no stocks, nominal value 5/9 to 6/3 f.o.b. Chaff dull, 72/6 for May, 75/ for June. Branbags, 14/6 spot. At auction factory butter realised 1/6¼ to 1/8¼, dairy 1/5 to 1/6, stores 1/2 to 1/3; eggs, 1/9; cheese, new /10 to /10½, matured /11 to /11½; honey, /4½; bacon, easier, /10½ to /11½ for sides; hams, 1/1.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Barley, Chevalier, steady, 5/9 to 6/, Cape easier 4/6; oats weaker, milling Algerian 4/3, feed 3/10 to 4/; maize firm, 6/3; peas dull, dun 6/6 to 6/9; chaff quieter, £6/10/ to £7; potatoes steady, new red soil Carmens £8/10/ to £4, grey soils £7/10/ to £8; onions firm, £12/10/; butter steady; eggs weaker, 1/8 to 1/10; cheese firmer, new /10 to /10½, matured 1/ to 1/0½; jute unchanged.

VICTORIAN LIVE STOCK MARKET.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

In the live stock market to-day, 29,350 fat sheep were entered, but the rainfall in the north, however, blocked many consignments, and the yarding was approximately 26,000, of which a moderate proportion was good to prime quality. There was a good attendance of buyers, and the demand was, with the exception of a short period in the middle of the day, brisker than usual, and prices for all classes in most cases appreciably higher, the market closing very strong at still higher values. Quotations: Crossbred wethers: Prime, 39/3 to 43/10, extra to 47/, odd wethers to 57/, good 35/ to 38/, seconds 31/ to 34/, inferior from 28/. Crossbred ewes: Prime 33 to 37/6, extra to 39/3, odd pens to 43/6, odd ewes to 47/6, good 28/ to 31/6, seconds 24/ to 26/3, inferior from 12/. Merino wethers: Prime 30/ to 35/, extra to 36/6, good 26/ to 28/, seconds 23/3 to 25/, inferior from 20/. Merino ewes: Good to prime 21/3 to 27/3, extra to 29/10, aged and low-conditioned sorts from 8/. Fat lambs: 12,000 entered, but only about 10,000 came to hand, owing to heavy rains in the country. The demand was brisk throughout, and all classes showed a decided advance in values. Quotations: Prime 27/3 to 33/, extra to 34/3, good 23/9 to 26/, seconds 19/6 to 22/, inferior from 16/3.

PRODUCE.

DAIRY.

There was a keen inquiry for all lines in the dairy produce section of the Sussex-street markets yesterday, particularly for eggs. Choice-graded samples of new-laid sold readily up to 2/9 a dozen. Case eggs from the northern rivers were worth from 2/ to 2/2, while varieties from South Coast and railway districts were worth 2/2 to 2/4 a dozen.

Bacon and hams sold well. Lard changed hands freely.

A steamer from the South Coast placed a small shipment of cheese on the market. The demand, however, was far in excess of the supply, and within an hour or two all stocks had been cleared.

Quotations were:—

Eggs.—Hen, new-laid, 2/6 to 2/8, choice graded, 2/9; Northern Rivers, 2/ to 2/2; South Coast and railways, 2/2 to 2/4; duck, new-laid, 2/6; case, 2/ per dozen.

Cheese (proclaimed prices).—Matured, large and medium, 1/; loaf, 1/0½; prime loaf, new, /10½; large and medium, new, /10 per lb.

Bacon.—Sides, 1/1; flitches, 1/0½; middles, 1/3; shoulders, /11 per lb.

Butter (boxes and cartage 2/ extra).—Choicest 169/4, second 140/ per cwt; packed in prints, ¼ per lb extra may be charged.

Hams.—Special brands, single cloth, 1/4½; seeds, 1/1½ per lb.

Honey.—60lb tins of choice, /5½ to /6 per lb.

Lard.—Packets, /10½; bulk, /10 per lb.

Beeswax.—1/9 to 1/10 per lb.

Poultry.—River consignments: Old hens, 2/6 to 3/3; young roosters, small, 2/6 to 3/; large, 3/ to 4/6; chickens, 1/6 to 2/; Muscovy ducks, 2/6 to 4/; drakes, 4/6 to 5/; turkeys, gobblers, 10/ to 15/; hens, 7/ to 10/; guineafowls, 5/ to 5/6; pigeons, 1/6 to 1/9 for large, 1/ for small, pair.

Suburban Consignments: Roosters, prime to 9/; good, 6/6 to 7/6; medium, light, and small, and old, from 4/. Hens: Choice heavy to 7/; good, 5/ to 6/; medium, light, and small, from 3/6. Drakes: Muscovy, choice heavy to 8/, good 6/ to 7/; medium, light, small, and old from 5/; Muscovy, choice heavy to 5/, good 4/3 to 4/9; medium, light, small, and old from 4/; English, choice heavy to 5/6, good 4/ to 5/, medium, light, small, and old, from 3/6. Turkeys: Gobblers, choice heavy to 30/, good 15/ to 25/, medium, light, and small from 12/6; hens, choice heavy to 15/, good 11/ to 13/, medium, light, and small from 10/. Geese to 13/; guineafowls to 5/6; pigeons, young and old, 2/ per pair.

FORAGE AND GRAIN.

Forage and grain lines met with a strong inquiry generally yesterday, and were responsible for a fairly large volume of business. White maize was firm at 5/ a bushel; yellow realised 4/10.

At the firewood sales 17 trucks were auctioned. Prices were a shade easier than those of the previous day.

Quotations were:—

Lucerne Hay.—Hunter River, large bales, choice £4/10/, new £3/5/ to £4, other grades from £2/10/ a ton.

Broom Millet.—Prime long hurl, to £100 a ton.

Oats.—Tasmanian Giants to 5/6, Algerian feed, to 4/4; milling to 4/8 a bushel.

Maize.—Northern Rivers, yellow, prime 4/10, white 5/ a bushel.

Barley.—Cape, seed, or malting, 4/3 to 4/6; English feed, nominal, 4/.

Onions.—Victorian: Brown Spanish, £14; picklers, £11 a ton.

Swede Turnips.—£3 a ton.

Straw.—Tasmanian, £4/10/; Victorian, £4 to £4/10/ a ton.

Oaten Hay.—Victorian, £7 a ton.

Chaff.—Local, wheaten, £5/10/ to £6/10/, oaten £5 to £5/10/ a ton.

Potatoes.—Tasmanian: Plunkets, Commonwealths, Brownells, £6; Bismarcks, £4/10/; Pinkeyes, £5 a ton; Victorian Carmens, £5; local, Carmens, £4 to £4/15/; Snowflakes, £3/15/ to £4/7/6; Manhattans, £3/10/ to £4; Brownells, £3/10/ to £4/5/; Redskins, £4 a ton.

Peas.—Blue, 15/ to 15/6; grey, 8/6 a bushel.

Firewood.—Boxwood, 20/ to 25/; stringybark, 19/ to 20/; mixed wood, 15/ to 16/; ironbark, 15/ to 18/; bakers' wood to 19/; good, 16/ to 17/; rough, 10/ to 11/ a ton.

FRUIT MARKET.

At the fruit markets there was very little to record in connection with trade. Lemons were again plentiful, and were selling at concessions on late prices. A shipment totalling 22,000 cases of Tasmanian fruit was landed. Apples were 6d a case dearer.

Quotations were:—

Lemons.—Coloured, choice 10/, medium 6/ to 7/, small 4/ to 5/, green 4/ to 6/ per bushel-case.

Oranges.—Local: Choice 6/, medium 4/, small 3/ per bushel-case.

Pears.—Victorian: Dessert, 8/ to 12/ a bushel case. Tasmanian: Dessert, 5/ to 8/ a half-bushel case.

Pineapples.—Queensland: Queens 14/ to 15/, Ripleys 9/ to 12/ a case.

Grapes.—Local: Black Muscatel, choice 8/ to 10/, medium 6/ to 7/, small 4/ to 4/6; white muscatel, choice 9/ to 10/, medium 6/ to 7/, others from 4/ per half-bushel case.

Passionfruit.—Choice to 11/, medium 6/ to 8/, small 2/6 to 3/ per half-bushel case.

Bananas.—Fiji, G.M., 6/ to 8/6 a bunch, 20/ to 23/ a case; China, 6/ to 7/ a bunch, 18/ to 19/ a case; Tweed River, choice to 20/, others 12/ to 18/ a case; Queensland, 10/ to 16/ a case.

Custard Apples.—4/ to 6/ a tray.

Quinces.—3/ to 6/ a bushel case.

Apples.—Local: Granny Smith, 4/ to 6/; King David, 3/ to 6/; Jonathans, 3/ to 6/; other varieties, 3/ to 5/; jam lots, 2/. Tasmanian: Jonathans, 6/6 to 8/; S.P.M., 6/6 to 7/6; Alexander, Afristons, and M.C., 4/ to 5/6; C.O.P., 5/ to 6/ a bushel-case.

Persimmons.—2/ to 4/ a half-bushel case.

VEGETABLE MARKET.

Cabbages, cauliflowers, and green vegetables were forwarded plentifully, and were difficult to dispose of, even at easy rates.

Quotations were:—

Cabbages.—Local, 1/ to 2/6; cauliflowers, 1/ to 4/6; lettuce, /6 to 1/ a dozen.

Beans.—French, local, 1/6 to 2/; peas, local, 1/6 to 6/6 a bushel.

Beetroot, /9 to 1/; carrots, /9 to 1/; celery, 1/6 to 3/; herbs, /6; leeks, 1/ to 1/6; mint, /6; parsley, 1/6; parsnips, 2/ to 2/6; rhubarb, 1/ to 8/; spinach, /9; white turnips, 1/ to 1/6; eschalots, /6 to 1/; watercress, 1/6 to 2/; marrows, 3/ to 4/ a dozen.

Potatoes.—Redskins, 8/6; Brownells, 7/6; Pinkeyes, 6/6; Bismarcks, 6/; sweet potatoes, 5/ to 7/; onions, new Spanish, 14/; Swede turnips, 5/ to 6/; pumpkins, local, 3/ to 5/ per cwt.

Tomatoes.—2/ to 5/ per half-bushel case.

PIG SALES.

The supply at the abattoir market yesterday showed a slight falling-off in numbers as compared to recent yardings. In all 1852 pigs were penned, including all descriptions, and the quality generally was above that of late. Buyers were again in good attendance, and competition generally active. The demand for porkers was generally very keen, and prices showed a decided improvement on late low rates. Bacon pigs were in moderate supply, and were fairly keenly competed for, values showing a firmer tendency with an occasional improvement. The offerings of backfatters were not so heavy as of late, and the demand in this section was consequently fairly active, with prices showing a little advance.

PRODUCE FOR SYDNEY.

LAUNCESTON, Tuesday.

The steamer Wahatiou left to-day for Sydney with 310 bags of oats, 270 tons of bark, 1510 bales of straw, 300 cases of apples, 21 cases of pears, 48 calves, 15 heifers, 80 sheep, 998 cases of stout, 10 tons of ore, and 66,250ft of timber.

MINING.

Active business in tin concerns at advancing prices again characterised operations in mining shares on the Stock Exchange yesterday. Towards the close, however, a slight weakness was noticeable. Larut and Kampong, for forward delivery, sold at solid rates; and a large parcel of Ratrut changed hands at 21/6, a rise of /9. Trong moved freely in a changeable market, finally selling /4½ lower at 19/7½; and Tin Bentong reacted /6 to 27/9. Tongkah Compound advanced /7½ to 16/10½, but Tongkah Harbour eased /6 to 54/6. Local stocks received consistent support. Carpathia recovered to 12/6, and Trong to 12/, while Vegetable Creek moved up /3 to 4/3. Copper interests remained quiet, and save for a sale at 13/10½ in Centrals, Westonias were dormant. Mount Dudley reacted to 3/ after their somewhat sharp rise. A stronger market ruled for Barriers. British rose /3 to 43/9, and "Hills" were bought strongly at 70/, a recovery of 1/3 on the week. Mammoth Molybdenite failed to impress buyers, and the stock sagged to 9/1, but rallied later to 9/4½, which represented a net decline of 1/3 on the week.

MASTER PAINTERS.

At the fifth annual conference of the Master House Painters and Decorators, which has just concluded, it was decided to place on record the conference's opposition to the principle of day labour as against the system of contracting. It favoured separate tendering in the building trade, and the system of grading work when fixing the minimum wage rates for painters was reaffirmed. The conference further decided to oppose the principle of special pay for special work where considerations apart from skill were involved. It was resolved to draw the attention of merchants handling wallpapers to the advisableness of making 21in the standard width for ordinary lines, and suggested that a preference discount should be allowed by merchants to all bona-fide master painters. The next conference will be held at Melbourne in April next.

Mr. James Perrott (Sydney) was elected president, Mr. H. Oliver (Melbourne) vice-president, and Mr. Jas. Maxwell (Brisbane) secretary and treasurer.

HYDE PARK.

The council of the Horticultural Society of New South Wales recently made an offer to the City Council gratuitously to work out a scheme and submit a plan for the improvement of Hyde Park, but in view of the resolution carried at the meeting of the City Council on the 7th inst. the council of the Horticultural Society has informed the town clerk that it has decided not to waste its time any further on the matter.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

The May meeting of the Canford Racing Club takes place this afternoon, and visitors can reach the scene of action by the trains leaving the Central Railway Station at 9.30, 9.50 (horses), 10.20, 10.40, and 11.20 a.m. The course is first-class going, large fields are promised, and interesting sport may be anticipated.

The outer portion of the Randwick course proper was in use yesterday morning. Kagal was a trifle better than Sornette at the end of a mile, run in 1m 47s. Toison put six furlongs past in 1m 21s, and Redburn defeated Chid at the end of a mile, covered in 1m 50s. Silent Way went steadily over seven furlongs. Earl San and Urney galloped six furlongs in 1m 23s. A sharp half-mile was run by Bundarra and Brome Hook. Dick Meagher put five furlongs past in 1m 1s. Seiandra's task was a mile in 1m 49s. Mountwood ran six furlongs in 1m 20s. Meriocle got over five furlongs in 1m 7s. Caroo was out for gentle work. Woodwild moved sharply over five furlongs. Thana and Medley easily disposed of seven furlongs in 1m 36s. Duke Sterling led Princess Clara and Duke Kendall over five furlongs in 1m 7s, and similar time was made by Vivelle, who beat Duke Hugo. Sir Paddington galloped six furlongs in 1m 24s, easing up the last half furlong. Petabiter spurted, and several others did steady work.

J.G. (Balmain): Brumlee Lad started in the Haig Handicap at the Goulburn Repatriation meeting on Friday last.

M.B. (Coogee): Mary Bondi, the winner of the second division of Somme Handicap at Goulburn on Friday last, paid a dividend of 27/6 on the 5/ totalisator.

G.B. (Petersham): The horses you inquire for were not mentioned in the finish for the race, but they were not in the first seven.

J.P. (Kensington): Celano, who ran second in the Newcastle Cup, paid a dividend of £3/3/6 on 10/ tickets on the totalisator.

Our Melbourne correspondent telegraphs that despite the fact that advertisements have appeared in the newspapers calling for entries for the Ascot Thousand on September 28, it was announced by the Chief Secretary's Department on Monday that, in reply to a letter from the defence authorities who now control racing, a permit would not be given for any race meeting in the metropolitan area on September 28, which is known as the public day of the Royal Agriculture Society's show. Last year a strong protest was offered to the race meeting, when an undertaking was given by the Chief Secretary that steps should be taken to prevent it in future.

D.S. (Hurstville): The totalisator tickets at the Newcastle Cup meeting on Saturday last were 10/. You are entitled to £3 more.

Nominations for the Winter meeting of the Australian Jockey Club on June 1 and 3 must be lodged with the secretary, Mr. C. W. Cropper, before 4 p.m. on Monday next, the 20th instant. The prize money totals 4500 sovs, and the programme is a varied one. The sum of 1700 sovs is devoted to the principal events, of which 800 sovs is available for cross-country racing, and 900 for racing over the battens; there are a couple of races for juveniles, each carrying 300 sovs; 800 sovs enriches the Winter Stakes, and 400 sovs for the June Stakes; and for the minor handicaps on the flat 300 sovs each has been provided.

CONSERVATORIUM OF MUSIC.

An evening orchestral and choral concert will be given to-night in honour of the visiting Premiers by the Conservatorium Orchestra and Conservatorium Choir. The programme will include the overture "Anacreon," of Cherubini; the aria, "Ah, Perfido," of Beethoven; the soloist being Madame Goossens; the "Jupiter" Symphony of Mozart; and the Bach "Magnificat" in D. The plan is at Nicholson's.

PIANO FOR RANDWICK HOSPITAL.

At the Conservatorium Hall next Saturday evening a patriotic concert will be given to purchase a player-piano for Recreation Hall, Randwick Military Hospital. Madame Goossens, Misses Winifred Burston, Grace Savile, Winifred Carter, Messrs. Cyril Monk, Harry Thomas, Charles Smythe, a violin ensemble, and Mr. Vern Barnett will assist. The plan is at Paling's, at popular prices.

MR. COAD'S VIOLIN RECITAL.

Mr. W. J. Coad's second violin recital last night of his proposed series of four overflowed with the most delightful melody, and the encouraging attendance at the Conservatorium demonstrated once more the popularity of the tuneful classics. The Brussels trained violinist was in great form throughout. He opened with Pietro Locatelli's "Sonata in B Flat," the Largo of which furnishes a gracious theme in chord passages of a song-like, devotional character, the whole deriving a persistent grace from the balance of its proportions. The artist throughout the programme showed more feeling than is sometimes his wont, and was evidently "in the vein." The "Tema con Variazioni" was cleverly rendered, and the vivacious bravura charm of the final "Allegro spiritoso" was followed by no end of enthusiasm. Another important contribution was the Max Bruch Concerto. The noble first movement, with its preludial passages, was expounded with the right breadth of tone and power, the touching Adagio was played with pathos of expression, and the technical brilliancy of the fascinating "Finale" led to another demonstration by the audience. Six gems from the violin literature of Europe included Arensky's "Berceuse," in which the plaintive grace of the theme in muted tones created a pastoral atmosphere; and the hardly less beautiful "Berceuse" of Cesar Cui, also muted, likewise stirred the audience. Mr. Coad rendered pieces by Tchaikowsky and Sarasate during the recital, in which Mr. W. H. Fletcher ably supplied the pianoforte accompaniments.

"DOROTHY" AT MOSMAN.

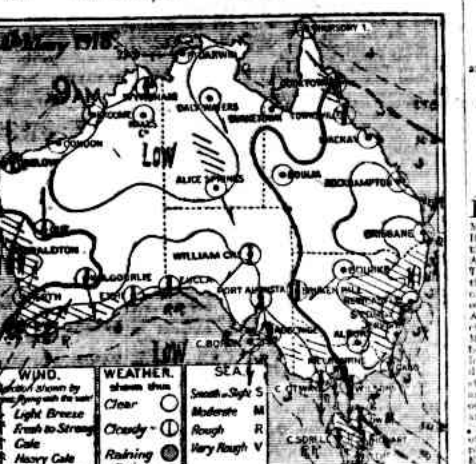
Last night the Mosman Musical Society had a large measure of success in the revival of "Dorothy." The local Town Hall was filled, and Mr. John Greene, the conductor, had the chorus and a capital orchestra, led by Mr. F. W. Reid, well in hand from start to the finish of the popular English comic opera. Mrs. Fred. England, who was in charge of the stage, must have surprised the audience by the admirable way in which the picturesque second act was mounted and carried through. The revival brought forth a graceful and animated Dorothy in Miss Dorrie Ward, and a more than pleasing Lydia Hawthorne in Miss Lucy Wise, with Miss Trixie Hall as Phyllis, Mrs. M'Kellar as Lady Betty, and Madame Ada Baker as Mrs. Privett. On the masculine side of the cast, Mr. W. B. Beattie had a fine professional touch in his look, singing, and acting as Harry Sherwood. As Geoffrey Wilden Mr. Reg. Raymond showed himself to be equal to the requirements of the part, and Mr. J. Thompson Rea justified his place in the performance as Squire Bantam. The Lurcher of Mr. Harry Perfect was spoilt by ridiculous excess in "gagging" and buffoonery. Mr. Beattie had encore honours for "Queen of My Heart," and in the same act Miss Ward scored in "Tally Ho," and Mr. Raymond in "Though Born a Man of High Degree." "Dorothy" will be repeated to-night and on Thursday and Saturday.

THIEVES SET FIRE TO RESIDENCE.

Thieves entered the residence of Mr. Charles Dunnett, at Connell's Point-road, Hurstville, and stole money and goods of the value of £3, and then accidentally set alight to the buildings. The occupants were absent, and it was subsequently discovered that the premises had been entered by thieves. It is surmised that the intruders dropped a lighted match while searching for valuables in the wardrobe, causing the contents to ignite. Several burnt wax matches were found on the floor. As the result of the fire the contents of the bedroom were damaged to the extent of £50.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.



A remarkably sudden cessation of the extensive rainstorm over New South Wales has resulted since 9 a.m. on Monday, due to the expansion westward of the big high pressure centred over New Zealand. The distribution of pressure shown on the chart very closely resembles that of last Friday, as do also the weather prospects indicated. The rear portion of the eastern "high" marks that system as still belonging to the "vertical isobar" type, whilst a broad "col" (or area of relatively low barometric pressure generally associated with thundery conditions) stretches from Central Australia to the Southern goldfields of Western Australia, where the advance isobar of the Western "high" is shown. In this "col" area are depicted, both a tropical low of weak character situated in the Kimberley division, and the Northern portion, of crest, of the great Antarctic disturbance, which was the chief feature of Monday's chart, but now somewhat enervated and with its eastern limits deflected past Tasmania to far southern latitudes over the Great Southern Ocean. With the above distribution of pressure, although temporary fine weather is indicated for the most part, with fogs and frosts on the highlands, a change for unsettled conditions should again affect the Western districts and spread eastward with rain and thunderstorms; mild northerly winds.

Ocean Forecast.—Squally north-west to westerly winds between the Leeuwin and Gabo.

WILLS AND ESTATES.

MR. ALFRED WALKER.

The will of the late Mr. Alfred Walker, late of North Sydney, builder, who died on February 15, this year, has been admitted to probate. The net value of the estate is sworn at £23,377 10s 5d, and probate has been granted to Arthur Bonnor Clarke, one of the executors, leave being reserved to two other executors to come in and prove. Testator's widow is left all the household furniture and effects for life, as well as a house rent free, and after her death the goods are to be distributed among the children in equal shares. The widow also receives £4 a week maintenance for life, and £1 a week for each child under 21 years of age living with her. Legacies of £100 each are left to the children, and similar sums to the children of Emily Griffiths. Bequests are also made to two old servants, and the residue of the estate is to be held in trust for the family but £20 a year for 20 years is to be left to the Crow's Nest School of Arts for recreation purposes.

WILL OF MR. H. F. EVANS.

Probate has been granted to the will of the late Mr. Herbert Frederick Evans, of Ermington, gentleman, who died on March 15 last. The Permanent Trustee Company is appointed trustee and executor. To his sister, Gertrude Delia Aldworth, testator bequeathed his furniture, and the trustee is instructed to permit her to use and enjoy for life the farm known as Box Farm, situated at Marsden-road, Ermington, for life or during her widowhood. Upon the occurrence of her death or remarriage the income from the property is to be divided between Vere Harry Evans and Ruth Evelyn Aldworth in equal shares during the minority of the latter. A legacy of £500, a motor car, and £3 a week for life is left to Joseph John Miller. The residue of the estate is left in trust, one half for Vere Harry Evans absolutely and the other half to Ruth Evelyn Aldworth on certain conditions. Testator's estate is sworn at £31,978 15s 9d.

THE AUSTRALASIAN ANNUAL DIGEST.

The Australasian Digest is now edited by Mr. C. E. Weigall, in succession to Judge Curlewis. It is still a monument of industry and careful arrangement. The editor has ransacked the judgments of nine Courts of Appeal, and has brought his work to the date of the latest cablegrams. It is a thought which should spur the energies of the law reformer that a decision from any one of the reports here referred to may be quoted as an authority of some value, and that no argument is quite complete until they have all been examined. Our copy is from the Law Book Company, Ltd.

HOUSES AND LAND FOR SALE.

HABERFIELD INTEREST IS STILL at 5 PER CENT. 5 PER CENT.

Anyone who is wishing to buy a home at present will know how much dearer the present-day building is becoming. The rate of money is also becoming higher.

Our Haberfield offer of 5 per cent. interest is therefore not only a concession, but a distinct advantage. We are able to build a little cheaper than you can buy elsewhere, because our building operations are confined to Haberfield, and we are consequently able to modify expense considerably.

OUR BUNGALOW AT £1075 WILL SHOW YOU OUR LATEST STYLE.

This particular bungalow is in a high part of the suburb, convenient to train and tram. It has slate roof, and contains wide lounge hall, well-appointed drawing and dining rooms, breakfast-room, 3 bedrooms, artistic panelling throughout, selected frieze and ornamentations. There are also tiled bathroom, kitchen, and the domestic offices in latest type. Electric light is connected.

WE ARRANGE TERMS ON A MODERATE DEPOSIT, AND BALANCE IN CONVENIENT INSTALMENTS.

At our city or branch offices we can give you full details and booklet of Haberfield, and an inspection of the suburb can be arranged at any time you suggest.

CASH REGISTERS.

What is "knocking?" This term in U.S.A. denotes the running down of the other man's goods—in place of selling your own.

"Knocking" is "bad form," "bad salesmanship," and "bad business"—it also clearly admits "inferiority."

Remember that, Mr. Storekeeper—when the "Knocker" calls.

AMERICAN Registers sell without this odious scheme.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

ANY PIANO WILL NOT DO—CHILDREN MUST HAVE THE BEST. If they are beginning to learn to play the Piano they cannot reasonably be expected to make a success of it if you give them an instrument with a harsh, tinny tone.

Why not come in to-day and make your selection from our stock of Pianos that are perfect in tone and in touch. Durability is certain, because we guarantee it.

We will take your old Piano in exchange. Send us a note with particulars. We sell on time-payment.

W. H. PALING and CO., LTD., 338 George-street, SYDNEY.

Sole Agents for Chappell, Bames, Estey, and Victor Pianos.

THE SECRET OF ITS SUCCESS. THE SECRET OF ITS SUCCESS can be said to be due to the superiority of the world-wide PIANOLA Organisation.

Expert efficiency and persistent endeavour has culminated in the PIANOLA PIANO, a perfect self-contained pleasure giver, which pours forth without effort unlimited beautiful music, free of the slightest indication of mechanical effect—music equal to that coming from the fingers of the greatest pianist who ever lived.

Very attractive and easy payment terms are offered. Ask about them. Let us send you our art catalogue giving you full information.

Why not call and hear this famous PIANOLA.

Pianos accepted in part-payment. Terms arranged to suit your convenience.

OTTO JOHN, LTD., 9 Barrack-street, Sydney (next Govt. Savings Bank).

SWEET-TONED AND RESPONSIVE THE "BEALE" PLAYER PIANO.

We have often been asked why the "Beale" Player-Piano is so un-mechanical so sweet-toned—so capable of the subtlest expression. First of all, the Piano is a "Beale" superb in tone. Then comes a Motor so sensitive that almost perfect expression may be gained by merely pedalling. In addition, eight controlling devices afford scope for the personal and tuition expression. There are other points of superiority which we can demonstrate when you call. Informal concerts held daily. Ask to hear a favourite piece.

INSPECTION OF MEAT AND ANIMALS.
Butchers, Slaughtermen, Health Inspectors, Police Officers, and the Public generally are informed that a Course of Instruction by Correspondence in the Inspection of Meat and of Animals has been established in connection with the Sydney Technical College. The Course will consist of two terms, and is intended to enable Inspectors, Butchers, Slaughtermen, or others living at such distances from Sydney or Newcastle as will preclude their attendance at the ordinary lecture classes to obtain instruction in this important subject. It is intended to give from 6 to 8 Practical Demonstrations at the conclusion of the Course.
An exceptional opportunity is herein afforded to ambitious men engaged in the Meat Industry to improve their position and prospects, and to qualify for higher, more responsible, and better-paid positions, for which there is a large and increasing demand for properly trained and qualified men. The Course is also of importance to stockowners, station managers, overseers, etc., as providing instruction in the nature and appearance of the diseases to which stock are subject, and as such alone would appear to be a valuable investment. Early application for enrolment is advised.
Full particulars will be sent on application to

LADIES.—
IT'S NO GOOD, CROAKER, MY BOY,
said a Wholesale Confectioner yesterday as he stood AGHAST at our SHOWROOMS. You're ahead of the times by years, and the people here are not educated up to this standard. Continuing, in England exported these sweets here they'd sell like HOT CAKES; but to ask people to believe they can make such WONDERFUL SWEETS without tools or moulds IS OVER THE ODDS. They won't believe you. LADIES,—We know we're ahead. We're ahead of English confectioners, as WE HOLD THE RECIPES until the war is over, but to say Australia is not educated to high-class goods is all bunkum. Besides, we carry every sort. If you will but see our exhibits in our windows you will see AN INCOME FOR LIFE.

WRINKLES.
Wrinkles in general may depend upon an unnatural use of the muscles, but also upon a lack of this use, with the result that the muscles become flabby, sinking below their natural level, and allowing the skin to fall with them, thus causing hollows, furrows, and folds.
It is well known that exercise strengthens faculty, but care must be taken not to over-exert a muscle or a group of muscles. A muscle is built up by gentle, systematic massage, but can be rendered entirely useless by rough, unnatural manipulation. If you call I will demonstrate to you the right and the wrong methods.
NETTOYER CREAM
will also help you to clear the skin of all secretions. It will clear and make a rough skin soft, giving it a natural, healthy appearance. 4/6 small pot, 7/6 large.
SUNBURN AND FRECKLES.
Guaranteed Permanent Removal by NETTOYER FRECKLE CREAM,
at 6/ per pot.
All Creams 6d extra for postage.
